Too Much Idealism in New President's Address to Suit Some of Beef Eaters.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 5.—While paying a tribute of admiration to the earnest and lofty tone of President Woodrow Wilson's address, the London morning papers express doubt that he will succeed in translating it into practical politics.

The Daily Telegraph says:

"President Wilson has plucked the string of pure idealism whose sound may be pleasant in the ears of his countrymen. But if Congress is to join in the work of reform it probably will be in response to irresistible movements in the nation itself, rather than in deference to the desires expressed by the President. Whatever happens, however, his Presidential term is certain to be a remarkable and vivid period in the modern development of the United States."

CALLS IT STATESMANLIKE.

The Morning Post says:

"It remains to be seen whether President Wilson is a great statesman. But at least it may be said that his address has statesmanlike qualities. Its thesis is not less remarkable because not pugnacious. It strikes a new note in American politics, of what ever here we call 'social reform.'"

The Graphic says:

"Every thoughtful man will wish the President good luck. Echoes of his noble address will bring to the old world of ours, in its mad pursuit, international uncharitableness and bloated schemes and military holocausts, a welcome reminder of better things and manlier strivings."

CHRONICLE'S VIEW.

"The United States must be heartily congratulated upon having such a true Democrat and such a fearless statesman at its head," says the Daily Chronicle. "And when some of the greatest nations seem to be making a mockery of humanity his clarion call should echo far beyond the American shores."

The Daily News says:

"President Wilson has set up a fine ideal, and, like a brave and upright man, has delivered himself into the hands of his judges by giving them a measure by which to gauge his loyalty to his cause and his fitness to undertake it."

The Express describes Mr. Wilson's address as that of an academic professor called upon to deal with practical politics, full of noble sound, but difficult to tell what it may signify.

Democrats Bar Republicans From Sharing in The Great Joy.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OLYMPIA (Wash.) March 4.—"Why should we allow Republicans to join with us in congratulating President Wilson on his inauguration?" the Democrats of the Legislature asked one another today. Finding no one to answer they refused to support a motion offered by a Republican leader in the house asking consent for a concurrent resolution of congratulation and the motion failed. Whereupon Gov. Lister, eighteen Democrats, Representatives in the House and nine Democratic State Senators united in the private telegram of orthodox Democratic congratulations.

"Nod Your Head If You'll Tell Where the Money Is," They Shout.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—Robbers tortured Mrs. Harry Jacobs, wife of a postal clerk, by binding and gagging her tonight and in her presence offering her 16-months-old baby a slice of bread spread with poison because she would not reveal where she kept her money, according to the story she told the police.

After binding the mother and tying the baby in its high chair, Mrs. Jacobs said, the three men took a bottle marked "poison" from a closet where drugs were kept and poured the contents on a bit of bread. The mother was told she would see the baby die unless she gave the information wanted.

"Nod your head if you will tell us," one of the trio said to Mrs. Jacobs as he held the bread out to the child. The baby knocked it to the floor. They repeated the offer and the baby again refused the poison. Abandoning this effort, the men searched the apartments. A pocketbook containing $23 was stolen and the thieves left the house before Mrs. Jacobs could release herself and give the alarm.

GOWNS WORN AT INAUGURAL.

First Lady of the Land Was Attired in Gray Cloth.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Wilson's attire for inaugural ceremonies was of gray cloth, trimmed with golden brown ribbed silk; coat of same material and small hat with trimmings of same shades.

Miss Helen Woodrow Bones—Gray-colored dress, gray hat with red feather.

New Executive of the United States Shouts from the Granite Steps of the Capitol Building a Clarion Summons to All "Patriotic Forward-Looking Men" to Aid Him in What He Calls a "Work of Restoration" Rather Than a Triumph.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey was inaugurated today as President of the United States and Thomas Riley Marshall of Indiana, its Vice-President.

Under the dome of the nation's Capitol, in the presence of a countless cheering concourse of his fellow citizens, the new President raised a hand toward a prophetic sun that burst through dissolving clouds and pronounced the occasion a day of dedication, not of triumph.

It was an intensely human, precedent-breaking inauguration. With members of his chosen Cabinet surrounding him, the justices of the Supreme Court before him, his wife and daughters actually dancing for joy on the platform below, and William Howard Taft, ex-President of the nation, at his side, the new President shouted a summons to all "honest, patriotic, forward-looking men" to aid him, extending the promise that he would not fail them in the guidance of their government.

While the President's concluding inaugural words were being greeted by tumultuous applause, the retiring President clasped his hand and enlisted as a patriotic servant in the ranks of private citizenship.

TAFT'S WELL WISHES.

"Mr. President," said Mr. Taft, his face beaming with a broadening smile, "I wish you a successful administration and the carrying out of your aims. We will all be behind you."

"Thank you," said President Wilson, and he turned to shake the hand of his Secretary of State, William Jennings Bryan. There they stood—Taft, standard-bearer of the vanquished party after sixteen years of power; Bryan, persistent plodder of progressive Democracy, thrice defeated, accepting a commission from a new chieftain, and Wilson, the man of the hour, victorious, mustering, as he expressed it, "not the forces of party, but the forces of humanity."

It was a political picture far beyond imaginings of a few years gone by, a setting that stirred the souls of the assembled hosts whose cheering at the scene seemed actually to reverberate from the distant Virginia hills.

MILITARY PAGEANT.

The military and civic pageant that followed this climax of the historic day was more than five hours passing in review. Leaving Capitol Hill at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the last of the marching thousands had not dotted their colors to the President in the court of honor until long after darkness had fallen.

President Wilson stood for more than an hour under the glare of myriads of brilliant electric lights as he greeted thousands in the long line, among them the host of Princeton students, who, as they passed before him, shouted a hearty greeting that he never can forget.

The music of the bands, the glittering of uniforms, and all the enthusiasm in the pageant that had gone before had stirred him again and again, but the sight of this cheering student army was to President Wilson an inspiration that brought cherished memories and joyous tears. Not long after the boys from Old Nassau had passed, he turned from the human panorama and entered the White House to grasp the wheel of the Ship of State.

SENATE CEREMONIES.

Ceremonies in the Senate Chamber which marked the dying of the Sixty-second and the vitalizing of the Sixty-third Congress, embracing the inauguration of Vice-President Marshall and the swearing in of the Senators-elect, never were more impressive. Though delayed somewhat by the course of legislation, necessitating turning back half an hour the hands of the clock, the interest was intense.

The procession into the chamber of the members of the House of Representatives, Ambassadors and ministers of foreign countries in all their brilliant regalia, the Chief Justice and justices of the Supreme Court in their sombre robes, the Vice-President-elect, President Taft and the President-elect, side by side, escorted by the members of the Congressional Inaugural Committee, was an awe-inspiring spectacle.

THE CABINET SEATED.

When all had taken their places and the members of the new Cabinet had been seated in the rear of the room, Mr. Marshall took the oath of office, administered by Senator Gallinger, at exactly 12:34 o'clock. He then delivered his inaugural address, in which he referred to the Senate as the "blinders of the governmental harness."

Then began the procession, from the Senate wing to the great amphitheater at the east front of the Capitol. After Chief Justice White, followed by the justices of the Supreme Court, had entered the inaugural stand, President Taft and President-elect Wilson appeared in the doorway of the Capitol. Their presence was the signal for prolonged cheers from the crowd assembled in the wide esplanade, the huge grand stand and perched fringe-like on the roof of the Capitol from one end to the other. Reaching the stand, the President-elect stood for several moments with head bared, acknowledging the plaudits of the crowd. Then with the President, the chosen members of his Cabinet, the Vice-President-elect, Speaker Clark and

One Unionite in the Cabinet.

W. B. WILSON IS MEMBER OF THE MINE WORKERS.

Secretary of New Department as Congressman Was Author of the Bill Creating the Position and His Appointment Is Said to Be Satisfactory to Other Chiefs.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William B. Wilson, secretary of the newly-created Department of Labor, was the author of the bill creating the Cabinet position, urged by union labor interests. He will probably lean towards union labor in all questions. His attitude must be satisfactory to union labor chiefs, for they have made no protest against his appointment.

He was born at Blantyre, Scotland, April 2, 1862, and came to the United States in 1870, receiving his education in the public schools. He worked as a miner from 1871 to 1888 and was a member of the National Executive Board which organized the United Mine Workers of America in 1890. He has been a member of Congress from Pennsylvania since 1907, his principal work in that body being confined to legislation demanded by union labor.

He resides in Blossburg, Pa., in the center of the mining district and the heart of highly-organized union labor.

AMERICANS PROSCRIBED.

EIGHT BUSINESS MEN "MARKED" BY GUSTAVO MADERO.

Men Named on List Have Disappeared—Opposition to Huerta in Capital of Mexico Dies Down. Loan to Be Utilized to Pay Claims of United States Citizens.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That eight Americans, all influential in the business life of Mexico, and some of them, or all, probably too influential in political matters, had been "marked," was verified today by the finding of a list containing their names in the effects of Gustavo Madero.

The authorities in searching Madero's belongings came upon the list, but have refused to make public the names. It was reported at the time of President Madero's death that a list containing the names of more than 100 persons, all marked as "unfit and should die," was also found. The Mexican officials did say, however, that all of the eight Americans named in the Gustavo Madero list, had "disappeared."

Evidence was also found in Madero's effects, the authorities stated, that proved beyond question that the Madero's looted the government treasury the day before Francisco Madero's arrest.

OPPOSITION DIES DOWN.

There has been no change in the political or military status of the capital during the past forty-eight hours. The government, if anything, is increasing its hold on affairs, while opposition is now practically nil, so far, at least, as the capital itself goes.

The government is in high hopes that the loan requested of the National Assembly, $120,000,000, will be voted at the next session. If this money is secured, it is stated that all claims of Americans will be liquidated immediately.

Mission.

MADEROS ON THE WAY TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HAVANA, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A long conference was held this morning between Francisco and Ernesto Madero, Congressmen Redon Zorrilli and Aguirre Garza, the latter of whom was lately overthrown as Governor of the Mexican Federal District, and other Mexican refugees prior to the departure of Francisco and Ernesto Madero to Los Angeles.

It is stated here that this conference resulted in the laying of primary plans towards regaining power in Mexico. The Maderos and their friends, on account of the popular revulsion in Mexico at the prospect of the return of a regime similar to that maintained many years by Porfirio Diaz, will strike their first new blow in Lower California.

CARRANZISTAS LOSE FIGHT AT CEDRAL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, March 4.—In a battle yesterday between Federals and Carranzistas at Cedral, State of San Luis Potosi, seventeen rebels were killed and many wounded. The Federals lost three men killed and five wounded. Twelve rebels were taken prisoners. The rebels were led by Miguel Acosta.

The Carranzistas apparently are extending their operations. Reports received today say that these rebels have burned the bridges on the National Railway between Monterey and Laredo.

TROOPS QUIT JUAREZ; MOVE UNEXPLAINED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) March 4.—Nearly all Federal regular troops are moving out of Juarez. The movement is unexplained. Loading on trains of the Mexican Central Railway tonight are 700 cavalry and all the artillery of the Juarez garrison. This will leave only about 300 infantry to defend the most important port on the border.

WILSON AND MARSHALL TAKE OATH OF OFFICE.

New President Makes Fervid Appeal for Counsel of Patriotic Men.

Inauguration Delayed Fully Half an Hour by Speech of Senator Poindexter to Kill Sundry Civil Bill—Taft Escorts Successor to East Room of White House for Simplicity's Sake—Tumultuous Scenes of Greeting.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Woodrow Wilson became President of the United States today amid imposing ceremonies and tumultuous scenes of popular greeting. Standing at the historic east front of the Capitol he swore the constitutional oath of office, and in his brief inaugural address made a fervid appeal to all patriotic men for counsel and aid.

DAY OF DEDICATION.

"This is not day of triumph," he declared. "It is a day of dedication. Here muster not the forces of party, but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward-looking men to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them if they will but counsel and sustain me."

MARSHALL IN OFFICE.

Vice-President Marshall had been inaugurated in the Senate chamber only shortly before, and, at the conclusion of President Wilson's inaugural address, the party hurried back to the White House ahead of the inaugural procession, where Mr. Taft said good-by to President Wilson and prepared to leave at once for Augusta, Ga.

A GRAY DAY.

Inauguration day dawned cold and gray. A solid bank of heavy clouds completely shut off the sun and threatened to carry out the official prediction of "unsettled weather" in the afternoon or at night, although the sun later broke through the clouds occasionally for a moment or two.

With a temperature between 45 and 50 degrees, a light south wind fanned the city, but no such discomfort as attended the inauguration blizzard of four years ago was threatened.

About the Shoreham Hotel, where Mr. Wilson was stopping, a small crowd, kept at a distance by police, waited for a glimpse of the new President as he started on his way.

Just after 8 o'clock, the disappearance of a pair of shoes which had reposed all night outside of Mr. Wilson's door indicated to members of his personal party that he had arisen for the day.

Mrs. Wilson and daughters did not arise to join the incoming President at breakfast. He ate alone in his room and within a little more than a half-hour after he had arisen, was ready for the day's events. Practically nothing was scheduled for his attention before the departure for the White House to begin the ride to the Capitol.

President Taft, after a few hours' sleep, was discovered by White House attendants, at work in his study before breakfast. He joined Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen just before 9 o'clock in the private dining-room for breakfast.

THE CROWD ASSEMBLES.

Three hours before the ceremonies at the Capitol were scheduled to begin the entire east front was packed with a crowd which seemed to be patient, good natured and content to wait.

Scenes about the Shoreham Hotel and the White House became more active as the morning wore on. The Princeton and University of Virginia students who were to form the line between which Mr. Wilson was to pass on his way to the White House, began arriving.

The noted Essex troop, Mr. Wilson's escort, and the Culver black horse troop, Mr. Marshall's escort, appeared. The bright, full-dress uniforms of the riders and their mettlesome horses lent an air of action.

Mr. Wilson instructed his secretary, Mr. Tumulty, to learn at what time it would be proper to transmit his Cabinet nominations to the Senate.

BRYAN CALLS.

William J. Bryan, who is slated to be Secretary of State, called early today with William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to see Mr. Wilson. The three went into a conference in Mr. Wilson's room.

When Mr. Bryan came out he held in his hand one of the ten invitations which have been issued to the new Cabinet members providing places for them in the Senate chamber today.

"Good morning, Mr. Secretary," cried a chorus of voices as the distinctive envelope was seen.

"Good morning, gentlemen," returned Mr. Bryan with a broad smile, and then he went to call on Mr. Marshall, who has a suite in the same hotel.

WILSON MEETS SCRIBES.

After his conference with Mr. Bryan, Mr. Wilson met the newspaper correspondents. He was wearing a frock coat and a rose-colored tie. He said he had been informed by Congressional leaders that the business of the extra session would be ready by April 1, but he added that the date was subject to change.

At the time Senators Pomerene, Bacon and Overman and Representatives Rucker, McKinley and Garrett, the Congressional committee in charge of the ceremonies, arrived to take Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall to the White House.

Secretary Tumulty paid a short visit to the White House office to determine when President Wilson's nominations should be sent to the Senate.

It was decided, as the Senate would not be in session immediately after Mr. Wilson takes the oath, that the nominations would be sent in tomorrow. The Cabinet slate, however, stands as announced last night.

TO THE WHITE HOUSE.

At 9:45 a.m. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall, accompanied by the Congressional Committee, began the short drive to the White House. The Culver and Essex troops trotted along as their escort. The students of Princeton and Virginia, in long lines on each side of the street, fell in behind the procession and followed it to the White House.

The official party quickly passed into the White House to await the beginning of the drive to the Capitol.

FOR SIMPLICITY'S SAKE.

President Taft, having in mind the incoming President's desire for simplicity, escorted him to the east room of the White House, instead of the blue room, which is the formal reception place of dignitaries.

The stay in the White House was brief.

RIDE TO THE CAPITOL.

At 10:17 o'clock the ride to the Capitol began. In the first carriage were President Taft and Mr. Wilson, Mr. Taft occupying the right-hand seat. With them were Senators Crane and Bacon. In the second carriage Mr. Marshall sat at Senator Overman's right and with him was also Representative Rucker. In the third carriage came Representatives McKinley and Garrett. The streets were packed and Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson gave their acknowledgments to roars of cheers.

Vice-President Marshall's carriage followed closely, and immediately behind marched the White House correspondents and the newspaper men who have been with Mr. Wilson in his campaign.

The carriages and their escorts whirled up to the main entrance of the Capitol to the greetings of the massed multitude in the stands and the less fortunate who were perched on every point of vantage and packed into all available spaces.

IN THE CAPITOL.

President Taft and Mr. Wilson were at once escorted to the President's room, where Mr. Taft took up the work of signing bills. Mr. Marshall went to the Vice-President's room, accompanied by members of the committee, and was met by President Pro Tem. Gallinger.

When President Taft and Mr. Wilson approached the President's room Mr. Taft turned to the President-elect and said:

"Well, Mr. President, here's your room."

The two men passed inside and as they did so Mr. Taft spied Mr. Bryan outside in the corridor and invited him to enter.

"I don't know whether I can come in there or not," said Mr. Bryan. "I'm not President, you know."

"Well, I'm still President," returned Mr. Taft, "and I invite you in."

SO BRYAN ENTERS.

Mr. Bryan entered.

Mrs. Wilson and her daughters meanwhile took the places reserved for them in the Senate gallery and were the center of all eyes. Mrs. Wilson wore a tan cloth frock with a brown ribbed silk coat and a small hat to match. Miss Margaret Wilson wore blue silk poplin, Miss Jessie Wilson lavender broadcloth and Miss Eleanor Wilson a frock of bright blue.

READY TO ADJOURN.

At 11:30 o'clock committees from the House and Senate waited on President Taft in the marble room and gave formal notification that Congress was ready to adjourn.

Neither Mrs. Taft nor any other member of the President's family occupied the space reserved for them in the Senate galleries or on the stand at the east front. Mrs. Taft and her daughter went to the home of Miss Mabel Boardman to wait the coming of Mr. Taft after the inauguration ceremonies, when they all were to depart for Augusta, Ga.

Among the first bills President Taft signed were the Rivers and Harbors, Public Buildings, Agricultural and General Deficiency.

MARSHALL APPEARS.

Mrs. Marshall, from her place in one of the galleries, accompanied by Miss Caroline Howland of Indianapolis, waved to her husband as he came

WILSON, IN HIS ADDRESS PUTS DUTY ABOVE PARTY.

Points Out in Inaugural Speech That Evil Has Come With the Good in the American Government and Says People Turned to Democrats to Interpret Change in Its Own Plans and Point of View.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Wilson's inaugural address was as follows:

There has been a change of government. It began two years ago, when the House of Representatives became Democratic by a decisive majority. It has now been completed. The Senate about to assemble will also be Democratic. The offices of President and Vice-President have been put into the hands of Democrats. What does the change mean? That is the question that is uppermost in our minds today. That is the question I am going to try to answer, in order, if I may, to interpret the occasion.

It means much more than the mere success of a party. The success of a party means little except when the nation is using that party for a large and definite purpose. No one can mistake the purpose for which the nation now seeks to use the Democratic party. It seeks to use it to interpret a change in its own plans and point of view. Some old things with which we had grown familiar, and which had begun to creep into the very habit of our thought and of our lives, have altered their aspect as we have latterly looked critically upon them, with fresh, awakened eyes; have dropped their disguises and shown themselves alien and sinister. Some new things, as we look frankly upon them, willing to comprehend their real character, have come to assume the aspect of things long believed in and familiar, stuff of our own convictions. We have been refreshed by a new insight into our own life.

We see that in many things that life is very great. It is incomparably great in its material aspects, in its body of wealth, in the diversity and sweep of its energy, in the industries which have been conceived and built up by the genius of individual men and the limitless enterprise of groups of men. It is great, also, very great, in its moral force. Nowhere else in the world have noble men and women exhibited in more striking forms the beauty and the energy of sympathy and helpfulness and counsel in their efforts to rectify wrong, alleviate suffering, and set the weak in the way of strength and hope. We have built up, moreover, a great system of government, which has stood through a long age as in many respects a model for those who seek to set liberty upon foundations that will endure against fortuitous change, against storm and accident. Our life contains every great thing, and contains it in rich abundance.

But the evil has come with the good, and much fine gold has been corroded. With riches has come inexcusable waste. We have squandered a great part of what we might have used, and have not stopped to conserve the exceeding bounty of nature, without which our genius for enterprise would have been worthless and impotent, scorning to be careful, shamefully prodigal as well as admirably efficient. We have been proud of our industrial achievements, but we have not hitherto stopped thoughtfully enough to count the human cost, the cost of lives snuffed out, of energies overtaxed and broken, the fearful physical and spiritual cost to the men and women and children upon whom the dead weight and burden of it all has fallen pitilessly the years through. The groans and agony of it all had not yet reached our ears, the solemn, moving undertone of our life, coming up out of the mines and factories and out of every home where the struggle had its intimate and familiar seat. With the great government went many deep secret things which we too long delayed to look into and scrutinize with candid, fearless eyes. The great government we loved has too often been made use of for private and selfish purposes, and those who used it had forgotten the people.

At last a vision has been vouchsafed us of our life as a whole. We see the bad with the good, the debased and decadent with the sound and vital. With this vision we approach new affairs. Our duty is to correct the evil without impairing the good, to purify and humanize every process of our common life without weakening or sentimentalising it. There has been something crude and heartless and unfeeling in our haste to succeed and be great. Our thought has been "Let every man look out for himself, let every generation look out for itself," while we reared giant machinery which made it impossible that any but those who stood at the levers of control should have a chance to look out for themselves. We had not forgotten our morals. We remembered well enough that we had set up a policy which was meant to serve the humblest as well as the most powerful, with an eye single to the standards of justice and fair play, and remembered it with pride. But we were very heedless and in a hurry to be great.

SOBER SECOND THOUGHT.

We have come now to the sober second thought. The scales of heedlessness have fallen from our eyes. We have made up our minds to square every process of our national life again with the standards we so proudly set up at the beginning and have always carried at our hearts. Our work is a work of restoration.

We have itemized with some degree of particularity the things that ought to be altered and here are some of the chief items: A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world, violates the just principles of taxation, and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests; a banking and currency system based upon the necessity of the government to sell its bonds fifty years hence and perfectly adapted to concentrating cash and restricting credits; an industrial system which, take it on all its sides, financial as well as administrative, holds capital in leading strings, restricts the liberties and limits the opportunities of labor, and exploits without renewing or conserving the natural resources of the country; a body of agricultural activities never yet given the efficiency of good business undertakings or served as it should be through the instrumentalities of science taken directly to the farm or afforded the facilities of credit best suited to its practical needs; waste lands unreclaimed, forests untended, fast disappearing without plan or prospect of renewal, unregarded waste heaps at every mine. We have studied as perhaps no other nation has the most effective means of production, but we have not studied cost or economy; we should either as organizers of industry, as statesmen, or as individuals.

Nor have we studied and perfected the means by which government can be put at the service of humanity, in safeguarding the health of the nation, the health of its men and its women and its children, as well as the rights in the struggle for existence. This is no sentimental duty. The basis of government is justice, not pity. These are matters of justice. There can be no equality of opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politic, if men and women and children be not shielded in their lives, their very vitality, from the consequences of great industrial and social processes which they cannot alter, control, or singly cope with. Society must see to it that it does not crush or weaken or damage its constituent parts. The first duty of law is to keep sound the society it serves. Sanitary laws, pure food laws, and laws determining conditions of labor which individuals are powerless to determine for themselves are intimate parts of the very business of justice and legal efficiency.

These are some of the things we ought to do, and not leave the other undone, the old-fashioned, easy-to-be-neglected, fundamental safeguarding of property and of individual right. This is the high enterprise of the new day: to lift everything that concerns our life as a nation to the light that shines from the hearthfire of every man's conscience and vision of the right. It is inconceivable we should do this as partisans; it is inconceivable we should do it in the spirit of mere party processes; it is ignorance of the facts as they are to do it in blind haste. We shall seek only to destroy. We shall deal with our economic system as it is and as it must be modified, not as it might be if we had a clean sheet of paper to write upon; and step by step we shall take it what it should be, in the spirit of those who question their own wisdom and seek counsel and knowledge, not shallow self-satisfaction or the excitement of extraordinary things. We cannot tell. Justice, and only justice, shall always be our motto.

And yet it will be no cool process of mere science. The nation has been deeply stirred, stirred by a great passion, stirred by the knowledge of wrong, of ideals lost, of government too often debauched and made an instrument of evil. The feelings with which we face this new age of opportunity sweep through us like some air out of God's own presence, where justice and mercy are reconciled and the judge and the brother are one. We know our task to be no mere task of politics but a task which shall search us through and through, whether we be able to understand our time and the need of our people, whether we be indeed their spokesmen and interpreters, whether we have the vision and the heart to comprehend and the mind and will to choose our high course of action.

This is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication. Here muster, not the forces of party, but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward-looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them, if they will but counsel me and sustain me!

"OUR DUTY TO CLEANSE AND RESTORE," DECLARES WILSON.

Following are phrases and sentences from President Wilson's inaugural address:

We have squandered a great part of what we might have used and have not stopped to conserve the exceeding bounty of nature.

The great government we loved has too often been made use of for private and selfish purposes and those who used it had forgotten the people.

Our duty is to cleanse, to reconsider, to restore, to correct the evil without impairing the good.

We must alter the tariff, the banking and currency system, the industrial system, give business efficiency to agriculture, utilize all natural resources.

We have studied, as perhaps no other nation has, the most effective means of production, but not cost or economy.

Justice to our people demands sanitary laws, pure food laws and laws determining conditions of labor.

It is inconceivable that we should do this as partisans. We shall restore, not destroy.

We shall make our economic system step by step what it should be,

Taft Signs Bill Creating New Department.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Taft today signed the bill creating a Department of Labor with a Cabinet portfolio. President Wilson's nomination for this position will be William B. Wilson, now a retiring Representative in Congress from Pennsylvania.

In signing the bill the President left with Congress a memorandum expressing the conviction that nine departments are enough to conduct the government. He said:

TAFT DISSENTS.

"I sign this bill with considerable hesitation, not because I dissent from the purpose of Congress to create a Department of Labor, but because I think that nine departments are enough for the proper administration of the government and because I think no department ought to be created without a reorganization of all departments in the government and a redistribution of the bureaus between them. If there is one thing that is needed in the present situation it is a reorganization of our government on business principles and with a view to economy.

"I forbear, however, to veto this bill, because my motive in doing so would be misunderstood."

FEATURES OF THE PARADE.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Not fewer than 40,000 people, counting in the military and naval divisions, participated in the big march up the broad avenue. The parade lasted four hours—from 3:10 p.m. to 7:10 p.m., and its variegated features held the onlookers in a grip that never slackened.

Wild Indian war whoops were resumed when Chief Hollow Horn Bear and his forty redskins in full war paint and feathers headed the marching society of Tammany.

Wilson grinned with delight and Mrs. Wilson clapped her hands, but the President added a whoop of his own when the Princeton students passed the reviewing stand, giving tongue with a true Princeton "tiger." The President remained standing during practically the entire four hours. Marshall, too, stood up most of the time. The last man went by before the President's party left the court of honor.

Still another equally interesting feature were the blue and gray mixed veterans. In addition to men who had fought for the Union was a gallant muster of others who fought for the "Stars and Bars" a half-century ago. Co. B, a familiar Confederate veterans' organization, brought many cheers, the members wearing their tattered uniforms and carrying the old muskets they used in the war. They marched with great enthusiasm, as it was the first time that they had ever appeared in an inaugural pageant.

In the civilian section or division were the marching clubs, the colleges men, the various political organizations and civic bodies.

The comedy of the pageant was furnished by this division. Although there was an embargo on horns and other noisemaking instruments the paraders were well armed with such devices and made their presence felt. The collegians wore broad-brimmed sashes of their respective college colors and gaudy bands on their hats. Umbrellas carried in this division also showed a wealth of color effects, the irrepressible colonial hat being rampant.

Goes to Augusta, Ga., and Thence to New Haven.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—William H. Taft, public servant since he was 21, said farewell today to public life and became a citizen of the republic that he has served over the seas and throughout the world for so many years that he has almost forgotten when he enlisted. His goodbye was a smile; a handshake for the members of his Cabinet; a courtly bow to the women friends who braved the inaugural discomforts to bid him and Mrs. Taft "God speed" in the Union Station; a wave of the hand and another smile for the people who stood in the trainshed and watched his train pull slowly out for the South.

TO REST IN GEORGIA.

He expects to be in Georgia to rest and play as the guest of the city of Augusta for three weeks. On March 27 he plans to go north again to New Haven to assume his duties as professor of law. He left with no bitterness in his heart, he told friends, but only with thankfulness that he had been given the opportunity to serve. Absorbed as it was in the inaugural pageant Washington did not forget the man, the retiring President. Although he was hurried in one of the White House cars from the back of the White House over back streets, hundreds of those on the sidewalks, who recognized him, cheered lustily. He was forced to break through the line of march in front of the capitol to get to the Union Station and the massed thousands forgot the parade for a moment to pay their last tribute of applause.

FRIENDS AT STATION.

At the station most of the members of the Taft Cabinet and their wives and several close friends of Mrs. Taft were waiting. Miss Helen wept gently as the farewells were said and the eyes of some of the others were far from dry. With all the ceremony that has attended his departure on other occasions, the roped passage way across the broad concourse, the score of station police, the secret service men and his former aide, Maj. Thomas L. Rhoads, with his spurs clinking on the stone, Mr. Taft marched through a cheering throng to his train. He stood for a few minutes by the side of his car, shook hands once more with his friends and then stepped aboard.

BUSY DAY FOR TAFT.

This has been a busy day for Mr. Taft. Although he was up until 3 o'clock he slept only four hours and was at his study desk again to wind up the business of his administration. He worked with only a few minutes for breakfast until Mr. Wilson started from his hotel to the White House. He spent an hour signing bills, vetoing others, and in between times talking with Mr. Wilson and Senators and Representatives who paid their last call. At the White House luncheon the President sat and chatted for ten minutes with Mrs. Wilson.

BURTON DISAPPOINTED.

Ohio Senator Will Continue Fight for Niagara Falls Bill at the Next Session.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—[Special Dispatch.] Senator Burton was disappointed at the failure of the bill for the preservation of Niagara Falls and he gave notice that the fight for it would be renewed at the next session. It passed the House unanimously but in the Senate its passage was blocked by the objection of Senator O'Gorman. The shipping bill also failed because of the President's decision not to approve of it. "On some accounts," said Senator Burton, "I should have liked to see that bill receive the signature of President Taft."

Senator Burton is greatly exhausted by the labors of the session, particularly the closing days, when he seldom got more than three hours' sleep in the twenty-four. He will remain here for a few days, but on Friday evening he will depart for Cleveland, and soon after he will take two weeks' rest somewhere in Ohio before returning to Washington for what promises to be an arduous session.

"Mayor Baker is here, I am told," said the Senator, "and I regret that I have not yet seen him; but I have been very, very busy."

CABINET WOMEN RUN SOCIAL END.

Mrs. Bryan to Handle Wives of the Diplomatists

Mrs. Burleson Is Already Known in Washington.

All Are Well Qualified For Parts They Will Fill.

BY ELENOR BOOTH SIMMONS.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—[Special Dispatch.] The Cabinet is the strong link between the President and the people and the women of the Cabinet are the important smaller links which make the chain. They furnish the oil for the easy running of the social end of the government and in a city where a dinner party makes or loses a cause their value cannot be overestimated. Had Mr. Wilson allowed the women of the country to select the Cabinet for the qualifications of their wives alone, there would be a big O. K. after every name. For instance, had Mr. Bryan been selected as Secretary of State simply because he is the husband of Mrs. Bryan, the choice would have been regarded as wise. Mrs. Bryan knows Washington from the smallest detail of its governmental machine to the complicated maze of social intricacies which surround a Cabinet woman. To her will fall the delicate task of maintaining friendly relations between the wives of all foreign diplomats and other women of the Cabinet and the social world at large.

MRS. BRYAN STANDS THIRD.

She too will preside at the most brilliant entertainments, other than White House State functions, the diplomatic breakfast on New Year's Day. She will stand third in place in the receiving line at the White House receptions and will be the social mentor for other women of the official world.

Mrs. Bryan was born June 17, 1861, at Perdy, Ill., and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Baird, combining English and Scotch ancestry. June 1, 1881, she was grad-

Iroquois Club of San Francisco Has the Only Skirted Marcher in the Parade.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—[Special Dispatch.] The Iroquois Club of San Francisco had the honor of having the only woman in line in the parade today. There were only seven enthusiasts from the Pacific Coast in line and the lone woman walked bravely in the middle, proudly waving her yellow banner as she passed the Presidential stand.

FOUR HUNDRED INJURED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Although the known casualties for the day and night reached a total of about 400, few were serious and most of them were of a minor nature. Many of the injured, especially those who received burns at the display of fireworks tonight, went for treatment to hospitals in the downtown section without the aid of ambulances.

ELDERS MEET MISHAPS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the death of G. S. Easton, who succumbed here yesterday to heart failure, a trend of singular circumstances surrounding prominent business men of this city has come to light. Easton, J. Clayes and B. Ferguson were all close friends and elders of the First Presbyterian Church. Several months ago Clayes, while attending a church convention in the East, fell and broke his leg, and is yet unable to walk. A week ago Ferguson, while in the country, suffered a similar accident, breaking his right arm. At about the same time Easton fell from his bicycle in this city and broke his leg, dying yesterday.

"The Bank that treats you RIGHT"

A Million Dollar Bank—

We've just passed the million mark—over a million dollars in resources. Furthermore, we increased our deposits over 25 per cent. in 1912—since Jan. 1st, 1913, they've increased over 20 per cent. There must be something behind a growth so phenomenal—a percentage of increase that far outstrips the normal development of the city. And there is something behind it. The answer is simple. One word sums it up. Service—SERVICE—It's purely and simply a case of service. And it's just because our interpretation of the word is so much bigger and broader—so much more comprehensive, than most people's, that we've made such a record.

"Service," as we interpret it, means unfailing courtesy—it means a warm, personal interest in your success—it means advice freely given when requested—it means co-operation for mutual success. "Service" in this bank means all this, and a good deal more. You must become one of our depositors to grasp it thoroughly. Why not drop in today?

REBUILT Cadillac CARS

Are Worthy of Your Serious Consideration

If you wish to economize on the first cost you can still protect yourself from cheaper goods by purchasing a rebuilt Cadillac. By rebuilt cars we mean cars that have been thoroughly overhauled and every worn part replaced. These cars carry the Don Lee guarantee, and that guarantee means something in California.

This should be considered strictly as a business proposition. The future upkeep is to be remembered.

Also a cheaper new car, costing as much as the rebuilt Cadillac, will not sell for as much on the open market after two years of service and will not sell as readily.

These points should be given your serious consideration if you have any intention of purchasing a car costing less than the new 1913 Cadillac.

Cabinet Women.

uated from the Presbyterian Academy, Jacksonville, Ill., with first honors. She read law, and was admitted to the bar in Nebraska, solely that she might be of assistance to her husband in his career. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan were married in 1884 and have three children; the eldest, Ruth, is Mrs. Reginald Owen, a leader in all public movements for women and a brilliant woman; Grace, who is now Mrs. Richard Lewis Hargreave, and William Jennings Bryan, Jr., a student at Georgetown College.

Mr. McAdoo, the new Secretary of the Treasury, has been a widower for over a year and his household will be presided over by his eldest single daughter, Miss Harriet F. McAdoo. His married daughter will also be with him in Washington much of the time. Francis H. McAdoo, the eldest son of the Secretary of the Treasury, is a Princeton man of the class of '19. Miss Nona H. McAdoo is a student at Bryar Cliff, and William Gibbs McAdoo, Jr., is a student at St. Paul's. The family will be a notable addition to Washington society officially and otherwise.

McREYNOLDS A BACHELOR.

James McReynolds will occupy the same relation to the Wilson administration that Postmaster-General Frank Hitchcock bears to the Taft Cabinet, for he is a bachelor. He will probably have twenty invitations for dinner in a single night and become at once the lion of society.

Mrs. Burleson, wife of the new Postmaster-General, will need no introduction to Washington society or the public in general. She is already here, and she is widely known. She makes graceful use of her pen in playettes and work of a light and witty nature, and has done much that is more serious. It is said often: "What a pity Mrs. Burleson does not devote her entire time to writing, for she might take a prominent place among the playwrights."

Mr. and Mrs. Burleson make their home at the Powhatan for the present, but will probably take a house next season. They have several children, the eldest, Mrs. Richardson Van Wyck Negly, now making her home in Texas, where she and her first baby, a mere infant, were visited recently by Mr. and Mrs. Burleson. Miss Lucy Burleson and Miss Sidney Burleson are both students at Sweet Briar College, Va. They will be presented to society before the administration is over. Two of Mrs. Burleson's successes are the "Congressman's Secretary," and a witty sketch on suffrage.

MRS. DANIELS WELL KNOWN.

Mrs. Josephus Daniels is a graceful southern woman. She is already known here, where her mother, Mrs. Worth Bagley, lives. She is a sister of one of the heroes of the Spanish-American War, and a woman of many accomplishments. She has shown thus far positively no sympathy for the woman suffrage movement. Mr. and Mrs. Daniels have a family of lusty boys of whom they are very proud.

Mrs. Franklin K. Lane is already identified with the smart set of Washington society, as well as with the official set. She is fond of music, art and literature, and has an artistic home and likes dancing and the lighter accomplishments of society. Mr. and Mrs. Lane have two children, a son of 16, Franklin K. Lane, Jr., and a charming little daughter, Nancy Lane, 10 years old. They are both in school in Washington.

Mrs. Redfield, wife of the new Secretary of Commerce, is already pretty familiar with the duties devolving on the wife of a Cabinet member. She has spent part of each season in Washington since her husband became a member of the House. A Democratic woman said last night of Mrs. Redfield: "You cannot better describe her than that she just is exactly the type of woman you would expect to be associated with the Wilson administration, and has the same tastes, same tendencies, same likes and dislikes as has Mrs. Wilson herself."

She is modest, retiring and charming in appearance and manner.

The Secretary and Mrs. Redfield now live at the Highlands and probably will not take a house until next season. They have a married daughter, Mrs. Charles K. Grurg, whose home is in Montreal, and the one-year-old baby of Mrs. Grurg is a constant delight to its grandparents. Their son, Humphrey Redfield, is a student at Amherst.

CABINET WOMAN A UNIONIST.

Secretary William B. Wilson of the labor department of the government—the Department of Labor—will probably have the youngest hostess for his household of any Cabinet member. Mrs. Wilson has never spent much time in Washington since her husband's election to the House, having had too many home duties, and preferring to keep her young family on the farm. Miss Agnes Hart Wilson, the eldest of the nine children, has spent some years in Washington with her father, and is his secretary. They make their home at the Driscoll, but will select a residence nearer the White House for next season. Miss Wilson is the most remarkable as well as the youngest woman in the Cabinet circle, and has had by far the broadest experience in life. She is splendidly educated, and aside from being her father's secretary, since she was 16 years of age—she is now about 24—was private secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, and has been the clerk of the Committee of Labor of the House. She is a member of the Stenographers' and Book-keepers' Union and one of her most treasured ornaments is a watch studded with diamonds presented by one of the big labor organizations. And with all this Miss Wilson cares for dancing, cards and the lighter diversions of society.

FAVOR ROUTE BY CLARKSVILLE

Distance a Little Longer But Grade Is Better.

Los Angeles Contractor Is Successful Bidder.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) March 4.—Proponents of the Clarksville route as the connecting link in the State highway system between Folsom and Placerville today appeared before the State Highway Commission in support of that road as against the Green Valley route proposed by other El Dorado citizens. The Clarksville route, which takes in Shingle Springs, Clarksville and El Dorado, has been surveyed by the engineering department of the Highway Commission and pronounced the most practical.

GRADES ARE BETTER.

It was asserted that the Clarksville route was little longer, if any, and that the grades were better. It was also declared the population was centered along this route more than on the Green Valley route.

The Highway Commission has already spent $5000 for a detailed survey of the Clarksville route, and probably will not alter its decision in view of the reports by the engineers and the determined opposition to a change made by another delegation today.

MARSH GETS CONTRACT.

A contract for the construction of ten miles of State highway between Rancho El Sino and Calabasas in Los Angeles county was awarded to John D. Marsh of Los Angeles. Marsh bid $56,555, the lowest of seven bids for the work.

The contract for seven and one-half miles of work in Mendocino county, bids for which were opened last Friday, was taken under advisement.

SANTA CLARA IS FIRST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, March 4. — That Santa Clara county's fame as a fruit-growing section stands on a substantial foundation is shown from figures compiled by Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, which places the county first among the fifty-eight counties of California in the number of bearing orchard fruit trees, first in number of bearing plum and prune trees, first in number of bearing apricot trees, and first in number of bearing cherry trees. In addition, Jordan credits the county with ranking fourth in the value of all crops and sixth in the value of all farm property.

These comparative figures will be included in an article on the county to be published in the State Blue Book:

The valpe of all crops amounts to $6,968,438 and the value of the fruit and nut crops alone to $4,234,874.

With a land area of 849,920 acres, Jordan finds that in 1910 the county had 734,819 acres for farms. The total value of all farm property was $67,187,549, showing an increase in ten years of $16,452,846, or 32.5 per cent.

SACRAMENTO, March 4.—Several cities in California have begun making arrangements for spring clean-ups as a sanitary measure for the summer, the breeding-time for microbes.

Dr. W. F. Snow of the State Board of Health is keeping a record of these cities, and has noted that Bakersfield was the first to take up the work. Sierra Madre, Berkeley, Coram, Chico and Richmond also have commenced campaigns.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At a meeting of the board of directors of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition this afternoon George W. Stewart was appointed music director of the exposition. Stewart is a resident of Boston, where for ten years he attained a wide recognition as a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. He subsequently organized the Boston Festival Orchestra and Stewart's Boston Band.

Stewart's experience as music director of the St. Louis Exposition, it is believed, will be invaluable to him in organizing this department of the 1915 celebration. Through his efforts practically every band of importance in the world was brought to St. Louis, and his success was unquestioned.

Since that time he has been engaged in arranging music festivals throughout the United States. Stewart is a native of Cambridge, N. Y., and the son of Dr. Joseph Stewart, who was a surgeon during the Civil War.

Farmer Sued for Damages Because He Killed Dog Charges Blooded Canine With Stealing Chickens.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JSE, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Lacking the big game of his native soil on which to prey, one of the blooded Russian wolfhounds brought by John Sabin, the San Francisco telephone magnate, to guard his Los Altos country place, became a chicken thief and his degeneracy caused his death at the point of a shotgun, according to the testimony of Samuel Smith, a rancher, who admitted that he killed the dog.

The testimony was given today in a local court when Smith appeared to defend a suit for $1350 damages brought by Mrs. Fred Merritt, daughter of Sabin, who figured a month ago in a fashionable wedding in San Francisco. Mrs. Merritt asked for $350, at which she valued the dog, and $1000 exemplary damages.

OVERRIDES WEST'S VETOES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALEM (Or.) March 4.—With five absentees the Oregon Legislature reconvened today after five days' adjournment to pass upon bills vetoed by Gov. Oswald West during the recess.

Of approximately forty vetoes, two houses had acted upon about when the afternoon session adjourned and about half of these were overridden.

Under the law of this State the Governor has five days to act upon bills passed by the Legislature. From the inception of the present regime the Governor and the legislature have had outs, and to checkmate a threatened wholesale vetoes, the Legislature when it adjourned Thursday did so for only two days instead of nine, as this would compelled the Governor to set on all bills before final adjournment.

At a caucus of the Republican majority held during the noon recess today, the decision was reached to reconsider each veto on its merits, although some of the more belligerent legislators favored continuing the fight on the Governor.

With one exception there was no new legislation proposed. The exception was a joint resolution tendering the congratulations of the State of Oregon to President Woodrow Wilson on his accession to office.

SHOOT TO KILL SAYS GUILFOYLE.

AMERICAN OFFICER DETERMINED TO GUARD BORDER.

Tells His Men if Mexicans Attempt to Interfere With Border Patrol They Can Retaliate and Declares Federals Started the Trouble on Sunday.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) March 4.—Each insisting that the troops of the other's command began the skirmish Sunday which was repeated this morning between Mexican Federal troops from the Agua Prieta garrison and soldiers of the Ninth Cavalry, Col. Guilfoyle and Gen. Ojeda stood firmly on their declarations tonight.

The American army officer declared that his men will "shoot to kill" if the border patrol is interfered with. The Mexican general asserts that his men did not begin the firing and that if proven he would execute anyone guilty of beginning the trouble.

There has been no further firing on the border near here since this morning. The Ninth Cavalry patrol has been increased to full force, including the machine guns, stretching from Douglas to Forest Station.

There is much excitement here. The city authorities consider establishing a special guard. There is an unusual number of Mexicans in the American town and much excitement among them. The rebel messenger arrested Sunday by United States troops was released today. Messages he carried have been sent to Washington.

"I have no unfriendly feeling toward the United States, and the shooting by my men across the border was without authority," declared Gen. Ojeda today. "I am sure the American troops misapprehended the situation," continued the Mexican officer. "I would execute any man under my control for firing a shot into the United States. The situation is unfortunate. I deplore it and shall bring all possible means to bear to bring the guilty ones to justice.

"My soldiers would not fire a shot across the line unles fired upon," asserted Col. Guilfoyle. "I know they have not. I deplore the matter as much as anyone could, but we will return the fire and shoot to kill as long as the patrol is interfered with. It is up to the other side to stop it."

Maderistas numbering 300 are stationed tonight so as to oppose the rebels under Gen. Ines Salazar, reported moving to reinforce the Federal garrison at Agua Prieta. The mobilization of Maderista rebels at Colonia Morelos, the American Mormon settlement, continued today. It is reported there are nearly 1000 men already congregated there.

Private dispatches received today say that refugees are fleeing from Hermosillo, the State capital, to Nogales, below which point rebels today cut the railway.

Gen. Gil, a Huerta commander, today captured 300 rifles and 50,000 rounds of ammunition from State troops who were marching to Alamos.

Sixty-Second Congress.

TAFT DENOUNCES UNION EXEMPTION

Vetoes Sundry Civil Bills Because of Provision.

Indian Appropriation Act Fails in Senate.

Police Action In Suffrage Parade Is Censured.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Two of the great annual appropriation bills necessary to the maintenance of the Federal government failed of passage today, when the Sixty-second Congress wound up its affairs.

Senator Fall of New Mexico, holding the floor through the closing hours of the session, talked the Indian appropriation bill to death with its $12,000,000 for the support of the Indian service, while President Taft wrote his veto on the $115,000,000 bill to take care of the "sundry civil expenses" of the government.

The House repassed the sundry civil bill over the veto, but when it reached the Senate, Senator Poindexter objected to any appropriation for the Washington police force, until an investigation had been made of the riotous scenes attending the suffrage parade Monday, and the Senate did not vote on the bill.

VETOES SUNDRY CIVIL BILL.

Mr. Taft vetoed the sundry civil bill because of its provisions exempting labor unions and farmers' organizations from prosecution under the anti-trust law. Most of the appropriations would not take effect until July 1, however, and the new Congress can prepare appropriation measures by then.

The provision to which Mr. Taft objected, provided that no funds could be spent in prosecutions of organizations or individuals for "entering into any combination of agreement" having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours or bettering the "conditions of labor" or for the prosecution of "producers of farm products and associations of farmers who co-operate and organize to obtain and maintain a fair and reasonable price for their products."

VICIOUS, SAYS TAFT.

This he declared was "class legislation of the most vicious sort" and would undoubtedly be held unconstitutional by the court. Referring to the farmers' clause, President Taft said:

"At a time when there is widespread complaint of the high cost of living, it certainly would be an anomaly to put on the statute books of the United States an act in effect preventing the prosecution of combinations of producers of farm products for the purpose of artificially controlling prices."

The special session of the Senate, which Vice-President Marshall called to order today immediately after the Sixty-second Congress ended, will assemble again at noon tomorrow to receive and act on President Wilson's Cabinet appointments.

TAFT VETOES SEAMEN'S BILL.

Tells Congress He Believes It Will Conflict With Treaty Obligations of United States.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Although President Taft exercised the veto in expressing disapproval of the Seamen's Servitude Bill, he left with Congress a short memorandum giving his views of the measure. The memorandum said:

"This bill is so important and so conflicts in its operation with the treaty obligations of the United States and has such possibilities of friction with the commerce of foreign countries, that in the short time that I have had since it has been presented to me, I do not feel justified in assuming the responsibility of allowing it to become a law."

The bill was designed to improve conditions of labor and living in the American merchant marine and to abolish involuntary servitude of seamen.

TAFT SIGNS UNDER PROTEST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Despite the fact that he signed the Public Buildings Bill today, President Taft sent to Congress with it a memorandum stating that he would have liked to withhold his signature. Because of many projects in it, he held to be meritorious, he added, he had decided to approve it.

"There are in this bill items aggregating perhaps half a million dollars that ought not to be in it, authorizing the construction of public buildings in towns too small to justify them," said the President, "and on that ground for the purpose of giving emphasis to my views on the subject, I should like to withhold my signature from the bill. But the bill contains authorizations for improvements so important in the development—and I say the unduly delayed development—for the city of Washington, that I cannot bring myself to defeat such worthy projects.

"The bill, in itself, contains certain restrictions upon future appropriations of a similar kind that may tend to prevent the vicious 'pork barrel' feature of bills of this character."

DOUBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EAST ST. LOUIS (Ill.) March 4.—Christian Sweitzer, 36 years old, and his wife, 34 years old, are dead, and Clinton Vernon, a young man, is dying, as the result of Sweitzer's attempt to effect a reconciliation with his wife, from whom he had been separated a month. Sweitzer, who was a livestock operator, went to the home of his wife's sister, Mrs. Cada Fuger, with whom his wife was staying. Angered at her refusal to return to him, he shot her, killing her instantly. Vernon, a boarder, rushed into the room and Sweitzer fired at him, inflicting a wound which physicians say will be fatal. Sweitzer, returned to his own boarding-house and shot himself through the heart.

Nursery Stock Arrives To Start Planting—

Big installment of apricot stock, which will be planted between the rows of olive trees, to come later, arrives and planting will begin at once on GIBRALTAR ACRES. Orange, lemon and olive stock will follow and in the not far future, young trees will be proudly growing on the orchard homes of buyers of Gibraltar tracts.

An immense gang of men will start in the last of the week laying miles of cement pipe. A monster load of tools has been delivered on the land and in a short time water will be flowing on every acre sold.

Another gang of skilled men is grading and levelling the tract, preparatory to planting. The streets are now graded and will be oiled as soon as weather will permit, and those who buy and live on these acres will have the best of graded streets—in fact, it will be a thoroughly up-to-date subdivision.

The Gibraltar Acres are the continuation of the same Bloomington soil which brought 8 prizes to this section out of 8 entries at the recent National Orange Show. Bloomington's showing was tremendous, always exhibiting consistently—always producing the rich, juicy fruit that wins.

You can raise this class of thin-skinned citrus fruit or fine, big ripe olives on your tract in Gibraltar Acres. The deep, sandy silt soil is there. The trees will be planted in this soil and there is no doubt of their great production. They will be planted by men who have known the land in this section for 20 years.

You have every shipping convenience. At the farthest point on the tract you will be but two miles from the big packing-house on the corner of the tract. Your big golden oranges can be shipped direct to any point in the world because the Southern Pacific bisects the tract and spur tracks gain immediate access to the cars.

$5 per acre per month and $20 down per acre, including principal and interest, secures a tract here from 5 acres up.

3 KINDS FRAUD BY TAILORS ARE UNDER INQUIRY

SPECIAL OFFICERS BUSY

(EXAMINER-MAIL)

Thorough investigation of alleged swindling systems resorted to by tailoring establishments was continued yesterday by Assistant City Prosecutor Stafford, who has been delegated by City Prosecutor Fitts to handle this inquiry. As a result, complaints against numerous business places may be filed in a few days.

Following upon the arrest of William McHabin, a clerk connected with the tailoring establishment of B. Gutzeit, a general crusade on tailor shops resorting to fraudulent methods of business has been launched. McHabin was taken before Police Judge Williams yesterday afternoon and his hearing set for next Tuesday.

Prosecutor Stafford said yesterday that many victims of swindling have been discovered as the result of dozens of complaints coming to his office in the past few weeks.

Complaints Are Frequent

"Dozens of several other matters I have just found time to go thoroughly into the men's tailoring game," said Stafford yesterday. "In the case of the Glasgow Company, I have had several complaints recently, including that of W. T. Hunt, who is prosecuting McMahan.

"There are three principal games used by many shops on Main and Spring streets. The first example is the most popular one. Another, regarding which I have had many complaints, is that men have gone into the store advertising on the outside that they will make it just so much and no more. On purchasing a suit they would pay a certain sum. When they received the suit there would be no vest. When the customer returned for the vest a small sign in the rear corner would be shown him. This sign read that no vests go with suits at a certain price, yet no one entering the store would be likely to notice the sign.

"We are going after these men, and also those who show the one sample and then sell suits from entirely different goods. Stiff has been brought to me through which a person would vouch a huge sum, though the sample was completely different. We also want to curb the 'capper' system to some extent, and, starting today, I will make a thorough investigation."

Many Under Suspicion

"All complaints that are made to me at this time will be used as foundation for cases, as we wish to rid the city of this nuisance. We have reason to believe that both Main and Spring streets contain many stores operating fraudulent schemes to gather money from those who are looking for suits.

"It will be several days, probably, before many other arrests are made, as we are carefully investigating some complaints that have come to us.

NEW JERSEY'S GOVERNORS.

President Woodrow Wilson's State Can Boast She Has Had Three in as Many Days.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TRENTON (N. J.) March 4.—New Jersey has had three Governors in as many days. President Fielder of the State Senate was sworn in and succeeded President Wilson on Saturday. Leon R. Taylor of Monmouth county, speaker of the House, was sworn in yesterday as acting Governor so that Gov. Fielder would officially represent the State at the inauguration ceremonies in Washington today.

IOWANS CONGRATULATE WILSON.

REPUBLICANS BROAD-MINDED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DES MOINES, March 4.—Both houses of the Iowa Legislature, controlled by Republicans, adopted congratulatory resolutions today and sent messages to President Wilson.

Take Oath of Office.

CABINET ENTERS.

All eyes were upon the ten chairs on the Senate floor which were allotted to President Wilson's Cabinet. Josephus Daniels and William G. McAdoo were the first to take seats there.

William J. Bryan, Franklin K. Lane and Representative Redfield took their places a moment later.

President Taft meanwhile continued to sign the appropriation bills until all had been approved, with the exception of the Sundry Civil Bill, which he vetoed. He let it be known that he would exercise the pocket veto on the Seamen's Involuntary Servitude Bill.

The Senate was not ready to adjourn at noon, the hour set for the beginning of the ceremonies of inauguration of the Vice-President, and the clock was set back to 11:25 a.m.

SENATE DELAY.

The Senate's delay in adjourning set the inauguration of both President Wilson and Vice-President Marshall back fully half an hour.

Senator Poindexter insisted on making a speech calling attention to disorderly scenes which attended the suffrage parade yesterday. He declared an investigation of the Washington police force should be made, before money was appropriated for it.

While Senator Poindexter continued to talk, with the evident purpose of preventing the Sundry Civil Bill from coming to a vote, the House of Representatives in a long line outside the Senate door, impatiently awaited entry. The diplomatic corps in full court dress also stood outside. Finally, with Mr. Poindexter still speaking, the House was announced and filed in. It looked as though there could be no vote on the bill, but it was finally taken up. President Taft's veto had characterized it as "class legislation of the most vicious sort."

Finally Mr. Poindexter gave way but with the understanding that no attempt would be made to pass the bill and the diplomatic corps was ushered into the Senate chamber, while all of those assembled rose.

JUSTICES ARRIVE.

The justices of the Supreme Court, headed by Chief Justice White, followed, in their somber robes of office, presenting an impressive contrast to the brilliantly garbed diplomats.

Mr. Marshall entered the chamber for the second time at 12:30 and took his seat, prepared to be called to the rostrum to take his oath. The ceremonies were then thirty minutes behind schedule.

MARSHALL'S OATH.

When all the guests were assembled, Vice-President Marshall stepped up to the desk and at 12:34 o'clock took the oath.

The formal programme of adjourning the Senate sine die and the organization of the new Senate over, Vice-President Marshall began to deliver his inaugural address.

While Vice-President Marshall was swearing in new Senators and returning ones, the remainder of the company began the march to the stands on the east front where the inauguration of Mr. Wilson was to take place. President Taft and Mr. Wilson were greeted with loud cheers as they came out the main door.

Immediately in front of the Presidential platform Maj.-Gen. Wood and his general staff held a clear space. Across it loomed a battery of nearly a hundred cameras and motion-picture machines, trained on the single spot where President Taft was to pass his mantle of office to President-elect Wilson.

The troops were prepared to give way when the delivery of the inaugural was begun so that the crowd might close in to hear. There was a lull in the ceremonies as the company assembled.

A mild wind blew over the stands and the West Point cadets and the sailors ran about in little groups to relieve the tedium, while the Presidential party slowly assembled. The east front of the Capitol, sweeping down from the dome to the ground and out as far as the Congressional library and neighboring apartment buildings, was brilliant with color. The weather still was cloudy, but there was no immediate sign of rain.

It was 1:11 o'clock before the procession to the stand had got as far as the diplomatic corps, so slowly did it move. This was because many remained behind to see new Senators sworn in. President-elect Wilson and President Taft bowed to the crowd and they took their seats in the center of the platform.

Maj.-Gen. Wood directed the closing in of the troops before the guests had all been seated and the crowd gradually edged toward the inaugural platform.

Speaker Clark leaned toward President-elect Wilson and the two shook hands, bringing more cheers from the crowd. Applause came from near the entrance of the Capitol.

Applause came from near the entrance of the Capitol door as former Speaker Cannon emerged, swelling into a larger volume as William J. Bryan came forward with the other guests comprising the membership of President Wilson's Cabinet. Gov. Fielder, successor to President-elect Wilson as Governor of New Jersey, came on to the stand with Senator Martine.

Senator Martine, Mr. Bryan, Mr. McAdoo, Mr. Redfield, Representative Burleson, Mr. Daniels, Franklin K. Lane, Representative William R. Wilson, Prof. Houston and the others of the new Cabinet, were escorted to seats, as the crowd voiced its approval.

Mrs. Wilson and her daughters took seats close to the square platform at the left. At Mrs. Wilson's request, Mrs. Marshall took a seat beside her.

The two women walked forward to the rail to look at the crowd. The Wilson girls joined them.

"DAS WUNDERBARE."

"Oh, isn't it wonderful?" said Mrs. Wilson, as she looked out over the immense gathering that extended so far that faces were not recognizable.

At 1:29 the last restraint on the crowd was removed and across the empty space of asphalt came a shouting mass of men and women waving hats, flags and coats upward to the direction of the President-elect. For a moment a dense sea of humanity touched the very edges of the inaugural stand, the military preserving their places with difficulty. Standing in the crowd shouted:

"Three cheers for Miss Nellie Wilson," and a good-natured laugh went up.

The Wilson Cabinet on the stand included all but James C. McReynolds, the new Attorney-General, who had been unable to accept the nomination to be present.

Mr. Taft, who had met with a good-natured smile on his face, as the crowd surged about, burst into a hearty laugh when someone yelled:

"Where is Teddy?"

It was 1:34 o'clock when Chief Justice White stepped forward and the party arose and President-elect Wilson raised his hand to take the oath of office. Cheers which greeted the rising fell to a hush as the Chief Justice repeated the oath to the President.

WILSON SWORN IN.

Mrs. Wilson, seated on a lower level, climbed on a chair at the edge of the platform and peered up at her husband as he repeated the oath after the Chief Justice at 1:35 o'clock. In a moment her daughter, Margaret, pulled another chair forward and joined her. A moment later, as President Wilson began his inaugural address, Mrs. Marshall joined them and peered over the rail.

Lieutenant - Commander Rodgers, naval aide at the White House, placed chairs for the other women and then all stood on tip-toe for a better view of the proceedings.

While President Wilson was delivering his address, the first vanload of the Wilson family's belongings reached the White House from Princeton. There were seven trunks, eleven suit cases, eleven umbrellas and several walking sticks.

There also reached the White House a large cake which graced the Wilson dinner table last evening. It was surmounted by a brown derby and a purple elephant.

President Wilson's voice at first failed to carry into the crowd, but as he raised it, he obtained close attention, which he held throughout the reading of his address. Although he had memorized much of the address he adhered closely to the text of the manuscript.

"RESTORATION."

A burst of cheers greeted the President's declaration, "Our work is a work of restoration," and it swelled into sustained applause and hats were thrown in the air when he said:

"A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world violates the just principles of taxation and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests."

From time to time, as the President spoke, the sun peeped feebly through behind the clouds.

BRYAN FIRST.

William J. Bryan was the first man to shake hands with the President. He then shook hands with Mr. Taft. The party then prepared to head the procession back to the White House and this time President Wilson occupied the right hand side of the carriage. The procession to the White House started at 1:57 p.m.

Vice-President Marshall joined from the inaugural stand to the Senate.

STILLS SAVAGE HEART

In the march back to the White House a cavalry horse reared beside the President's carriage and at one time it looked as if he would plant his forefeet in it. A dozen guards frantically rushed to grasp the horse's while President Wilson calmly leaped out of his carriage and patted the frightened horse on the neck.

At the White House reviewing stand, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bryan and practically all the Wilson Cabinet and their wives took places beside the President.

President Wilson passed between cheering throngs on the way back to the White House. The cheering was so constant that he rode most of the way with his hat in his hand. Occasionally, in response to a fervent outburst, he waved his hat good-naturedly and smiled.

THE FAREWELLS.

At the White House Mr. Taft said good-by to President Wilson and went to join Mrs. Taft and Mr. Hilles to leave for Augusta.

The inaugural procession, escorting the Presidential party at a slower pace, began to wind from the Capitol to the White House and back before passing through the streets of honor, until a luncheon being given by President Wilson to the Inaugural Committee was over. At its conclusion President Wilson took his place in the stand before the White House and the procession in review.

The luncheon at the White House threatened to delay the procession some time and the crowds along the streets became restless. When President Wilson learned this he left the affair short and just after 3 o'clock he and Mrs. Wilson went to the reviewing stand and the great procession moved by.

YOU—

OWE

SOMETHING.

You cannot afford to miss reading what I have to tell you. Unless I and the BANK PRESIDENTS, HEADS OF OUR LARGEST INDUSTRIAL ENTERPRISES AND SOME OF OUR MOST LEVEL HEADED BUSINESS MEN ARE MISTAKEN, the opportunity this announcement presents is one of the best, if not the BEST INVESTMENT in California today.

And we are NOT mistaken. Six months ago there might have been some element of doubt, but during this period our product has been THOROUGHLY TRIED and TESTED and its MERIT is PROVEN beyond all question. I will not ask you to take my word for this. YOU will be CONVINCED by the TESTIMONY of a "cloud of witnesses," from the officials of a hundred million dollar California corporation down to the owners of the humblest homes.

OUR business is not prospective or speculative. It is SOLID and SUBSTANTIAL and we are booking orders at better than two thousand dollars a week right now. This is just the beginning and is ONLY an INDICATION of the increasingly large volume we will do as our facilities for taking care of it are increased.

In fact, we are limited in volume and profits only to the extent of our ability to fill orders promptly.

We do not have to create any demand.

WE SUPPLY A

UNIVERSAL NECESSITY.

Edison did not have to create a demand for light—people were already using gas, and before gas, kerosene oil—all Edison had to do was to let the people SEE the superiority of electric light and PEOPLE THEMSELVES DID THE REST—they bought electric lights so fast that stock in the company increased from $300 TO $6000 in ONE YEAR.

WE SUPPLY A COMMODITY JUST AS NECESSARY AND JUST AS UNIVERSALLY USED AS LIGHT, AND THE SERVICE IS JUST AS FAR SUPERIOR TO PRESENT SERVICE AS THE ELECTRIC LIGHT IS AHEAD OF THE KEROSENE LAMP.

I could not begin to give you an adequate idea in this brief space—it is too revolutionary—the results accomplished are too wonderful—but I will be glad to explain in detail at a personal interview, or I will send you our twenty-four page booklet, which gives all the facts. YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF to investigate right now. CALL OR WRITE TODAY.

RAILROAD MAN FALLS DEAD.

Former Conductor on Southern Pacific Succumbs to Heart Failure While in Garden at Redondo Beach.

MANHATTAN BEACH, March 4.—William Slippy, for many years a conductor on the Southern Pacific Railroad, dropped dead this afternoon about 3 o'clock while working in the garden at his home here.

Slippy had received his mail at the postoffice several blocks from his property at 2 o'clock and deemed quite well. An hour later his body was seen in the grounds by the Santa Fe work train crew from the Santa Fe tracks near his house.

Mrs. Slippy is visiting her daughter in San Francisco and Slippy was occupying the house alone.

The former conductor, who had a run between Los Angeles and Yuma for several years, was about 65 years of age. His death was due to heart trouble. The remains were taken to the Cate undertaking establishment in Redondo Beach, and funeral arrangements will be made as soon as word is received from his relatives.

SANTA MONICA.

SANTA MONICA, March 4.—After a warm session in a chamber crowded with indignant Fremont-avenue property owners the City Council last night passed the ordinance of intention to improve that thoroughfare with paving, curbing, palms and concrete light posts. The resolution calling for bids will be passed after thirty days and once more the owners will have a chance to get their street improved. For a time the proceedings seemed doomed to be blocked when the owners could not agree as to the kind of palms or trees to be planted, but W. J. Cavanaugh and Bernard Sues stepped into the breach and declared that they would rather have cactus plants along the avenue than have the proceedings delayed.

According to a report presented last night the City Water Company, a private concern supplying water to Santa Monicans, is running away behind. The receipts for 1912, the report says, were $41,430, and the disbursements $53,056, leaving a deficit of over $9100. This is one of the companies which gave such poor service last summer, when the water wagon was called to supply householders.

State Senator Hewitt will address the members of the Knickerbocker Club on "Pending Legislation" at the Hill-street assembly rooms of the organization tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Finds Relief Forevermore.

Leaves Money and Home.

R. H. Hockney, No. 103 North Boyle avenue, who was married on February 22, gave his wife $225 Monday before going downtown and has not returned home since. The bride has asked the police to locate him. She could give no reason for his seeming desertion.

Boy Scouts' Council.

Thirty business men of the city will meet at Christopher's on Friday evening for the purpose of organizing a Boy Scouts' Council to promote the interests of the Boy Scouts of America. There are a number of patrols in the city, but they have no affiliation with each other and it is proposed to unite them in a permanent federation or something of that kind.

Grand Jury Report Soon.

The Federal grand jury yesterday continued the investigation of the charge against Frederick E. Harris, operating as Harris-Hillebrand Company, and the Columbia Paper Company, involving the presentation for payment of false claims for damages to the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads. It is expected that a report on the matter will be made tomorrow.

Checking Him.

Barney O'Rourke, a laborer, was arrested yesterday charged with having issued worthless checks. Detectives Leon and Williams, who made the arrest, said that O'Rourke is also wanted in San Bernardino on the same charge. He was out of work and passed the checks, it is asserted, on persons who had cashed others when he was working and had money in the bank.

Physician Heavily Fined.

A fine of $100 was meted out yesterday to Dr. T. W. Steddom, former member of the City Board of Education, on his plea of guilty, before Justice Young, to a charge of having prescribed morphine for a patient addicted to the drug. Dr. G. H. Beach, arraigned on the same charge, pleaded not guilty and was released under bond of $50. His examination will take place the 17th inst.

Fresno Jewelry.

Detective Farnum, who arrived yesterday to take a prisoner back to Fresno, identified the jewelry found in the possession of William Ryan, arrested here ten days ago, as part of the $800 worth of valuables stolen January 28, from Laubec's jewelry store in Fresno. Ryan said it was given to him by a man in Hanford. He came under the notice of the police by his lavish bestowal of rings and bracelets on young East Side girls.

Movies Go Right on.

Hibbard Acting General Manager.

I. L. Hibbard will assume the duties of acting general manager of the Santa Fe coast lines today, vice A. G. Wells, granted a six-month leave of absence because of failing health. Hibbard's duties as general superintendent will be assumed by J. R. Hitchcock, who has been superintendent of the Los Angeles division, with headquarters at San Bernardino. Trainmaster J. B. Galivan is Hitchcock's temporary successor as superintendent of the Los Angeles division.

President Ripley Here.

President Ripley of the Santa Fe arrived from Santa Barbara yesterday to take in the theatrical attractions and incidentally get his finger on the pulse of railroad affairs again. Chief Engineer Morse of Chicago and Assistant Freight Traffic Manager Chambers of San Francisco met him. According to Ripley, the new $1,000,000 second-track line from San Bernardino to Summit will be the most important coast line improvement this year. Work is already under way.

About the Extra Cent.

Assistant Passenger Traffic Manager Byrne of the Santa Fe, left for Phoenix yesterday to attend the Arizona Corporation Commission's hearing in the matter of the passenger rate differential. The duly-authorized passenger rate within the confines of Arizona is 4 cents a mile. The railroads have been allowed to charge 5 cents a mile, however, where a passenger gets on a train without a ticket. A case is now before the Arizona commission to test the legality of this excess charge, and Byrne goes to Phoenix as a witness for the railroads.

Signal Engineer Passes.

J. C. Young, formerly supervisor of signals for the Southern Pacific Railroad in Southern California, died Thursday in Omaha. The remains will arrive on the Salt Lake Limited train this afternoon and the funeral services will be held at Rosedale Cemetery at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Young, who left this city several years ago, was at the time of his death signal engineer for the Union Pacific system with headquarters at Omaha. He was a man of unusual personal charm and when a resident of this city was exceedingly popular in official railroad circles.

Clubs at Mission Play.

A prominent club woman telephoned the Los Angeles executive offices of the "Mission Play" to inquire if all the local clubs devoted to the interests of women are invited to participate in the 250th performance at San Gabriel this evening. This query indicates the interest the women of this community take in institutions truly Californian. This evening the jubilee of the Realty Club, Rotary Club, Traffic Managers' Association, and Southern California Hotel Men's Association will attend in a body and all club women individually are invited.

MAY NOT RESIGN.

Young Deacon Who Created Sensation at English Lutheran Church Before Executive Committee.

C. J. Multhauf, Jr., the young deacon who created a sensation at the First English Lutheran Church Sunday night by denouncing a New York young woman for the way the "Ave Maria" was sung, will not be compelled to resign from the council, according to a statement made by Trustee F. M. Runkle after a meeting of the Executive Committee last night.

Multhauf appeared before the committee and explanations followed.

Just what action will be taken ultimately is not made public, as the Executive Committee, greatly worked up over the publicity given the episode, has deferred making a formal statement until later, the date not being settled yet.

MAYBE HE'S GOING YET.

Backyard Comedy on Flower Street Springs Surprises All Around and Develops a Sprinter.

Judging from the speed with which a negro burglar scaled the back fence of the Miraflores Apartments, No. 420 South Flower street, last night, and got away from Dr. G. H. Hart, who had captured him, he must be miles away from this city.

Sarah Thomsan, who lives at No. 418 South Flower street, next door to the Miraflores Apartments, saw a negro trying to jimmy a window in the rear of the apartment-house. Running to her telephone she informed Hart. Taking his gun, Hart intercepted the negro in the act of entering the window. Holding him up at the point of his gun, Hart sent Sarah Thomsan to call the police.

Down on his knees went the negro, pleading with his captor for his freedom. Hart's heart was stone; the negro was a thief, and to jail he must go. Finding his pleading to no effect the burglar jumped to his feet, cleared the fence with a bound, and disappeared from sight, paying no attention three shots fired at him by Hart.

DOCTORS DINE LEGISLATORS.

Fifty "healers," representing all schools from the allopathic to the machanotheropathic, dined the Southern California legislators at Brink's last night and told them what they think of the American Medical Association and its allied body, the Association of American Medical Colleges, and, incidentally, solicited their favorable consideration of Assembly Bill No. 1512. This bill, drafted by the California Federation of Liberal Physicians, Surgeons and Healers, is designed, say its sponsors, to place all practitioners on the same footing before the State board as the American Medical Association membership. In other words, they say, practitioners are to be examined according to the tenets of their own school and not according to the tenets of one specified school.

DEADLY MOTOR CARELESSNESS.

Miss Loftus Blamed for Baby Margaret's Death.

Seek Law to Bar Drivers of Little Experience.

Police Traffic Expert Has Remedy in Mind.

Considerable feeling against the common practice of permitting comparatively inexperienced women—or men either—to drive automobiles in the city streets was aroused yesterday by the verdict of a Coroner's jury which blamed Miss Frances Loftus, Stanford student and society girl, for the death of little Margaret Boetsch, run down and killed by Miss Loftus's machine last Saturday afternoon. The verdict states that Miss Loftus was driving carelessly. Witnesses testified that she attempted to drive her motor between a standing truck and a moving street car, a space already partly occupied by Mrs. Boetsch and her baby, and that, if Miss Loftus sounded her horn, the mother did not hear it.

"We don't want any blood-money for our baby's life," said Mrs. Arthur Boetsch, Margaret's mother, when seen at her residence, No. 1011 East Forty-ninth place, told of the jury's verdict and asked if she would institute either civil or criminal proceedings. "Neither do we wish to be the instruments of Miss Loftus's punishment. The killing was pure carelessness, for the car was going slowly and Miss Loftus could have stopped it. Her family paid for the funeral, but we would not even have allowed that had we been able to do otherwise."

Funeral services were held for the dead baby at Riedeman's undertaking parlors yesterday afternoon, interment being at Inglewood. Miss Loftus was among those in attendance.

"I do not care to be placed in the position of blaming Miss Loftus for the killing of that little baby, but, had she exercised common judgment, she would not have attempted to pass between the truck and the street car," said Lieut. Butler of the traffic squad yesterday. "It was her duty to have stopped her auto until the mother and baby had got out of the way. Instead she went ahead, knocked down and killed the baby and brushed close to the mother.

"Had we an ordinance such as I will submit Thursday, seeking to compel chauffeurs to stop before reaching a standing car, that accident would not have occurred.

"Women, as a rule, are careful chauffeurs. But I am opposed to any person driving a car until they have first passed an examination. A woman is not as competent to drive as a man, and for several reasons. Her life does not bring her into contact with streets and traffic conditions as much as a man. Necessarily she is not as competent to judge distances and speed nearly so accurately.

"A woman attired in a close-fitting dress cannot stop as quickly as a man who is dressed in a loose-fitting suit. Then again, she has not the physical strength, as a rule, of a man, and it takes strength to stop the average auto quickly.

"There is a bill before the Legislature which seeks to govern these matters. It will, if it becomes a law, force any person who takes out a [illegible] for a car to pass an examination before he or she can drive it. And it is right and proper. They are examined by a State Commissioner appointed, I believe, by the Governor. The bill, as I understand it, was in conjunction with the State [illegible] law.

"We are having too many [illegible] serious accidents in this city. [illegible] with chauffeurs is ceasing to be a [illegible] tue. They must be curbed. Almost our bad accidents are due to carelessness or recklessness. Both can be remedied by law. More jail sentences or exceedingly heavy fines will do the work."

RIGHT-OF-WAY PLAN PROPOSED

CITY CONTROL OF TRACKAGE IN THE HARBOR.

Conferences Between Municipal and Railway Officials Look to Definite Proposition, and President of Pacific Electric Will Go to New York—Details.

Management of the railroad [illegible] age at the harbor by a holding company, in which representatives of the city shall have a majority of the stock, may be the solution of the difficulties over rights of way at Redondo desired by the city for the harbor boulevard and access to the water front.

The Mayor said so yesterday, [illegible] has been in conference with the Harbor Commission and railroad representatives at several meetings during the past week.

Another conference was held yesterday forenoon by the Harbor Commission, the Mayor, General Superintendent Platt, and the chief engineer of the Southern Pacific, President Shoup of the Pacific Electric. Practically all salient points have been agreed on in the proposed plan whereby the city will be in a position to drop its condemnation suits, and save several millions of dollars, while a proposed rearrangement of the railroad trackage will give railroad companies an advantageous situation, and they will have access to the municipal wharves now [illegible] holding company's trackage.

The approval of the higher railroad officials will be necessary before negotiations are closed, and Shoup will leave at once for New York, where he will present this subject in connection with other railroad affairs. He will be absent two weeks, and it is probable that a final decision will be reached before his return.

The general plan that has been under consideration for weeks, [illegible] plates a complete new layout of railroad trackage along the water front at San Pedro, and the possible [illegible] in of the Southern Pacific [illegible] lines that will give direct access to the city's wharves and water front. [illegible] age for trackage that would be under the hands of the proposed holding company, and whereon all railroads might have access to the Los Angeles harbor. The plan would also provide a highway along the water front in addition to the proposed harbor boulevard, and the rearrangement of trackage would provide for additional room for the wide boulevard originally proposed. The general plan would also require a large [illegible] ing yard for car service and [illegible] cilities for the various companies handling freight brought to the harbor.

"Thais."

ENTRANCING NIGHT OF GOLDEN STARS OPENING OF GRAND OPERA SEASON.

Society Makes Premier at the Auditorium a Beautiful, Glittering Function, and Mary Garden Leads the Way to Musical Heights Sublime. Most Brilliant Gathering in Los Angeles.

GRAND OPERA came to its own in Los Angeles last night at the Auditorium, and its own received it gratefully. "Brilliant" is the puny, overworked, browbeaten little cull word which is pleading for release from the type-tipped keys, and because there are times when the American language serves the groper little better than a vacuum, "brilliant" is enlisted for the war.

"Thais" was the premier opera, and Mary Garden was Thais—is Thais would be better—and Hector Dufranne, was Athanael, and the chorus was magnificent, and the Theater Beautiful was crowded, and society was out in force, and it was the greatest night musical Los Angeles has ever seen. Piffle! Piffle! Thrice piffle! Words are so much scattered cordwood fit only to be piled one upon the other in a vain hope of achieving semi-adequate expression.

The scintillant electric ball over le grande entrance to the Auditorium last night looked down upon a scene unexcelled for its beauty and magnificence. Every seat in the splendid theater had been taken long before the earliest vibrant notes of the orchestra proclaimed the beginning of the first all-star absolute metropolitan grand opera in the history of the city.

The wealth of Croesus and the splendor of the court of Nero passed beneath that ball of fire, carried on the backs, around the necks, fingers and ankles of the flower of southern womanhood—where it belongs.

COME EARLY.

The autos began arriving early and by 7:30 o'clock the lobby was filled with ticket holders, and tickless hundreds who were able to impress the police sufficiently to secure vantage points, while outside and across street thousands of spectators banked and watched with unabated interest each machine as it rolled to the curb and discharged its eager passengers.

Prominent individuals were often recognized by the watchful crowd, the recognition followed by a craning of necks and a series of whispered there goes so-and-so. Among the earlier arrivals noted before the crush became too great to disentangle personalities from the ensemble, were Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Churchill, Mrs. Pierpont Davis, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Griffith, Mrs. Charles Ernest Kaltenbach, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Holterhoff, Mrs. Hugh Livingstone Macneil, Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Mr. and Mrs. William May Garland, Mr. and Mrs. James Calhoun Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lippincott, Mrs. Chester Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Rogers, Mrs. James Soutter Porter, Miss Echo Allen, Mrs. Julia Benni, Mrs. J. B. Winston, Miss Caroline and Marguerite Winston, Mrs. Charles Walton, Miss Adalaide Walton, Miss Helen Durfee, Mrs. Willard Stimson, Mrs. T. J. Fleming and the Misses Fleming.

THE SCENE.

Liveried footmen met each automobile as it pulled up to the facade. A squad of patrolmen under Capt. Murray kept the thousands of curious proletariat at their distance, while inside the marble-pillored lobby the musical voices reiterating "book of the opera" turned the thoughts of many to that other home of genius, a continent away, where exactly similar scenes are enacted every year. But Broadway, New York, in the vicinity of Forty-first street, never presented a more brilliant scene than did Fifth street, in Los Angeles, last evening, the soft green foliage of Central Park over the way adding a touch of urban perfection that New York with her Metropolitan Operahouse can never possess.

Inside the theater those who were present were repaid before a note from the international songbirds fell from the inspired throats, and winged its way over the proscenium to find lodgment in the well-attuned ears of 3500 worshipers at the altar of Massenet.

Every seat was taken — $14,000 worth of precious pasteboard had passed into the possession of the ticket holders before the curtain rose, and Impresario Behymer, who did it all in his role of the "busiest man in the world," declared that it looked as though every dollar of the guarantee fund would soon be secured and the 120 citizens who stood back of the project with subscriptions of $500 each will be absolved from any further connection with the purser's department. Los Angeles is definitely upon the grand-opera map.

GEMS GLITTER.

The famous horseshoe of the New York Metropolitan never glittered with greater brilliance than did the loges and stalls and boxes of the Auditorium last night. A million and a half dollars' worth of precious gems shot their tiny gleams of radiance from the snowy background of lily breast, while from aristocratically-curved neck and tapering fingers other gems sent back their answering rays, and the thousands of lights which converted the building into night-blooming noonday were ashamed for their feeble opposition. Connoisseurs in the legendry of the precious stone aver that no such display has ever been seen before in this city at a given place and time.

In the audience were many whose faces are by no means unfamiliar to the "horseshoe" of our contemporaneous metropolis tucked away between the twin rivers, near the eastern sea, and while the atmosphere was distinctly Californian, and the night air wafted through the ventilators was scented unmistakably with the essence of the orange and the blossoms of spring, it still looked very natural to see in their places the Mershons of Detroit, the Piersons of Philadelphia, the Ripleys, the Buschses and other men and women well known to the national world of business and the inner court where society is spelled with a capital S.

GORGEOUS GOWNS.

The gowning of the women was upon a scale in keeping with the event. Many of the creations have been long in the making for society's culminating outpouring and so far as inventory of their beauty and costly folds is possible it is estimated that not less than $800,000 was represented.

Not all of the scintillant artistry of the designer was so plainly displayed, however, and it required closer observation to detect an artificial twinkle to many a silk-garbed ankle as the possessor thereof stepped haughtily from auto to lobby. A jeweler who knows says that $30,000 worth of jeweled anklets were worn at the opera last night, while throughout the day hair dressers and maids were at their wit's end to accommodate the demands for marcel and other curious waves of which mere man wots not successfully of. At least $25,000 was spent for this part of Milady's toilet alone.

PERFECT ARRANGEMENTS.

The house arrangements were perfect. For days a small army of maids, valets, ushers, footmen, attendants, guides and other supernumeraries have been drilled to a point of letter perfection, and the great audience delivered itself into the hands of these experts there was not a hitch.

The theater itself shone like a 1913 gold piece, and in silent evidence bore out Manager Behymer's statement that no plush had been left unturned to dull the finish of his accomplishment. New hangings, new carpet, fresh tarpaulin, every incandescent bulb replaced, and the orchestra pit remodeled, enlarged and ADMIRABLE SHOWING IN THE PRODUCTION.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

THROUGH a curious coincidence "Thais," composed by the greatest of modern French composers, was first written for an American singer, Sybil Sanderson, whose talent the master greatly admired.

Mary Garden made her debut in it at the Metropolitan, and last night she impersonated Thais at the premiere of the Chicago Grand Opera season at the Auditorium.

While in style, the play and the music are essentially French, it is curious that two American prima donnas should have been its best and most popular interpreters.

The production of "Thais," which at first met with little favor, to gradually become one of the favorites of modern grand opera repertoire, was last night in many ways admirable.

Cleofonte Campanini directed the music in a manner worthy of his reputation. Massenet's intent and purpose were never interpreted in a style more satisfactory.

The orchestra is excellent, specially strong in violins, reeds and harp of unusual quality. The conductor directed his musicians with an effective simplicity, keeping them at all times subordinate to the singers.

In the overture, preludes and the celebrated "Meditation," Campanini exhibited a subtleness and delicacy of interpretation in every way admirable.

The choruses are far above the ordinary aggregations that we are unfortunately too often compelled to accept. They show fine training and ensemble work of commendable quality.

The principal roles are Athanael, the cenobite who comes to save Thais, the courtesan of Alexandria, from her life of depravity, and finally makes of her a proselyte whom he conducts to a convent in the desert, Thais, the Sappho of Alexandria and Nicias, the profligate Greco-Roman Prince.

Hector Dufranne, baritone, impersonated Athanael and received a large share of the honors of the evening.

It is seldom that on any stage a more sympathetic voice is heard, mellow, rich, and well cultivated.

True to the canons of French grand opera, Dufranne possesses a well-balanced histrionic training which adds much to the illusion of the stoic cenobite, who, bursting with the desire of saving a stray soul, falls himself the victim of the god, Eros, whose statue he has shattered.

Mary Garden is Thais, the sinuous, passionate and temperamental courtesan of the decadent empire. In her remarkable acting she is Thais, the illusion is complete and realistic.

Her change of heart from the one of luxurious living, in riotous Alexandria, during the Greek occupation, to the one of meditation, remorse and prayer, is admirably graduated. In the impersonation of the woman of the underworld metamorphosed into a nun, dying in the convent of the Theban oasis.

Miss Garden's delicate soprano voice is especially suited to the role. Her French accent and interpretation are also remarkable as rare among foreigners using that language as vehicle of their singing.

The costumes are very attractive and historical and the groups of Greeks before the house of Nicias specially pleasing.

So are the monks forming a chorus of male voices of fine quality.

The scenery is commonplace, and its setting, could be much improved. But on a first night, off a wrecked train, it is wonderful that the arrangements were as good.

The omission of the well-known ballet at the end of the second act, is to be deplored.

Since this is supposed to be a ne plus ultra production in French, of this great French masterpiece it should not have been eliminated without even a word of explanation.

The music and the singers, both principals and chorus, are so superior, however, that they easily excuse any shortcoming.

L. E. Behymer has done great things for the musical and dramatic uplift of this city; he has never managed such a difficult and intricate proposition with a finer "Italian hand" and deserves the greatest credit for such an able care of the public's and the opera's interests.

Today, in matinee, will be given "Hansel and Gretel," in English, which is not a curtain raiser, but an opera in three acts, which will be followed by the second act of the "Tales of Hoffman" and the International Ballet Divertissement.

In the evening "Rigoletto" with Giorgini, Tetrazzini and an all star cast will be given.

The public should note the hour at which the curtain rises and be promptly in their seats.

Santa Fe will Provide Ample Equipment

There is some anxiety in the minds of visitors now in California about getting the sleeping car accommodations they desire to take them back home, especially during April and May. This notice is to assure all those with tickets reading by the Santa Fe that provision will be made for extra cars and extra trains sufficient to make everyone comfortable.

To do this efficiently, we must know in advance what demands will be made on us, and this makes it desirable and almost necessary that sleeping car space should be bought as far in advance of the date of departure as may be possible for travelers to determine.

The extra cars required must be brought from the East and we are prepared to do this and to run extra sections of any or all of the following trains:

EXPERIENCE OF MOTHERHOOD

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Slips of Memory.

MIND'S TABLET MINUS A YEAR.

TRAVELS, READING, AFFAIRS ARE FORGOTTEN.

Strange Story Told by Man at Receiving Hospital Is Seemingly Corroborated by Wife, Who Says He Is Subject to Spells of Forgetfulness—His Adventures.

Boarding a train at Akron, O., May 12 last, to make a business trip to Canton; "awakening" at Alamo, a small mining camp in Lower California, February 17, with no recollection of what had transpired in the interim; ignorant of the fact that he had three times crossed the continent; his ability to read and write lost, and professing not to know one piece of money from another, is the remarkable story narrated yesterday to Receiving Hospital surgeons by C. B. Anthony, 30 years old, an electrical engineer.

Hospital attaches declare it one of the strangest cases that has come under their observation.

Although Anthony declared he had never, to his knowledge, been in Los Angeles prior to having been brought here from San Diego by a man named Wellington, an Alamo miner, yesterday, it has been ascertained that early in January he called several times at the Methodist Hospital to see his wife, Mrs. Anthony resides at Compton.

"My last recollection prior to awakening at Alamo is of having boarded a train at Akron to go to Canton," said Anthony. "At that time I was assistant electrical engineer for an Akron rubber company. They tell me that a week before I awakened I rode into Alamo on a fine horse, leading two pack mules. I carried a rifle and two revolvers. I have no idea where I got them.

"They said that I wandered around the camp for a few days, and was then overcome by a nervous spell. Wellington, who had a cabin three miles from Alamo, took care of me. When I regained my senses a couple of days later it was like awakening from a sound sleep. I had no idea where I was. I told Wellington he lied when he told me the day and year. I insisted it was still May 13, 1912.

"When I was able to travel Wellington and I mounted horses and rode the trail to Ensenada, where we took a steamer for San Diego. From that city we came here by train.

"I remember that when I lived in Akron I was married. But have no recollection of my wife being in this city, as I have since been told she is. I have forgotten how to read or write. I don't even know one piece of money from another.

"I had money when I rode into Alamo, for when Wellington left me this morning to find my wife he said he had $200 belonging to me. I told him to keep it for his trouble in bringing me here. I have some more money in the office, they tell me, so I guess I'll get along all right."

Wellington told hospital attaches that when he and Anthony reached San Diego Monday he telegraphed Mrs. Anthony to join them here. The whereabouts of Mrs. Anthony was told in a memorandum book in the man's pocket. Anthony disclaims all knowledge of how it got there. The last seen of Wellington he said he was going to try to find Mrs. Anthony.

Anthony told the surgeons that shortly before leaving for Canton he suffered a sun-stroke, which was followed by a severe nervous spell. He said that day he felt sick, having worked twenty hours a day and eaten little for a week.

Mrs. Anthony appeared at the hospital shortly after noon.

"My husband has had several of these attacks," she declared. "We had talked about coming to California before he disappeared. I came to Compton. My husband returned to Akron after I had left, and friends told him I had gone to Compton, where he joined me last fall. After I left the hospital my husband told me he was going to take a desert trip in an auto. That was the last I saw or heard of him until today."

Anthony instantly recognized his wife, but denied all knowledge of his return to Akron, his trip to Compton, or employment in and around Los Angeles prior to his expedition to Lower California.

The Bribery Trial.

"DARROW CRAFTY COWARD, CRIMINAL," CRIES GRAY.

Powerful Indictment of La wyer and His Methods Substance of ex-Judge's Openi ng Argument to the Jury. Declares Leading McNama ra Counsel Was at Head of Organized Crime and Corr uption.

CLOSING a four-hour argument with the declaration that "organized society demands protection from organized crime represented by such men as Clarence Darrow," former Judge Wheaton A. Gray began and ended the opening speech in the Darrow trial yesterday.

Darrow was depicted as a fox-eyed, crafty, cowardly fellow, shrewd of intellect, unscrupulous of purpose, who recklessly sacrificed clients, employees and friends when he thought that the strong arm of the law would reach out for him.

Former Judge O. W. Powers, who successfully defended Mrs. Bradley in a notorious murder trial in Washington, D. C., will open for the defense at 9 o'clock this morning. If Rogers is able to return to the courtroom he will follow Powers. Darrow is expected to take about four hours.

Contrary to the wish of the defendant, who wanted the widest play for forensic oratory, the trial went on in its accustomed way in Extra Sessions No. 4. The other Superior Court judges refused to give their courtrooms in order that Darrow might exercise his elocution before the jury.

"The secretary of the presiding judge informs me there is no vacant courtroom," said Judge Conley, who personally prefers the present quarters.

DARROW VS. FREDERICKS.

Prior to the opening of the arguments, several witnesses were examined. Darrow recalled Capt. Fredericks and indulged in a sharp legal battle with the District Attorney.

Bert Franklin was recalled to tell about Mrs. Bain asking for more money shortly after her husband received $400 on account. Franklin gave other testimony. He said that O. H. F. Mayer is the so-called mysterious man seen by the janitor in the Higgins building November 28, 1911, and now custodian of the Labor Temple.

Darrow tried to make a point of the fact that Mayer was not produced and refused to have his testimony at the former trial read to the jury.

Joseph Scott was called as a witness by the State. He testified that he believed Mrs. Franklin was in ex-Gov. Gage's office when he called there on the day Franklin was arrested. He said he did not remember seeing Darrow there. His testimony was of little effect either way.

GRAY TO THE JURY.

Gray in his opening remarks said that the evidence showed Darrow was not "too good" to refrain from bribing a juror. The speaker told how the lawyer who was to receive the enormous sum of $300,000 from the labor unions if the McNamara case had gone to its regular conclusions, must have used some of the amount for corruption.

"The men who raised that enormous sum, of which Darrow got $200,000, wanted the McNamaras cleared," said Gray. "After Darrow saw his attempts to get witnesses foiled and his right to reach McManigal discouraged by the knowledge of the District Attorney, he confided in Lincoln Steffens that he wanted to compromise the case."

While the lawyer was speaking he was given close attention. The bailiffs kept good order both inside and outside the courtroom. The crowd will of course be much larger when Darrow speaks but his followers will have their visit to the Courthouse in vain, for the room will accommodate only those who have special privileges.

The special prosecutor said he wanted to show that under the law Clarence Darrow, who, he said, corruptly induced Bert Franklin to bribe a juror, was equally guilty.

"The first circumstance in the evidence," said Gray, "is the amount of the fund raised for the defense. Darrow received $200,000 as trustee, and in all would have received the stupendous sum of $300,000.

"ONLY FOR CORRUPTION."

"Why was such a fund raised? Only for the purposes of corruption. The labor union leaders said that the McNamaras must be cleared at all costs. No such sum was needed for an honest defense. In all such cases the county pays the larger part of the expenses. Besides attorneys, office expenses and the like, the defense would have had no legitimate expenses.

"In any legitimate business transaction a trustee is held to an accounting. He is not given $200,000 without being held accountable for the money. Why didn't Darrow bring in his book-keepers to show where the money went?

"Such a fund would be safeguarded under usual circumstances. Darrow doesn't dare make an accounting. He cannot produce his receipts. He spent the money as he went along. $10,000 here and $15,000 there.

"He was willing to pay $5000 just to see McManigal, and he spent his money right and left, according to the testimony of his employees. All this evidence was wilfully suppressed.

"Now it is folly to suppose for a minute that Franklin would bribe jurors on his account, or without talking things over with his chief?

"Franklin was always acting under orders, and he was just the kind of man Darrow wanted to reach jurors. You remember, one of the defendant's own witnesses said he never liked Franklin, but Darrow liked him before he made his confession to the District Attorney.

"As you look through the McNamara case and see how the efforts were made to kidnap witnesses or bribe them, to get jurors and detectives of the side, you wonder how it was done.

"ORGANIZED BRIBERY."

"I tell you, Darrow was the center of this organized corruption. If you believe we have advanced facts tending to show a conspiracy then you are entitled to consider the circumstances and the crimes that Darrow has confessed to in telling his story.

"You have the right to consider whether he told Franklin to bribe Bain. And right here, if there is any doubt in anyone's mind that Bain wasn't bribed there is no use of going further. But I think even the defense admits that he was bribed by Franklin.

"Remember that Darrow is a god to some persons. They idolize him, and when the words flow from his lips they fall down in rapture. If he tells them he is innocent they believe him. Now, Darrow may tell you that Franklin came into the courtroom during the McNamara case, but his testimony isn't worth much. Franklin said he was too busy outside."

Gray spoke highly of Mrs. Bain and said he believed her testimony. In graphic language he told how the little woman was tempted by the offer of money to pay on the house, how she listened to the talk of Franklin and agreed to influence her husband.

The speaker said he thought some women are ignorant in financial matters and that he believed Mrs. Bain never realized how criminal was the act of taking bribe money.

Gray also praised Bain, an old soldier, who had fallen and who since then has bitterly repented his misstep.

"MALIGN INFLUENCE."

"Again you see where the malign influence of Darrow fell upon the house and almost ruined the lives of two old people," said Gray. "It was ever thus throughout the entire course of the trial.

"And Franklin has told you the truth. He has shown how he bravely went into the building where he knew he would find Darrow's enemies, who have since sworn falsely for him. But Franklin showed he was fearless."

Gray pointed out the inconsistencies in the testimony of I. H. Russell, one of Darrow's friends. Russell testified he took gold to the bank because that was Harriman's testimony. Later when confronted with a certificate of deposit showing he put in currency, Russell said he might have stepped into some bank to change the gold before going two blocks further to another bank, where he deposited $500.

Gray said that Darrow saw the fallacy of such an excuse and so recalled Russell to have him swear he didn't remember about the slip or the money.

Gray spoke of Harrington, who was picked as a good man by Darrow out of all the lawyers in Chicago. The man at last tells the truth and shows the partial confession of guilt on the part of the defendant.

"Organized society cannot exist while men like Darrow are permitted to live," said the speaker. "His philosophy is honesty among criminals. If one turns on him he calls him traitor; but in the detection of crime we are often obliged to use persons who confess.

"DANGEROUS TO ACQUIT."

"If you want to please dynamiters, murderers and the criminals of the world, acquit this man. But if you want to do your duty to society, then convict him. It should be made impossible for jury-bribery to exist in this city, but if Darrow is acquitted then you can never find a lawyer guilty who passes a bribe by an agent.

"Darrow was always at the head of the procession and his secret agents were everywhere. Yet he, with all you he never knew of any bribery.

"Darrow would not be on trial today if he hadn't lost his nerve. If he had been a bull-headed lawyer he would have fought on despite the odds that the Burns detective plant about the jurors and the witnesses. But Darrow lost his head. He was easily discouraged. He is discouraged today."

In closing Gray urged the jury once more to do its duty, to be unmoved by specious arguments or cavil. He said all fair-minded persons are awaiting a verdict on the side of justice that crime may not be permitted to go unhindered.

WANT TRUSTEES THERE.

School district trustees and members of Boards of Education will hereafter be asked to attend sessions of the Board of Supervisors when bids are advertised for on bond issues in their districts.

This has been decided upon after much complaint from bidders whose figures have been taken under advisement for from one to two weeks by trustees and the Supervisors, because the bids, during recent slack bond-market days, have not seemed high enough.

The bond companies assert that tentative purchasers are frightened away by delay, and that they do not wish to have the money that they are obliged to put up as a guarantee with their bids lie idle. Recently an issue of Venice school bonds was offered for bids three times. One company finally signified a wish to withdraw its bid rather than suffer from the expense. Clerk McPherren will notify the trustees.

GIVEN ROPE; HANGS SELF.

Woman Accused of Misuse of Mail Induced to Do So By Postal Inspectors, Is Evidence.

"Who wrote the letter to which the woman replied," demanded Judge Wellborn yesterday, after Mrs. Rosa Schardin had pleaded guilty to an illegal use of the mails.

"One of the postoffice inspectors," replied Assistant United States District Attorney Regan.

"It was a decoy letter," commented the court, severely.

The woman described how she had been induced to write the letter to Samuel N. Martin, a mythical person, and denied that she had ever performed a criminal operation. Judge Wellborn said that if so she ought not to plead guilty.

Regan said that the investigation, in the hands of Inspector Cookson, who had worked up the case, did not agree with Mrs. Schardin's, and he asked that the case be postponed until the person could be heard from. This was agreed to and the matter will come up tomorrow morning.

TO REARREST SWINDLER.

Dr. John Grant Lyman, head of the swindling Panama Development Company, who cleaned up about $1,000,000 from innocent investors before he was taken in hand by the law, will, when he completes his eighteen months' sentence at McNeil's Island Saturday, be immediately rearrested and brought to Los Angeles to answer an indictment returned against him by the Federal grand jury more than a year ago, charging him with using the mails to defraud.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Says Mrs. Perkins.

NO STOOL WOULD DO FOR PERKINS.

Exact Definition of Mental Cruelty Set Out.

Remarkable Allegation in Divorce Complaint.

Would Keep Wealth and Make Him Pay Costs.

According to the complaint in the now famous Perkins divorce suit, Mrs. Emily S. Perkins, twice a widow, has many delicate yet poignant grievances against Gregory Perkins, Jr., which came to light for the first time yesterday and which she will ask the court to accept in substantiation of her charge of mental cruelty.

These include alleged family dictatorship, a constant attendance, even at times when she declares that a woman is entitled to be alone, awakening her at night to engage with him in lengthy prayers, spoiling the Christmas feast by remaining in his room, forcing her to meet her brother at Chicago alone, disturbing her on Easter night after a fatiguing day, refusing to sit on a stool when there was company, declining to get her a glass of water at the home of a friend when she was fainting during a card game, discourtesy to a woman guest, doubting her word repeatedly and threatening in the dead of night to fight her son.

All Los Angeles has been curious about the exact charges of this unusual complaint ever since it was known that Mrs. Perkins was to file suit against her husband, who is out of the city. The document, begins by reciting that there are no children as a result of the marriage, and that there is no community property. It ends by praying for a decree of divorce and that it be adjudged and decreed that there is no community property of plaintiff and defendant, but that all property standing in the present name of the plaintiff or in her former names be held as her separate property and distinct, in which the defendant has no interest, title or estate. She also asks that her husband pay for the costs of this divorce action.

The rather subtle and delicate wording of the complaint threatens to establish a precedent in complaints of this character. It sets forth that during the years of her marriage and for many years prior thereto, if deprived of her regular sleep, or if awakened after going to sleep it would injuriously affect Mrs. Perkins and if carried far enough would cause her to become nervous and ill. She charges the defendant knew this, yet after they had both announced their intention of retiring and after the plaintiff had retired the defendant would take from one hour to one hour and a half to prepare himself for bed after she had gone to sleep and would then compel her to get up and engage with him in prayers, all adding to and accentuating her extreme distress of body and mind.

She alleges that soon after their marriage the defendant assumed a position of family dictator, claiming the power and right to decide what she should do and not do and where she should or should not go. She says that for considerable lengths of time at different periods he continually kept himself with the plaintiff, not even leaving home long enough to attend business, all with the effect of worrying, harassing and annoying the plaintiff, materially adding to and accentuating her nervous condition, finally causing her to be ill and to be threatened with a nervous collapse.

BRAIN-STORM, ECLIPSE, ADIEU?

NOT RESPONSIBLE, IN HIDING OR GONE FOR GOOD?

Some Pertinent Question by Minority Stockholders as to a Quondam President of Conservative Investment Company—Case Postponed on Account of Absence.

Rev. Theodore Wiesendanger sought fame and more seductive climes or was the victim of a brain-storm and not accountable for his actions?

W. C. Shelton, attorney for the minority stockholders of the Conservative Investment Company, expressed the former view; F. L. Horton, Wiesendanger's attorney, the latter, while Wiesendanger failed to appear yesterday when Judge Wellborn called the case of the stockholders of the Conservative Investment Company against Wiesendanger in the Superior Court.

"I haven't seen Wiesendanger for days," declared Horton. "The last time I saw him he was nearly prostrated by his troubles and said that it was a crying shame that the directors in his company should tie up his property and deprive him of the $142,000 rental that it brings in yearly. My idea is that in a fit of mental aberration he went to some place and has failed to return. He is a peculiar man and he may do what the newspapers call a 'brain storm.'

"He has gone into hiding until the grand jury brings in its findings," suggested Shelton. "In other words, he has flown. I know that efforts have been made to locate him in Bakersfield, San Francisco, but to no avail.

"At the Golden Apartments, where Wiesendanger makes his home, it was stated that he has been away for some time, and that his whereabouts is unknown.

"Because of Wiesendanger's absence the hearing of the Conservative case was postponed until Tuesday, when Judge Wellborn will endeavor to get to the bottom of matters and determine whether or not Wiesendanger has managed the company's assets, as charged by the directors.

Says Mrs. Perkins.

Remarkable Allegation in Divorce Complaint.

Would Keep Wealth and Make Him Pay Costs.

According to the complaint in the new famous Perkins divorce suit, Mrs. Emily S. Perkins, twice a widow, has many delicate yet poignant grievances against Gregory Perkins, Jr., which came to light for the first time yesterday and which she will ask the court to accept in substantiation of her charge of mental cruelty.

These include alleged family discomfort, a constant attendance, even at times when she declares that a woman is entitled to be alone, awakening her at night to engage with him in lengthy prayers, spoiling the Christmas feast by remaining in his room, forcing her to meet her brother at Chicago alone, disturbing her on Easter night after a fatiguing day, refusing to sit on a stool when there was company, declining to get her a glass of water at the home of a friend when she was fainting during a card game, discourtesy to a woman guest, disliking her word repeatedly and threatening in the dead of night to strike her son.

All Los Angeles has been curious about the exact charges of this unusual complaint ever since it was known that Mrs. Perkins was to file suit against her husband, who is out of the city. The document begins by stating that there are no children as a result of the marriage, and that there is no community property. It asks by praying for a decree of divorce and that it be adjudged and decreed that there is no community property of plaintiff and defendant, but that all property standing in the present name of the plaintiff or in her former names be held as her separate property and distinct, in which the defendant has no interest, title or estate. She also asks that her husband pay for the costs of this divorce action.

The rather subtle and delicate wording of the complaint threatens to establish a precedent in complaints of this character. It sets forth that during the years of her marriage and for many years prior thereto, if deprived of her regular sleep, or if aroused after going to sleep it would injuriously affect Mrs. Perkins and if carried far enough would cause her to become nervous and ill. She knows the defendant knew this, yet after they had both announced their intention of retiring and after the plaintiff had retired the defendant would take from one hour to one hour and a half to prepare himself for bed after she had gone to sleep and would then compel her to get up and engage with him in prayers, all tending to and accentuating her extreme distress of body and mind.

She alleges that soon after their marriage the defendant assumed a position of family dictator, claiming the power and right to decide what she should do and not do and where she should or should not go. She was ill for considerable lengths of time at different periods he continuously kept himself with the plaintiff, sometimes leaving home long enough to visit his home, all with the effect of worrying, harassing and annoying the plaintiff, materially adding to and accentuating her nervous condition, finally causing her to be ill and to be confined with a nervous collapse.

Father of Kingston (N. Y.) Youth Seeks to Locate Him and Asks Help of Police.

Albert Yale of No. 95 Hasbrouck, Kingston, N. Y., is worried over the long absence of his son, Oliver Yale, Jr., who left home nearly over three years ago, and has not communicated with his parents, except a few weeks after he disappeared. It is in the hope that this news may in some manner attract his attention that Mrs. Yale is making it public to inform her son that she particularly requires his assistance since the death of his father, which occurred several months ago. Oliver Yale is 22 years of age, and his mother would appreciate any assistance in locating him, and she seeks the co-operation of the newspapers of the West in accomplishing this result.

Opinions of the Judge.

[Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph:] A judge once had a case in which the accused man understood only Irish. An interpreter was accordingly sworn. The prisoner said something to the interpreter.

"What does he say?" demanded His Lordship.

"Nothing, My Lord," was the reply.

"How dare you say that when we all heard him? Come on, sir, what was it?"

"My Lord," said the interpreter, beginning to tremble, "it had nothing to do with the case."

"If you don't answer I'll commit you, sir!" roared the judge. "Now, what did he say?"

"Well, My Lord, you'll excuse me, but he said: 'Who's that old woman with the red bed curtain round her sitting up there?'"

At which the court roared.

"And what did you say?" asked the judge, looking a little uncomfortable.

"I said: 'Whist, ye spalpeen! That's the ould boy that's going to hang you.'"

Georgia Startles Country With Great Blood Remedy

Scientific Discovery Botanical Antidote for Blood Disease.

And an army of men and women bear testimony to its marvelous effect in curing blood diseases.

There is not a stage or condition of any form of blood disease but what a similar case has been completely and radically overcome, utterly banished and the entire blood supply, the tissues, the mucous surfaces, the bones, the joints, the mouth and throat, the hair and scalp, the eyesight—all have received their normal state of health by virtue of this wonderful S. S. S.

And these facts have been put to the most severe tests—they have withstood the sternest test of all—the test of time. They have met the most rigorous, the most searching of all blood tests—the scientific and accepted Wassermann test.

And these wonderful results have been accomplished by a scientific method that has completely overthrown the vicious and destructive use of mercury, iodide of potash, arsenic and all other mineral poisons.

A New Era Dawns.

To what extent articular rheumatism, locomotor ataxia, neurasthenia, and pernicious anemia owe their origin to the use of mineral drugs is a matter of speculation, but it is generally agreed they are legion. And yet the wonderful S. S. S. not only drives the impurities out of the blood but so repairs the function of nutrition throughout the body that the destructive influences of even the mineral drugs are overcome. The materials of which S. S. S. is made, are gathered by expert botanists and the great Swift laboratory has been visited and commended by men of national fame, both in statesmanship and in business life. Not one ounce of drugs enters this famous laboratory. The medicine is prepared from the native roots; the virgin elements are extracted by a comprehensive and extremely scientific process; and thus is given to the world the greatest antidote for blood disease to be found anywhere on the face of the earth.

An Institution of Learning.

But the Swift laboratory does not stop at the preparation of S. S. S. It has resolved itself into an institution for the instruction of those who need guidance; to whom the knowledge and medical wisdom of world-wide experience is priceless and yet can be had for the asking. All who are in any way afflicted with blood disease, eczema, lupus, catarrh, rheumatism, psoriasis, mucous patches, copper spots, falling hair, fading eyesight or any other external or internal effect of blood disease are urged to at once procure a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store, department or general store and immediately fill out the coupon on this page for private, personal and confidentially sealed instruction and advice for successful home treatment. This matter is so important and of such great value that it should be attended to at once. But of all things do not permit anyone to sidetrack you on to any of the myriad of blood tonics. Ask for S. S. S. or send for it, and be sure you get S. S. S.

Blood Bath Knocks Rheumatism.

Remarkable Effects of a Remedy That Actually Irrigates the Entire Blood Supply.

It sounds queer to take a blood bath but that is precisely the effect of a most remarkable remedy known as S. S. S. It has the peculiar action of soaking through the intestines directly into the blood. In five minutes its influence is at work in every artery, vein and tiny capillary. Every membrane, every organ of the body, every emunctory becomes in effect a filter to strain the blood of impurities. The stimulating properties of S. S. S. compel the skin, liver, bowels, kidneys, bladder to all work to the one end of casting out every irritating, every pain-inflicting atom of poison; it dislodges by irrigation all accumulations in the joints, dissolves acid accretions, renders them neutral and scatters those peculiar formations in the nerve centers that cause such mystifying and often baffling rheumatic pains.

And best of all, this remarkable remedy is welcome to the weakest stomach. If you have drugged yourself until your stomach is nearly paralyzed, you will be astonished to find that S. S. S. gives no sensation, but goes right to work. This is because it is a pure vegetable infusion, is taken naturally into your blood just as pure air is inhaled naturally into your lungs.

The great Swift Laboratory has spent millions of dollars in perfecting, producing and placing in the hands of the public this wonderful remedy. So give your blood a good bath with S. S. S., for it knocks the worst forms of rheumatism every time.

Do not fail write to the Swift Specific Company. Fill out the coupon below and thus you can solve the mystery of articular rheumatism, sciatica or any other form of this painful malady.

Be Sure You Are on the Right Road.

Blood diseases are so varied and break out in such a strange and peculiar manner that it is wise to consult an expert. Be sure to fill out the coupon below. Advice is absolutely free and will be worth hundreds of dollars to anyone who, mistaking their trouble, begins the wrong method of treatment.

Eczema Plague Stamped Out.

Wonderful Hymn For All Afflicted With Any Form of Eczema.

Why Suffer with Eczema or Any Other Skin Disease When You Can Cure It with S. S. S.

Recent astonishing cures of Eczema and other skin afflictions show there is no question but what we now have the exact remedy for this distressing plague.

And whether it be the dry or weeping form, even though it has driven you to distraction and has defied a hundred salves and lotions, you are going to be cured completely, absolutely, permanently.

Nature put some marvelous healing elements into the products from which is extracted S. S. S. These are readily assimilated, they get right into the blood and actually bathe all these tissues with a most wonderful healing influence.

It is a well-known fact that the body strives to throw out through the skin in the form of perspiration the excess of salts and acids that accumulate in the blood. When you take a hot bath you know how the sweat stings if it drops into the eyes. This same effect goes on at various different spots on the skin and results in sores, rash, salt rheum, terrible itching and a general plague of the skin. Now, the action of S. S. S. is just as if you were continually perspiring only there is no visible evidence of the fact. The remedy enters the blood through the intestines and in five minutes is hard at work. It follows the law of circulation by which, having served its purpose, it seeks out an outlet and at once is caught in the myriad of small blood vessels that reach the skin pores all over the body.

A wonderful work is now going on; instead of these poisons collecting in the form of crusts and irritating, itching eczema, they dry up and new blood elements, made possible by S. S. S. form new skin and the disease is completely banished. It is remarkable how quickly this results. Get a bottle of S. S. S. of any druggist, and fill out the coupon on this page for the most instructive medical advice ever given.

Dear Sirs: I am in receipt of your letter of recent date and appreciate same. I was thinking some time ago that I would like to be able to reach some of the unfortunates who do not know what your remedy will do, and advise them of it and steer them clear of those who size them up, find out what they are worth and what they are making, and then, as so often happens, proceed to get it until the victim gives up in despair.

In this I know of what I say, but I do not get in touch with men who need assistance for they keep their troubles to themselves, but I always intend to advise any that I may have the privilege.

I wish you could see a photo of me now and one a year or so ago. I tell you the treatment I took nearly ruined my stomach. And I am willing to write to anyone you refer to me and will be glad to feel like having my name and photograph published.

Thanking you very kindly for what you have done for me, I am,

CREDITORS PRESS HARD

Big Clothing Firm Decides to Reduce Stock One-Half to Raise Cash—Must Settle Accounts With Eastern Manufacturers in Limited Time

Every Item of Men's Clothing and Furnishings Has Been Priced to Rock-Bottom for Quick Riddance

Owing to the fact that the large Eastern manufacturers are pressing the Monroe-Davis-Herington Co. for accounts due on their new spring goods, the directors of this firm, after holding a meeting yesterday, decided to reduce their stock to about one-half and cut prices to the quick in order to raise the necessary cash required.

The store this firm now occupies at the northeast corner of Seventh and Spring streets is much smaller than the old store, and as this spring goods was ordered last year, a much larger amount was bought than would otherwise have been, had they anticipated having to move into smaller quarters. It was the best they could do, however, and consequently it is necessary to reduce the stock as rapidly as possible and raise money to satisfy the exacting demands of their creditors.

This morning the doors will open on one of the sharpest, snappiest, full of life and go sales ever held in this vicinity. The cash must be raised in a limited time and the goods must be forced out at any price they will bring.

PREDICTS GREAT INCREASE.

Head of Big Insurance Company Foresees Wonders Here After Panama Canal Is Open.

"Maritime commerce on the Pacific Coast will increase to such proportions ten years after the opening of the Panama Canal that the ports will all be crowded and Los Angeles cannot look too far ahead in the development of San Pedro," said W. B. Clark, president of the Aetna Insurance Company of Hartford, Ct., last night. With his wife he is at the Hotel Van Nuys.

"I have seen Los Angeles grow since 1886, when I made my first visit here," he continued. "With completion of the canal this city will find itself possessed of one of the best investments it has ever made, and will owe much of its future growth and development to this feature."

Clark's reason for visiting Los Angeles is twofold—inspection of branch offices and pleasure. Of the latter he has had several weeks at Coronado. The former he will begin today. He expressed wonder and amazement at the growth of this city in the last three years.

SWINDLERS' SECRETS FOR GIRL'S RELEASE

Huguette of Underworld Is Willing to Turn State's Evidence If Freed From Danger of Three-year Term at San Quentin—Says She Shared in Profits of the Confidence Games.

THE fate of twenty-one confidence men, bunco steerers and race-track swindlers who have garnered a rich harvest in this vicinity, rests in the hands of a 19-year-old Italian girl, according to an unusual story told the authorities yesterday. Vivacious Florence Richardson, avowedly the Huguette of the underworld, volunteered in return for her own freedom to reveal the secrets of her former associates. The offer to barter the liberty of her companions was made in the hope of herself avoiding a three-year sentence which stares her in the face.

Mrs. Florence A. Richardson, alias Barrett, alias half a dozen other names used during her association with the members of the swindling organization, according to her own story, has had a checkered career since the tender age of 13. She was arrested early yesterday morning at the Paxton Hotel and freely admitted her relations with Lee Rial, J. W. Barnes, Charles Duby, Dr. L. O. Wilcoxon and other alleged members of the bunco gang. She is wanted in San Bernardino for alleged violation of her parole while under a suspended sentence to the penitentiary on a charge of bigamy.

KNOWS 'EM ALL.

"Sure, I know Rial and Byrnes and the rest of the bunch," she said yesterday as she swung silk-clad ankles from a seat on a desk in the matron's room at Central Station. "Why wouldn't I know them," she continued, "when I've been in on all their deals? Why, I know that whole bunch. Didn't I save the Overall Kid from a term in the pen just a few months ago, by keeping my mouth shut and stalling the cops? I've mixed with all of them. The Palo Alto Kid, Smitty the lug, Ray, Duby and the rest of them. The cops have nothing on me except this parole thing, and I didn't violate my parole. If they want to send me to the 'pen' for my little three years, just let them go ahead. I know a few things and I'll make somebody squirm before I'm through."

Questioned as to her offer to give up her companions if granted immunity, she answered:

"Yes, I'd turn them up if given my liberty, but these cops will have to show me that they intend to let me go. There ought to be somebody on the outside to laugh, and if I can't be the one on the outside, it's a cinch I won't be the cause of putting someone else behind the bars."

"How does it happen that you are willing to turn up your friends?" she was asked.

"Well, the bunch that turned this Venice trick queered a game that I was interested in, and I'm willing to get back at them. The scheme I was working was easy and a sure thing without taking chances. It meant about $500 apiece for us and I got sore when they queered it."

"Did the rest of the bunch leave town when Rial was arrested?"

"Sure, part of them got out, the rest are just lying low. Say, I could go out in two hours and get every one of them or find where they are."

"This scheme you speak of, was it a legitimate one? Were you getting the money lawfully?"

"Say, man, you make me laugh. Did you ever hear of a bunch like that getting anything on the square? I should say not."

"How many men were there in the bunch here?"

"Twenty-one working here, not counting the 'dips.' If you count them there was about thirty-five. And speaking of 'dips,' I could go out on Spring street now and pick up ten 'dips' between First and Seventh streets."

"How did you happen to get mixed up with such an outfit as that?"

BEGAN WHILE YOUNG.

"Well, I've been pretty much 'on the turf' since I was about 13. I learned a lot of things when I was 13. I like the life and when I break down or get tired of it I know a place I can go."

"Are you afraid that if you are given your liberty after telling the police all about your friends and being the cause of their arrest and possible conviction, that some one of the bunch might take a shot at you?"

"I'm not afraid of a gun. Did you ever know an Italian that was? Anybody that runs around with the bunch wouldn't last long if they showed the white feather. I guess I'm game enough."

Although Mrs. Richardson evinced a desire to talk with Chief Sebastian that official refused to see her as she was taken to San Bernardino yesterday evening. There is a possibility that an effort will be made to induce her to turn State's evidence. Chief Sebastian said last night that he had no doubt as to her connection with the swindlers, but doubted whether she would reveal anything that would lead to their conviction. From her story, the officers believe she was virtually the only woman used by the gang in their operations and held a unique position in the criminal organization.

Deputy District Attorney Hanson issued three additional search warrants yesterday which were served in Venice. The detectives secured evidence which they say will be of great use in establishing a case against the alleged swindlers already in the toils. An examination of the private papers of Dr. L. O. Wilcoxon yesterday brought to light what the officers deem damaging evidence against him. Among the numerous telegrams was one reading as follows:

"Long conference today, many valuable papers. Inside dope. Your relations here jeopardize Pearce. Be aware of attitude toward him. Avoid recourse to skip when crisis comes. Complaint drawn but not sworn to. Will meet you Los Angeles if you will forward $60 for expenses." This telegram was signed "Dr. M. E. Anthony."

Following numerous conferences yesterday the officials conducting the swindling investigation said that no additional complaints would be issued today unless a further investigation warranted an additional complaint against Dr. Wilcoxon. Chief Sebastian at the present centers in the preliminary hearing of Lee Rial, against whom the officers think they have built a strong case.

GRILL FOR FRIESCZ.

The scathing cross-examination which G. Ray Horton, attorney for Rial, promised to mete out yesterday to G. F. Friescz, complaining witness, had to go over until this morning, because of Rial's illness. C. A. Jenks testified that he had found the defendant to be suffering from an acute attack of [illegible] with a temperature of 103 and greatly accelerated pulse.

Horton had heard of his client's illness, but expected to go on with the attack upon Friescz's testimony nevertheless. Rial came to Justice Reeve's court out of a sickbed, with a coat and collar and with his face flushed. Horton asked for a continuance. Deputy District Attorney Shannon refused to sanction this until a physician had been called upon Dr. Jenks was called.

Although Attorney Frank Monk is counsel for Rial, he has been retained as assistant prosecuting attorney, as he has represented Fredericks to be, he was present yesterday to enter the complaint while proceedings were in progress. In rebuttal of Fredericks' statement that he has been accused of [illegible] by persons or interests that will not come into the open, Friescz said yesterday that he is acting for himself and Fredericks and that he has credentials from his home in the north are regular.

Horton will argue in behalf of Rial that every complaining witness against him is a potential [illegible]

TWO REVOLVED BETWEEN CARS.

Crushing Gauntlet Whirls Their Bodies.

Jesting, They Leap Into a Vise of Trains.

In their haste to get home to dinner, Miss Leah Greenfield, a stenographer, and R. J. Richardson, a builder, rushed between two street cars making the turn at Third and Hill streets, last night, and were crushed in the scissor-like vise. Miss Greenfield was fatally injured, every bone in her right side being crushed. Richardson sustained internal injuries that may prove fatal.

Both were on their way to their boarding-house at No. 1372 South Flower street. As they approached the corner at Third and Hill streets, two West Adams street cars were passing. With a laugh, Miss Greenfield jumped from the curbing, calling to her companion, "Let's get in front of this car, and wait until the other passes, and we can save three minutes." Richardson jumped with her, the two laughing merrily. They stood between the passing cars, erring in their estimate of the space between.

The out-bound Adams street car caught Miss Greenfield with the sweep of its guard, and hurled her along. Richardson leaped to her and was dragged in the same grip. They were whirled the length of the cars, revolving through the crushing gauntlet as wool comes through the carding rolls. They were chipped and pounded, torn and mauled by the opposite going cars, until their clothes were partly scraped from their bodies.

The two were placed into an automobile tendered by A. L. Baumbach, No. 936 St. Andrews place, and rushed to the Receiving Hospital.

TWO QUESTIONS; END NOT YET.

COUNCILMAN ACTIVE IN CIVIL SERVICE FIASCO.

City Attorney Will Be Asked Today to Tell Board What are Its Rights—Counsel for Man Under Fire Says Investigation by Members of Themselves Absurd.

Has the Civil Service Commission the right to subpoena persons to appear before it in an investigation of itself? Has the commission also the right to revoke such fines as may be imposed by the failure of persons summoned to appear?

These are questions that the Civil Service Commission will ask the City Attorney to answer today. They are the outcome of another chapter in the Topham-Civil Service Commission fiasco.

On the invitation of a member of the commission, Topham and his attorney, Emmet H. Wilson, appeared before the commission yesterday afternoon to discuss the situation in regard to the $100 which the City Auditor is holding from Topham's salary for the payment of fines which the City Attorney declares were self-imposed by Topham's failure to appear before the commission, after he had been subpoenaed when the recent commission investigation was on.

Wilson presented and asked the commission to adopt a resolution rescinding and setting aside the seven resolutions adopted December 31 last, each of which, declared that Topham had become indebted to the city in the sum of $100 because of the reasons given above.

This provoked a long discussion. Wilson contends the board is conducting an investigation of itself, and that its resolutions calling for the investigation explicitly so state. He said that the Civil Service Commission investigating charges made against itself, is a farce, and that in such case it has not the power to subpoena members of the City Council, or anyone else as witnesses, and that the grand jury provides ample opportunity for action.

"We were really investigating ourselves," replied President Haynes.

Wilson raised the point that, while the commission may have the power to subpoena witnesses, and their failure to respond may invoke fines, the board also has the power to remit such fines as are made possible for action, and he also insisted that the investigation conducted by the board is improper, in so far as concerning witnesses is concerned, as it was really investigating charges against itself.

The City Council ordered an investigation of the Civil Service Commission," said Wilson, "and before it could set the necessary machinery in motion this board hastened to institute an investigation of its own conduct itself. In my opinion the action of the board in undertaking to investigate itself was improper."

The commission decided to submit the questions raised to the City Attorney and to call a meeting as soon as his opinion is received.

SUCHMAN ACTIVE IN CIVIL SERVICE FIASCO.

The Attorney Will Be Asked To-day to Tell Board What are Its Rights—Counsel for Man Under Fire Says Investigation by Members of Themselves Absurd.

At the invitation of a member of the commission, Topham and his attorney, Emmet H. Wilson presented and asked the board to adopt a resolution rescinding and setting aside the resolutions adopted December 31, each of which, declared that Topham had become indebted to the city in the sum of $100 because of the amounts given above.

Swindlers' Secrets.

whose testimony is to be discredited at once. All the alleged guilt, he states, were trying to evade what they knew to be the law against race track gambling, and to get something for nothing by beating the other fellow. "It's a case of dog eat dog, even if the State should prove its accusations," said the attorney. "I don't see how they can fasten the charge of conspiracy upon Rial. He didn't get Friesen's money, and the charge of larceny will not stick, in itself. I am going to put that Middle West farmer through a real cross-examination."

Horton would not state what witnesses he will put on in the preliminary. Half a dozen State witnesses were in waiting yesterday. Mrs. F. B. Walker, a Western Union employee, has aroused much curiosity as a possible mysterious woman, but it is declared her testimony will not be sensational.

A. N. Koehler became the fifth complaining witness against Rial yesterday when Shannon issued another complaint at his behest. Koehler says he lost $1500 through a race track swindle. Shannon stated last night that there would be no more complaints issued at once, but that new evidence is still coming in.

BREAKS HER PAROLE.

WOMAN IN THE CASE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN BERNARDINO, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Florence Barrett Slamel-Richardson, the fascinating young bigamist who was recently paroled by the local court after she had pleaded guilty to having two husbands at the same time, is again in the County Jail tonight. The technical charge against her is violation of her parole by failing to remain in charge of the parole officer, having been caught in Los Angeles.

It is, however, believed here that the investigation of the bunco trust in Los Angeles has something to do with the woman again being placed behind the bars. The young woman, who is bewitchingly beautiful, is alleged to have had a close acquaintance with a number of the men who were prominent in the bunco trust and there is a belief that she is in possession of evidence that may be desired and that she will be induced, if possible, to give it up. Previous to her arrest on a charge of bigamy some months ago the woman was in Los Angeles. Local officers are reticent tonight to talk of the case.

NOW FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

San Bernardino Voters Go on Record in Favor of a Wider Latitude in Matter of Bond Issues.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN BERNARDINO, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The voters of the city today by a vote of 787 to 311 ratified an amendment to the city charter raising the limit of possible city bonded indebtedness from the present flat limit of $350,000 to 15 per cent. of the assessed valuation of the city, which at this time would make it possible to vote bonds in the sum of $750,000, and gradually increasing with the growth of the city.

The amendment which is an important one for the future of the city, will now go to the Legislature for ratification, which is expected at once.

The expansion of the bond limit will make it possible to soon submit to the voters of the city bond issues for needed improvements such as a City Hall, parks, playgrounds, and possibly a municipal light plant.

ELSINORE.

ELSINORE, March 4.—The Board of City Trustees awarded a sewer contract Monday evening to the Westlake Construction Company of Los Angeles. The Westlake company's bid for all labor and material was $18,913.46, and the trustees stipulated that vitrified sewer pipe be used in the construction.

The bond issue was for $20,000 and the bonds were sold to the Consolidated Bank of Elsinore at a premium of $1000, making available $21,000 for the sewer farm.

—"I never saw such a beautiful store, as I walked through Bullock's yesterday. I never realized a store could be made so extremely attractive—so charming. Why, it didn't seem like a store at all; its appearance was so changed. The birds, one couldn't help hearing them singing and one couldn't help being enthusiastic and glad with these little feathered songsters pouring out their melody from rose-burdened plumosus bowers—

"Just Listen to Some of the Good News

—"Oh! Just look at the Hats that will be out—Aren't they beautiful? 'The Salons will be hung with Millinery Masterpieces'—I know they will. Out of 42 Pianos and Player-Pianos Sold at EILERS Tuesday, 12 Were Sold to So. California Music Dealers

Read the above over again! It is hard to realize, at one reading, the full meaning of this true statement. And, then, consider that last night we received an order from the Bartlett Music Co. of Ventura for six more Player-Pianos.

The Simpson Piano Co., deciding to come to California, made contracts with some of the largest piano manufacturers in the United States, whereby they agreed to take a large number of instruments. They had arranged for the establishment of stores at Riverside, Redlands, Pomona and San Bernardino, those great centers of the Orange Belt. But the recent frost has made orange so scarce in those sections that they have been forced to abandon their ideas, give up their contracts, and turn their entire stock on hand over to Eilers Music House. Twenty-one carloads of beautiful new instruments have been sent here to sell for whatever price they will bring in the open market. No such chance to buy the finest pianos has ever been offered before.

The Milton sells regularly in Los Angeles for $275; you can have your choice of three, one at $80, one at $96.50, one at $112; the Lester, a really high-grade piano in big massive oak case, $168; Emerson, $95; a Haynes, $130; Reliable, your choice of three at $118, $120 and $130; a genuine Schubert, $400, now yours at $182; another Emerson, $115; an Ellington at just $275 under its regular cost; a Steinway, $145; a Draper, $168; a Behrmer, $120; a Hart, $95; a Fischer, $80; a Chase, at $100. Altogether there are 21 carloads of pianos, and they will be found on the main floor of our store, 344 So. Broadway.

It is the first time in the piano business in Los Angeles that so little cash would get so fine a piano.

These prices include delivery anywhere in Los Angeles, but do not include stool, which we will furnish at regular wholesale price. It is the most extraordinary sale of fine, strongly built, dependable pianos ever announced—not on cheap pianos, but good, legitimate makes, with ivory keys, full metal plates, the best system of modern construction.

INTERESTING BIRDS.

WHITE WINGS.

Speaking of things fair and fowl, have you seen the white turkeys? Several ranchers are growing them and if these birds are as good as they look, the Thanksgiving of the future ought to hold great joy.

WHALE SOAP.

Now is the best time in the world to remember to kill the unwelcome green insects which attack the tender young rose leaves and the first buds. Nothing is as good for this purpose as the warm suds of whale soap.

IT'S NO USE.

The Legislature of California wants a national university established at Washington, D. C. We have often thought that Congressmen and Senators and even occupants of the White House have a dreadful lot to learn; but if they are not wise by the time they get to Washington there is not much use in starting a school for them.

A DARING ENTERPRISE.

Los Angeles capital has been pledged to build a railroad through Death Valley. There is not much business up that way at present, but the discovery of mines in that field might develop large shipments of ore. No doubt the same capital that built such a road would mine the ore to make sure of the investment.

SIGNIFICANT.

A syndicate owning a large ranch in Tampico, Mexico, sent representatives to Riverside to study citrus culture. A notable fact of the present agricultural development on the American continent is that capital is developing the land. In the old days it merely built railroads through the land and then sat down and complained that there was nothing to ship.

A WORLD-OLD CRY.

The woman tramp has developed. Perhaps she has always existed and has only been discovered and brought into notice. Every human heart loves anything a little out of the ordinary. Seeking adventure is the most natural thing in the world. The life that can manage to treat itself to a few surprises is to be envied. It is well to have peace and evenness, but it is also delightful to find unexplored paths. Perhaps the woman tramp merely goes a little too far afield and looks throughout the world for what she should find in her own mind and heart.

A GOOD SIGN.

The tourist who goes into a California town is always struck by what he sees in the sidetracks at the freight depot. As a rule he finds more farming implements of every description in the least California village on any day than would go to the average rural place in the South or the East in a whole season. Carloads of livestock frequently add to the interest of the exhibition, and it is not at all unusual to see two or three fine automobiles waiting to be unloaded. Scores of such towns in California help make this the greatest state in the Union.

SAFETY IN PAPER.

Besides being a convenience in commerce, our banks stand as a public protection against thieves and hold-up men. Banking does away with the necessity for carrying large sums of gold and greenbacks—except on special occasions—along the public streets. Yet many citizens fail to take advantage of this obvious protection and still carry about large sums in specie on their persons when such a procedure is not necessary.

This practice has led to many terrible tragedies and sown too often a bloody harvest for the cut-throat and robber. A draft or certified check is a sure and safe way for transmitting large sums of money. To the possessor they are just as valuable as minted gold, while for the robber they are a sure means of detection.

A Japanese clerk in Los Angeles has just been the victim of fiendish brutes who beat him with knives and robbed him of $300 in gold which he had taken home with him. Yet had he banked this money, instead of keeping it in coin, he would have saved himself from loss and outrage. From Chicago an even more unnecessary robbery has just been reported. A rich Texas woman was felled and perhaps fatally injured by thugs and robbed of $43,500 which, for some unexplained reason, she was carrying in cash in a handbag. Everyone carrying an excessive sum of money about in cash or negotiable bills is courting disaster. All cash should be deposited as quickly as possible in a reputable bank and payments made by check. Those who carry more coin about with them than is necessary for their immediate wants are playing the game for the criminal element.

The check system reduces to a minimum the amount of money that one man may be robbed of at the time, and this need never amount to much. Our system of letters-of-credit and travelers' checks removes the gold coin from the felonious fingers of the hold-up man. There is safety in paper; there is danger in gold. The bank is the best police protection for the private citizen.

THE NATION'S DEBT TO WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

Sent by William McKinley to bring order out of chaos in the Philippines, he bravely performed an almost insurmountable task, even at the expense of physical suffering.

Offered a place on the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States, the admittedly foremost legal tribunal in the world, he sacrificed himself and completed his work in behalf of the people of the islands.

Returning to the United States to become Secretary of War, Mr. Taft administered that office with conspicuous ability, his chief success being the pushing forward of the construction of the American Panama Canal with such vigor that promise is now made of completion considerably before the time originally set.

Chosen for the Presidency in 1909 Mr. Taft has just finished his four-year term with a record of achievement which cannot be discounted by that of any President who preceded him. This he has done in spite of uncalled-for opposition inside and outside of his own party.

The successful negotiation of peace treaties with Great Britain and France, putting the United States in the forefront as earnestly striving for peace throughout the world.

Restraint from military intervention in the troubles of Mexico, thereby saving his country from a bloody war, with the inevitable loss of many American lives and a money loss of at least a million dollars a day during the occupation of the disturbed land by an American army of not less than half a million men.

Maintenance of peace in Cuba, South America and Central America by friendly warnings and moral intervention.

Abrogation of the passport treaty with Russia under which Jewish-American citizens were discriminated against by that country of perpetual absolutism.

Enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law without fear or favor.

New treaty of friendship with Japan, quieting racial differences on the Pacific Coast and restricting the immigration into this country of Japanese labor.

A series of remarkably able and non-partisan judicial appointments, every one of which, from Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme Court down, has been cordially approved by the country.

Maintenance of Republican protective tariff prosperity—a measure of prosperity unexampled during the past four years—with its consequent high rates of American wages and profitable investment of American capital.

Governmental business methods modernized and reformed by the Economy and Efficiency Commission (inaugurated by Mr. Taft) saving millions of dollars yearly to the American people.

Divorcement of the census of 1910 in its taking from all the political methods by which the Bureau of Census was previously encumbered.

The United States Postal Department made self-sustaining instead of running millions of dollars behind each year.

The transformation of treasury deficits into treasury surpluses.

Establishment of the Court of Commerce to review the findings of the Interstate Commerce Commission, insuring to American business just treatment in the vital matter of freight rates.

The bringing to a successful issue in the Supreme Court of the workingmen's compensation act, now a law of the land, for the sole benefit of American labor.

The expansion and cementing of our friendly relations with China by means of which that country's open-door policy is maintained and extended, to the great benefit of American manufacturers and exporters.

Customs service reorganized, corruption largely done away with, frauds exposed and punished, and millions of dollars collected for duties on goods attempted to be smuggled into the country or undervalued for entry.

Peonage—the twentieth century slavery of whites as well as blacks—practically abolished.

Much extension of civil-service control—the only employment protection of government servants—by executive order.

American capital and labor gained immensely by the extension during President Taft's term of foreign markets for American products and manufactures.

Admission, as promised, of Arizona and New Mexico to Statehood.

Bond issue of many millions secured to complete irrigation and land reclamation projects in the arid West and Southwest.

The great boon of a parcel post secured to the people, now in successful operation and saving the people's pockets directly hundreds of thousands of dollars monthly, reducing by that much the cost of living.

Among other high and noble acts showing political principle, courage, conviction and faith on his part, William Howard Taft never "fell down" as a stalwart Republican, nor betrayed his party or his country.

Very much more might be written of other achievements for good by Mr. Taft in the term just ended, many items of which will readily occur to thoughtful and fair minds. Suffice it to say in conclusion of this brief review of his work, that William Howard Taft went out of office yesterday with a far stronger hold on the affections and hearts of a majority of the millions of his fellow-countrymen and countrywomen than was his when he first assumed the Presidency on March 4, 1909.

Good morning! Are mother and daughter dolled up for the Fashion Show? Father cannot be expected to take any interest in the sartorial events.

TWO FOOLISH MEASURES.

Senator Bryant has made a contribution to the long list of unsafe, not to say insane, bills offered by cranky statesmen in the Legislature at Sacramento. Under the amendment which he offers to the sanitation law of 1909 (which seems to be ample for all legitimate purposes of guarding the public against vendors of impure food) he proposes that the tens of thousands of butchers and bakers and dairymen and poultrymen and keepers of shops where vegetables or fruits or groceries are sold shall be required to procure a permit for which $2 must be paid at the time of making application for it to the local Board of Health, or, where there is no local Board of Health, then to the chief executive health officer, who will presumably be a deputy of one of Holy Hiram's appointees. Notice of the filing of this application must be posted on the premises and published at least twice in a newspaper of general circulation in the city or county where the application is made. That will mean another dollar or two to the health officer and thousands of dollars in the aggregate to the proprietors of the "newspapers of general circulation" that may be favored by the health officer. It goes without saying that he will give the job to a "Progressive" journal, even if its "general circulation" is for wrapping paper.

If no protest is filed and the health man is satisfied that the butcher will not schedule as spring lamb mutton that is well stricken in years, or will not designate oleomargarine as butter, or will not vend as pork sausage articles made of beef remnants, or will not put the biggest strawberries on top of the box, or will not misrepresent the date when the egg emerged from the hen, or will not do any of those things which unscrupulous food sellers are occasionally tempted to do, then the officer will issue a permit, which he may revoke if and whenever he chooses, but without prejudice to the right of the owner of the abrogated permit to pay another $2 and another advertising bill and obtain another permit. All fees collected are to be turned over "to the proper officer" and, as the fees go into the pocket of the official, each dollar will join in singing the chorus, "Farewell, vain world, I'm going home."

Food vendors are forbidden by the law to combine to advance, or reduce, or control the cost of their wares to consumers. If they do so, not only will their permits to do business be taken away, but they may incur the moderate punishment of incarceration of from one to ten years in the penitentiary, besides the possibility of a fine of from $100 to $5000.

Under the proposed law two vendors of watermelons who combined to extort from the purchasing public 5 cents more per melon might be compelled to pass ten years each in the penitentiary. It is probably true that no such penalty would ever be inflicted, but a law must be judged by what may be done under it.

The comprehensively asinine measure of Senator Bryant is equalled if not surpassed in folly by a bill introduced by Senator Carr "making certain unfair and discriminatory practices unlawful."

This bill forbids manufacturers or merchants from charging customers in one community more or less than is charged customers in another locality, allowance being made for freight charges in conveying the goods.

If a corporation violates the law its charter may be annulled or its permit to do business in this State revoked. All contracts made in violation of it are declared to be illegal, and no recovery can be had upon them, the party injured may recover three times the amount of the actual damages sustained, the offender may be enjoined from continuing such acts and may, if a person, be fined $1000 and imprisoned for one year in the County Jail, or, if a corporation, may be fined $5000.

Suppose the case of three retail merchants engaged in the same business, one at Pomona, one at Ontario and one at San Bernardino. All three of them purchase their goods of the same wholesale house in Los Angeles. The credit of the Pomona merchant is rated at A1, that of the Ontario merchant at B2, and the San Bernardino merchant has ample capital and purchases only for cash.

Each of the three order of the Los Angeles wholesale dealer at the same time the same quantity of the same goods—say ten cases of canned tomatoes. Is not the retailer whose credit is A1 entitled to buy a little cheaper than the retailer whose credit is B2? And is not the cash buyer entitled to buy a little cheaper than either of the others? Is it not true that it is the custom among wholesale merchants to make these distinctions? And is there anything commercially reprehensible or morally wrong in making them?

Under the law proposed by Senator Carr a farmer with a wagonload of potatoes who sold half his load to a grocer on Broadway at one price and an hour afterwards sold the other half to a grocer on Spring street at a lower price could be prosecuted by the Broadway grocer and made to pay him three times the difference in price and enjoined from selling any more potatoes and fined $1000 and sent to jail for a year.

It may be conceded that these illustrations can be criticised as specimens of the reductio ad absurdum. But it is a maxim, as already stated, that a law may be judged, not by what has been done under it, but by what it is possible to do under it.

These bills are not likely to become laws. But they may. Who knows? It is not probable that they were introduced without the previous approval of Holy Hiram. Reason would be thrown away on Senators Bryant and Carr. As the Rev. Rowland Hill is said to have once remarked, "There are a good many different kinds of fools, but the worst of all is a damphool."

MINIMUM WAGE.

In the rough, rugged regions of the great Southwest, where individuality is given full scope and ambition has not been paralyzed, the debilitating tenets of paternalism are treated with the robust scorn of the full-grown man who appreciates his own strength. Only in congested cities, where the natural vigor of the race has been sapped by an unnatural environment, will socialistic legislation receive any extended indorsement.

The minimum wage bill—a device of the English Fabians to place inefficiency on the same level with craftsmanship—has been finely scored by the president of the Miami Miners' Union in the virile State of Arizona. This speaks well for the stamina of the miners and laborers where real men are still in the majority. The only excuse for a minimum wage bill is in a hopeless national decadence.

Says President Clayton: "I would like to see still higher wages paid, but I want them brought about through the efforts of the miners, not through any law the Legislature may pass." Individual effort, increased efficiency, a greater output, these are indeed the only sane methods a man will employ to raise himself financially or socially. Combination along legal lines for such purposes has always received the hearty indorsement of The Times. In this respect the citrus growers of California have set a brilliant example for the whole world.

If the miners of Arizona are all of the same opinion as President Clayton, the great mines of Arizona will continue to enrich all those sharing in the labors and profits of this wealth-producing industry. Moreover, the cream of the workmen will be attracted to this field where efficiency is sure of a just recompense. Under a State minimum wage bill, on the other hand, the loafers and the inefficient would flock into the mining districts of Arizona and their inferior services would have to be paid for at the same rate as those of the good, well-seasoned miners at present in the field. Naturally, this would tend to discourage the better man, to diminish the output and so in time to reduce the wage-paying capacity of the mines.

In the long run the men and the employers would both suffer loss from this attempt, by State interference, to take away the independence of everyone interested in the continued success of the mining industry. In its growing youth Arizona needs especially real men to develop its wonderful resources.

Alaska is enjoying the sensation of its first Legislature. But then it is nothing like the present California brand.

THE NEW BROOM.

A Clean Sweep of Everything and Everybody.

Such a nice new broom. Never used on this job before. The handle is second-growth ash, carefully selected, straight grain, not a twist or a knot in it. Grown in Virginia. The brushes are Indiana stock, choice broom-corn, thick, compact, strongly wired and fastened to the handle as though they were grown to it. Long, flexible enough to work around obstacles, but sufficiently rigid to get into the dark and dusty corners. Hole near the top of the handle, with a beautiful red, white and blue ribbon passed through it, by which to hang it up when not in action.

It is slovenly to lean a nice new broom up against the wall. It bends the straws of the brushes into an ungainly shape and causes rapid deterioration of the working efficiency of the newest broom.

The Baltimore Test.

It is not altogether an untried broom. In the hands of one who would be an expert housekeeper if given the opportunity, and who has been sitting on the seat of the anxious and willing in the Democratic Intelligence office for lo these many years, one William Jennings Bryan, it was tried out on the dust-strewn and littered apartments of the Baltimore convention. It first reached up after certain cobwebs of precedent and tradition that festooned the ceiling and curtained the windows and let in such floods of light as sent the bewildered bats and moths circling around the room amid clouds of choking dust, seeking rest and finding trouble.

The Broom at the Masthead.

The New Broom was triumphantly hoisted to the very maintruck of the Democratic mast. True to its own boast and prophecy it swept a clean path of victory wider than the right of way of the Los Angeles Harbor boulevard, across the autumnal field of battle, from Princeton to the White House.

A broom at the masthead of a ship has two meanings. When the old Dutch Admiral von Tromp, after mauling Drake in his own English waters off Dungeness, lashed a broom to the masthead of his flagship and sailed up the British Channel, it was a defiant declaration that he would sweep the English fleet off the seas. But he broke his broom handle in the attempt, and they buried the gallant old sea dog at Delft. That was long ago, in 1653.

Shipping Trusts, Attention!

Nowadays, in these times of commercial dominance, if you see a ship lying in port with a broom at her masthead it is a plain sign that she is for sale. That broom is out for the "dust." Well; isn't that what a broom is for?

The Broom Output.

Brooms of all sorts, carpet, whisk, parlor, upholstery, etc., were manufactured in increasing quantities in the United States in the year 1912.

But this does not include any report of political brooms, which, however, are listed under their proper headings. It was thought by many observers that, with the invention of the carpet sweeper, revolving brush street sweepers and other improvements on the broom, that the old-fashioned hand-broom would rapidly go out of existence and in a short time could be found only on exhibition in the museums. Such was the popular belief in the efficiency and power of the machine to sweep all minor devices out of the field of domestic and political activities.

The Man Behind the Broom.

This was a mistake. The manufacture of brooms continued. They wore out like postage stamps, and had to be renewed. Once in four years there arose a cry from an obscure tribe of taxpaying, non-office-holding citizens called by the leaders the "peepul" for an old-fashioned broom that could—and would—sweep out the machine-sweepers. In the States the cry was more frequent. There was a constant demand for Congressional brooms; gubernatorial brooms, Senatorial brooms, even Councilmanic brooms.

In fact, nothing else was advertised on the market. The most audacious sweeper that ever tossed dust into the eyes of the "peepul" dared not run on a "machine" ticket. That would spell defeat and disaster. They swept themselves into office as good old-fashioned broom-corn brooms of the daddies. Then, once installed in the comfortable and lucrative broom closet, the new broom unscrewed the long second-growth ash handle from the top of the broom, fastened it in the side, enclosed the brushes in a nice japanned tin box and was just as neat a "machine" as ever registered itself as a patent carpet sweeper. And then it rubbed its nose in the muck and gathered its little box full of lint, and dust, and crumbs, and junk, and said to the "peepul," "Isn't this better than the wild old duststorm of the old-fashioned broom?"

Other Brooms.

Of the brooms that swept clean when they were new, there were some that didn't sweep into the corners because there was too much dust there. Dust that had been left over, some of it, when the Constitution was adopted. The best broom we ever had, the Lincoln model—the pattern was destroyed by a maniac and never duplicated—had to sweep away a lot of dust and litter the fathers were afraid to touch. The Taft pattern was a very gentle, easy broom, never in a hurry, always thorough, and going far into the corners. The Roosevelt model swept harder and more furiously, in more directions at once, and stirred up more dust and sneezing and coughing than any other, and at last blew the top off its own head.

Previous Experience.

And now we have another New Broom. It has been tried on academic contracts and has swept the schoolroom with conscientious cleanliness, clearing up some shady old corners of accumulation that for years had escaped the purblind spectacles of the oldest professors, who were trained by scholastic tradition never to sweep under the desks and to sweep everything behind the door. It did some clean sweeping in the State of New Jersey on contracts that should have been let to the street department and the garbage contractors. It is perhaps the newest broom that every took a four years' sweeping contract on Pennsylvania avenue.

Great grace to the New Broom! May all its straws be wire bristles, and its handle a scepter of steel.

SOULS.

My soul goes clad in gorgeous things
Scarlet and gold and blue:
And at her shoulders sudden wings
Like long flames flicker through.

And she is swallow-fleet, and free
From mortal bonds and bars;
She laughs, because Eternity
Blossoms for her with stars!

Oh, folk who scorn my stiff gay gown,
My dull and foolish face—
Can ye not see my Soul flash down
A singing flame in space?

And, folk whose earth-stained looks I hate,
Why may I not divine
Your Souls, that must be passionate,
Shining and swift, as mine?

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

The new administration will now administrate; the people of this nation will have to pay the freight. The President is hoping to see reforms begin, and many others hoping the President to win. For he is wise and eager to help the failing ones which now subsists on meager sustenance and garden sass. He hopes for equal justice betwixt the poor and rich, realizing that laws that bust us, from grinding some to dust, for worthy compensation to some low estate; the new administration will now administrate. Alas, that high motives to ease the people's load, to better the condition, must tread a rocky road! There is small enthusiasm when great reforms arise; the people have a storm and stress suspicious eyes upon the statesman who'd leave the beaten path; they curse around him swearing, and vent their wrath. They say, "This fellow bothers us people with his fuss! The customs of our fathers were good enough for us." And many a verbal storm or tornado will meet, and so the sad reformer soon grows frigid feet. There's little consolation for him would save the state. The new administration will now administrate.

THE ELEPHANT AND THE MONKEY.

ENTERTAINMENT OF MANY SORTS AT PANTAGES.

A Baby Elephant Tops the Bill, and Is Followed by Men and Women Who Have the Gifts of Song, Dance, Fun and Patter—Mrs. Allison and Her Company in Sketch.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

Naturally enough, the "big" attraction at Pantages this week is the trained elephant, even though Hip—that's his hideship's name—is only a baby.

Hip is assisted by Napoleon, an ape of parts—many parts. The stunts these two are proficient at will make more man sit up and wonder. Hip can play the "mouth organ," ring a bell for dinner, drink a cocktail. No doubt he can also pack his own trunk. Napoleon is even more accomplished and he performs with a wink, so to speak, a mannish swagger that is absolutely convincing of his relationship to the rest of us swaggerers. When Napoleon gets on roller skates he has the time of his jolly simian life—and gives us the time of ours.

Another trained beast on the bill is Jap, a bull terrier of white and meek aspect, but of uncanny intelligence. His trainer is Del Baity, a "musical cowboy," who puts the canine through his paces with considerable speed. Jap can play the reed organ, smoke a pipe, and so on.

However, let us leave the live stock and turn to the human entertainers on the week's programme. One of these—and intensely human, at that—is Daisy Harcourt, a good-looking girl from Lunnon—a pert, saucy, audacious miss, outrageously attired in green and red furbelows. Miss Harcourt sings cockney songs with the correct accent and the true spirit. She's a delight, and we cawn't 'ave too much of 'er.

Other fun-fetchers are Gordon Davis and Arthur Cyril, with their company of two women, in a farce by Davis entitled "Allas Trifle Kix." I detest a plot divulger, so you're to remain in ignorance as to what the farce is about. But its fun is fast and furious, and the playlet is very well acted—and that's all you need to know about it.

Valerie Allison and her company of three also give a playlet, or what may pass for one, though its particular point is hard to make out. Anyway, it is called "Valrie's Ides" (not Valois, mind) and has to do with an artist, a model and a musician. No, not a triangle, or at least only a right-angled triangle. The playlet or what-not-it is only an excuse for showing off Valerie Allison's remarkable beauty, and for giving everybody a chance to sing and play the piano. Which they do very well indeed. But call it "Valrie's Idea?" The title suggests a paucity of ideas on the part of the author, or a misplaced effort at subtlety.

Dick and Henny, a man and a maid, are eccentrically and well, and the pair cut capers happily with moving pictures to recount the mishaps of a widow.

Italian Grand Opera Company.

The success of Dick Ferris' popular-priced grand opera at the Mason Theater, which began Monday night, when the Italian Grand Opera Company from the City of Mexico began an engagement of three weeks, has been so pronounced that yesterday the management decided to discard the motion pictures during Lent and continue the grand opera throughout the balance of the week, closing with two performances next Saturday.

The following will be the repertoire of the Italian Grand Opera Company for the balance of the week:

Wednesday afternoon—"Cavalleria Rusticana" and concert.

Wednesday night—"Lucia" and concert.

Thursday and Friday nights—"Aida" and concert.

Saturday matinee—"Lucia."

Saturday night—"Cavalleria Rusticana" and concert.

Sunday matinee—"Cavalleria Rusticana" and concert.

At the Republic.

Rose Madison and company of three people headline the bill at the Republic Theater this week in the comedy sketch, "Her First Divorce Case." The sketch is cleverly-constructed and cleverly handled.

Bert's Royal Midgets, two men and a girl, are clever comedians, while the pretty little lady has a good voice.

Comedy acrobatics followed by a rough-and-tumble burlesque on the usual circus act comprises the offering of the Lee Brothers. Charles Colby and his dummies busy with an endless cross-fire. Tint Welsh shows how many knots and tangles it takes for him to twist himself free. Robert Stanford is a clever monologist and mimic.

At the Theater.

Thrilling situations and exciting scenes make up the wonderful animal drama, "Beasts of the Jungle," featured at the Mozart Theater this week. This three-reel attraction is a thriller. The many difficult situations created by the animals are handled well. The story revolves around an American engineer, whose life is saved by riding off on an elephant and escaping in the jungle.

Besides this splendid Solax film, pools of comedy, educational and topical subjects are included in the first-class programme presented this week.

Some of the classic in motiography are having their fill this week, for the Clune theaters films based on well-known works of literature are exhibited as stellar attractions.

Mme. Broadway "Shriek," an actress from Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice," an Eclipse two-reeler notable for its realism and adherence to Shakespeare's text; Mme. Sarah, some of the most noted actress of the French stage are assigned leading roles in the production of "Le Baiser of the Athenee Theater, Paris, having the title role of Portia, the lovely Jessica, the costuming and setting are far above the ordinary, and altogether, it is a remarkable production.

The Fifth-street comedy production for "Pickwick Papers," a dramatization of Dickens's work, is in the hands of John Bunny, the inimitable comedian, as Mr. Pickwick and his merry followers shown in some of their humorous adventures including the trial of the young ladies' sempstress. The laughs derived are legion. "Pickwick Papers" is a Vitagraph production and was staged in England, where the mythical Pickwick Club is supposed to make his headquarters.

Novelty situations and exciting climaxes mark the wonderful animal picture, "Beasts of the Jungle," showing at the Mozart Theater this week. With three-reel attraction and the many difficult situations by the animals are said to be real. The story revolves around an American engineer, whose party is set on an elephant and the jungle.

Another splendid Solax film, a mixture of comedy, educational and dramatic subjects are included in the programme presented this week.

Some of the classic in motiography will their fill this week, for the Crown theaters films based on well-known works of literature are presented as stellar attractions.

The Hippo-street, comedy presentation of "Pickwick Papers," a series of Dickens's work, is featuring John Bunny, the inimitable comedian, as Mr. Pickwick, and his merry party in some of their funniest adventures including the love affairs of the young ladies' seminary. Laughs derived are legion. "Papers" is a Vitagraph and was staged in England, the mythical Pickwick proposed to make his

Figuratively, Speakers Will Attend California Association of Investment Corporations Dinner With Sleeves Rolled Up—Literally Will Show Fight and Talk Out.

"It will not be a dress affair."

Such is the nucleus of the formal announcement that when the several hundred members of the California Association of Investment Corporations assemble at the "Blue Sky" banquet at Hamburger's tomorrow evening they will be "on the job" and for business purposes to discourage the drastic and handicapping freak legislation proposed by the Johnson-Lissner clan at Sacramento.

"In business suits, with the same enthusiasm and businesslike methods displayed at the office, Blue Sky legislation will be discussed," announces Secretary J. S. McBean.

Reading between the lines, it is obvious that the assemblage premeditates verbal annihilation of the Mother Hubbard laws proposed, and that after the black coffee and cigars things will be ripped wide open and men will speak their thoughts—which aren't friendly to the "Blue Sky," or rather, to the bills disguised under that name.

Interest in the "Blue Sky" banquet—or what will happen there—is evinced by the fact that already more than 300 acceptances of invitations have been received from members of the Assembly, members of the Chamber of Commerce, Realty Board, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association and kindred organizations interested in discouraging legislative atrocities.

What the members of the California Association of Investment Corporations do want to do is to have drafted legislation effective enough to discourage fraudulent realty and stock transactions, but not legislation so drastic as to handicap legitimate concerns.

Powerful, common-sense men, some national figures, will follow the demi-tasse with candid expressions of just what is proposed under the "Blue Sky" of California.

One of these will be George W. Perkins, who is scheduled to make one of the most pertinent addresses of the evening under the title, "Publicity as a Remedy for the Ill of Corporate Mismanagement."

"The Effect of the Blue Sky Law on the Oil Industry" will be the subject of an address by T. A. O'Donnell, oil operator.

J. T. McBean, secretary of the California Association of Investment Corporations, will talk on "Blue Sky Legislation at Sacramento."

S. E. Vermilyea will discuss "The Effect of Paternal Blue Sky Legislation on the Mining Industry."

"The Effect of the Blue Sky Law on Investment and Building Companies" will be the subject of a talk by L. R. Garrett.

Charles A. Elder, president of the association, will preside over the session, and Attorney Frank G. Tyrrell will be toastmaster. Among many other guests of the evening will be United States Dist.-Atty. McCormick and Dist.-Atty. Fredericks.

Representatives of civic organizations from every part of Southern California will be present.

SACRAMENTO AND SAN DIEGO.

Mexicans With Municipal Names Fined by Monrovia Judge—Francisco Was Next Defendant Called.

MONROVIA, March 4.—San Diego Perez, Sacramento Garcia and Francisco Sombrano received summary treatment at the hands of Justice Taylor this morning, and have come to believe that being named after California cities is a boomerang and a hoodoo. San Diego and Sacramento had the misfortune to be in a rather hilarious state last night, and doubly unfortunate, they were accosted by the marshal when in no proper condition to talk business with an officer of the law. The local bastile held them until this morning, when an interpreter was secured, who finally succeeded in getting them to see the meaning of the translation of "$10 or ten days."

Francisco Sombrano, another bearer of a municipal cognomen, was next brought before Judge Taylor to answer to a charge of wife beating. He was given a suspended sentence of thirty days in jail, depending upon his subsequent behavior and the reports from the suffragette member of the family.

MUST HAVE LIGHTS.

William Mitchell was brought before the court for a warning in connection with riding a bicycle after night without a light. In warning young Mitchell, Judge Taylor stated that the authorities would be compelled, in the future, to be more strict in the enforcement of this clause of the traffic ordinance. Many complaints from citizens during the past few days have made it necessary to put a stop to the riding of bicycles at night without some method of lighting. Serious accidents have narrowly been averted by wheels colliding with pedestrians and autos.

SANTA ANA BRIEFS.

SANTA ANA, March 4.—Today Superior Judge West found for the plaintiff in a suit brought by Chester Skeen against N. W. Hendrick, a Los Angeles contractor, who laid some sewers in the west part of this city a year ago. Skeen asked $5100 damages for injuries received when his horse floundered in a trench freshly filled with earth and wet by rain. Skeen had a leg broken. Judge West will fix the amount of damages within ten days.

A jury in Justice Cox's court was unable to agree in the trial of C. H. L. Ghriest and his son of Newport Beach, charged with attacking J. H. O'Howell, a deputy Sheriff, who was placing a lock on Ghriest's property at the instance of the Sheriff's office.

Marriage licenses: Joe Tergeler, 37, and Mary B. Wickland, 37, both of Los Angeles; Cyrus P. Newell, 50, and Josephine Lyons, 39, both of Calexico.

Hints on Hair Health

If you use our treatment, we will either stop your hair from falling or pay for the treatment ourselves.

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe, which if not removed causes baldness. This microbe often comes from a comb or brush belonging to someone else.

If you are troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair, or baldness, we believe that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will do more than anything else to remove the dandruff, destroy the germ, make the scalp healthy and stop falling hair, and, if there is any life left in the roots, also promote growth of new hair.

We believe that probably 95 per cent of the cases of baldness could be overcome if people would only use Rexall "93" Hair Tonic for a reasonable time, as directed.

We don't want you to take our word for this. We want you to test the merits of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic at our risk. If you can go and it does not give satisfaction, just come back to us and tell us, and we will immediately hand back to you the money you paid for it. You promise nothing, sign nothing and your mere word will be taken for it.

We are dependent upon your confidence and patronage, and we would not make these claims, or make this offer if we did not believe that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the very best hair preparation you can use. Two sizes of bottles, 50c and $1.00.

News From The Times School of Domestic Science

Cooking as a Fine Art.

FOR WOMEN HOMEKEEPERS.

FASCINATING TALK ON A FASCINATING ART.

Open House and Free Lessons Three Days in the Week, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 2:30 p.m., Second Floor New "Times" Building.

"You can't get a little flour sifter in town—like those Mrs. Haffner-Ginger uses," said a woman at The Times cooking school the other day. "My daughter and I have tried at ten or fifteen different stores and they all tell the same story—'We carry 'em, but we're all sold out.' I believe every woman in Los Angeles is bound to have one of those cunning one-cup sifters."

"Where do you get those little French cutters," came a chorus of voices as the cook lady was cutting out clover leaves and various circles, and crescents, and cubes, and squares, and ovals, and rounds, of cooked carrots, turnips and beets with which to decorate her salads.

"You ought to be able to find them at almost any hardware or department store; they come in all shapes and sizes," replied the cook lady, holding up the little tin cutters to view. "They're nice to use for soup," she went on, "you can cut up potatoes, carrots or turnips to float on top of the serving bowls and indicate the kind of vegetables you have in your soup."

"Where'd you get that curved knife you're scooping out the grape fruit with," asked the inquisitive young woman who is always present and always manages to get a seat in the front row. "Did it come that way, or did you bend the blade?"

The cook lady stopped scooping the grapefruit pulp a moment and gazed critically at the knife in her hand.

"That knife?" she said, "why, I've had it so long I've forgotten where I did get it. It's a regular 'grapefruit knife'—that's what they call 'em—but you can use it for scooping out oranges or any other fruit. Handy thing to have about the house," and she plunged the curved blade again into the heart of the grapefruit. She was making a grapefruit basket, and when it was finished and filled with the chipped pulp, plentifully sugared and drenched with sherry, and a spray of acacia bloom and parsley tied on the handle, it certainly looked too lovely and artistic to touch. Really, it would have seemed almost cannibal-like to think of destroying such a thing of beauty by devouring it.

"These little serving baskets made of grapefruit or oranges, give an artistic touch to your table," said the cook lady. "You can make them conform to your color scheme and tie with a bit of ribbon to the handle a spray of sweet peas, or any flower that harmonizes with your table decorations. If you wish to serve your morning grapefruit in these pretty baskets, you can scoop them out and make them ready the night before and keep in the refrigerator till morning."

Says She's Here to Stay.

"Are you going to give a course of lectures at Pasadena this spring?" asked an anxious voice from the audience.

"Not unless The Times sends me there," was the prompt response of the cook lady, "I'm here to stay. I never expect to leave this building till I go out on crutches. I'm with The Times for life," and everybody chuckled.

Cauliflower Salad.

"How do you wash cauliflower so the bugs'll come out?" asked someone and there was a titter of laughter in the audience.

"I turn the head of cauliflower upside down—head first—in a vessel deep enough to float the head and the little bugs—if there are any—just simply hustle to the surface of the water."

"Yes, that's the way I do," whispered a woman to her neighbor in the front row, "and you must never put any salt in the water either, for salt kills the bugs and worms at once and they can't get out after that."

"I boil the large leaves on the head of cauliflower," went on the cook lady. "They protect the head from getting bruised against the sides of the vessel, which makes the white cauliflower turn black you know."

This is the rule for making the cauliflower salad. Boil a head of cauliflower in a piece of fine cheese cloth. When tender, remove from the cloth and drain; sprinkle over it two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and set in the refrigerator to cool. When ready to serve, break the heads apart into flowerettes, arrange them artistically on crisp lettuce heads. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and cover with French dressing. Serve immediately.

Cauliflower in shells. After boiling and draining a head of cauliflower pull the flowerettes apart, cover with French dressing and put on ice. Scoop the centers of as many sweet scarlet peppers as there are guests; fill the peppers about half full of white mayonnaise; place on a lettuce leaf and then fill with the flowerettes of cauliflower so that the bouquet effect may be preserved.

Mrs. Haffner-Ginger garnished her platter of cauliflower salad at the Monday demonstration with radishes also, cut into roses, which gave a pretty color effect.

As to Salad Dressings.

"In making salad dressing use three parts oil to one of acid, regardless of the kind of acid" is an axiom pronounced by Mrs. Haffner-Ginger, on the subject of salad dressings. "You can use lemon or vinegar—whichever you prefer. Tarragon vinegar has a special flavor all its own. What is tarragon vinegar, you ask? It is made simply by soaking tarragon leaves in vinegar for several hours or over night, and then straining the vinegar off. Or, you may crush the tarragon leaves and rub the bowl in which you mix the dressing with them.

"Now, the regular recipe for mayonnaise dressing calls for a cup of oil for every yolk, but that makes the dressing so thick you can cut it with a knife. I never measure the oil myself, I whip the yolk as stiff as possible; pour in about a tablespoonful of oil at a time, and keep on whipping," and she suited the action to the word, beating the egg and oil with a Dover egg beater.

"This putting in the oil, drop by drop, is all nonsense, and a great waste of time and strength," went on the salad expert, as she whirled the egg beater, stopping every few minutes, long enough to pour in more oil. She whipped it till it was so stiff the egg beater would scarcely turn, and the yellow mass was as smooth and fluffy as possible.

"Of course, ladies, you must remember to have your yolks and oil cold—very cold," she admonished, "and whip them in a bowl small enough and deep enough so that every part of the yolks will be equally beaten."

Before she had used half the oil prescribed by the recipe, the dressing had reached the jelly stage.

"There is a limit to the amount of oil a yolk will take," she observed. "When it has absorbed all it can it begins to separate and the oil to float on top. Thin your dressing with lemon juice, which is the best acid for fish and meats. Now, if you want your dressing to be 'the best ever,' add some whipped cream," and she proceeded to bring out that little tin churn that has aroused so much admiration among the women, rapidly whipped the cream, as you will notice when I add it to the dressing that I don't whip it. If I had a spite against it," she remarked, "but I gently fold it in, this," and she demonstrated how that whipped cream ought to be blended with the salad dressing. When it was all done it looked delicious to gaze at and easy to eat without either ceremony or silver.

A New Idea Gas Range.

Yesterday Mrs. Haffner-Ginger was busy with her special classes in the school kitchen. The stove in use there is the New Idea, furnished by the Mackey-Foley company, and truly has some new ideas in it. One of all the latest improvements is a burner handles the entire oven, distributing the heat evenly over the bottom oven. There are glass doors and the interior of the oven is so treated that it is light inside, and the seventeen pupils at their seventeen tables can see at a glance what is going on inside that oven. If you want to light the burners of the stove you simply press a button—no matches are needed. This is the most complete thing in the line of a gas range imaginable.

This afternoon at 2:30 Mrs. Haffner-Ginger will give another of her lecture and demonstration.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

New State Capital.

SANTA BARBARA, March 3.—[To Editor of The Times:] There is a bill pending before the State Legislature appropriating some millions of dollars for the erection of new State buildings, presumably to be placed at the present State capital, Sacramento.

Local pride has moved Sacramento despite the protest of some of her own citizens, to propose bonding the city for a fabulous sum to purchase a site for the proposed structures, to be presented to the State. Already notes of warning have been sounded from various sections of the State, protesting against the lavish outlay for the contemplated structures in a city generally recognized as entirely unfitted as the permanent State capital. Save the outlay of such sums, say the protestants, "for the permanent structures in California's permanent capital to be."

Geographically, if for no other reason, the present State capital is entirely undesirable as the seat of State government.

Chosen at a time when the mines of the north teemed with population, the later trend of settlement in Southern California makes it imperative that the capital be moved to a more central point, in keeping with new and present State conditions.

Southern California is at present paying an enormous toll in railroad fares and incidental expenses on account of the State capital's present location. The professional interests of Southern California cry out against the delay and waste of time incidental to the filling and receiving back of valuable documents from so remote a city as the present capital.

The life of the present capital building, is perhaps ten years. In the meantime it behooves the people of this State to consider the choice of a more suitable site that will appeal to all sections, geographically and otherwise. Then let the outlay of money be devoted to the erection of a structure that will be a credit to this great State.

DAVID HENDERSON.

No. 379 West Islay street.

Observations by W. A. R.

SAN DIEGO, March 4.—[To Editor of The Times:] Liberty under written laws has given the peoples of the world their greatest governmental blessings. Our government builded on this foundation is the source of the greatest freedom ever vouchsafed to any citizenship.

But as in all past ages danger lurks in this freedom. We have several menaces to our institutions, which will inevitably bring ruin and misery to all, unless counteracted by the intelligence of the masses. The greatest of these dangers is the demagogue. He who is striving to secure his own personal gain by creating dissatisfaction among the masses.

But he who induces anyone to regard it as his duty to attempt to better the condition of the people except through the written law and constitution is an enemy to the best interests of the people. If any man or woman do so use his or her God-given ability for their personal gain they are criminals of a peculiarly dangerous character.

This class of crime has in recent years become unusually prevalent. We are greatly in need of writers and public speakers who will put forth their best efforts to counteract this wave of misnamed reform as far as its tendency goes toward producing class hatreds. Our government is the most beneficent on earth. It is what the people make it. The masses of our people are the most intelligent so far developed.

No doubt this government can be improved. Our people have the genius to work out necessary improvements.

Our people of every walk of life are and have been developing broad-minded men and women. We need not fear our ability. While we will never have perfect conditions we can constantly improve them.

Let every good citizen lend all his influence and ability to induce all classes to favor the accomplishment of all our needed changes under the Constitution and laws as they exist until the majority by the methods therein provided change these laws. Such a method of making desirable changes constitutes the difference between this country and Mexico.

Let us guard jealously against the demagogue, who for his own personal gain would lead us away from the tried and true foundation of liberty for each citizen, under a written law. W. A. R.

Discriminating Against Women.

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] To improve the condition of women, they should be afforded a better opportunity to compete with men. We are not opposed to the eight-hour law as applied to women engaged in work where they are not directly competing with men. What we object to is having women discriminated against in those occupations where both men and women are employed, such as secretaries, book-keepers, cashiers and those having charge of a business or are executive heads of a branch of business, and in many cases are financially interested in that business. In a great many such positions it is impracticable to do the work in a specified number of hours each day. If a law is enacted restricting the number of hours women holding such positions can work, they will simply have to make way for men whose hours of labor are not so restricted.

The Sugar Duty.

SOUTH PASADENA, March 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I was impressed by your editorial on sugar in a recent issue of The Times and it suggested the following thoughts on the subject: The Mills bill which passed the Democratic House in 1888 proposed a reduction in the duty on sugar from about 32 per cent. to about 69 per cent. and the Republican minority as a substitute proposed a reduction to about 42 per cent. The Republicans in 1890, instead of following the policy of the Republicans in the former Congress, made sugar free and provided for a bounty and thus cut off a revenue of $56,000,000 and added to the annual expense an increasing charge of about $12,000,000 for a bounty on sugar and this wiped out a surplus revenue which had averaged $70,000,000 in the preceding six years. This was done against the advice of Mr. Blaine, who said it was like locking the stable door after the horse was stolen. Mr. McKenna of this State, then a member of the Ways and Means Committee, now justice of the Supreme Court, opposed the measure and filed a minority report against it in which he said it was an abandonment of the traditional policy of the Republican party which had never favored bounties and added that a tariff may be a tax but that a bounty was certainly one. Senator Sherman of Ohio reluctantly favored the measure, saying that sugar was a proper subject for revenue, but it passed, and became a law with disastrous results to the public revenue. The argument that cheap raw materials are necessary to secure reduction in the prices of manufactured articles does not apply with so much force to sugar, for sugar is consumed mainly as sugar and does not enter largely into manufacture, so that the duty paid only increases the cost to the consumer by the amount of the duty paid.

SPIRITS SAY HE'S HERE.

Asks Police to Locate Missing Adopted Son on Strength of Clairvoyant's Vision.

Although Roy Fletcher, also known as Roy Matteson, disappeared from his home in Elsie, Mich., twenty years ago, and ten years later was reported drowned in a Lake Michigan wreck off the Chicago water front, Mrs. Elizabeth Matteson, his adopted mother, has written the Chief of Police here that "the spirits have informed her, through a clairvoyant, that Fletcher is in Los Angeles. She wants the authorities to locate him.

Mrs. Matteson said in her letter that recently she became imbued with the idea that her adopted son is alive, and she consulted a spiritualist. The latter, so Mrs. Matteson writes, said the powers of the spirit world had communicated the fact to her, the clairvoyant, while she was in a trance, that Fletcher was not a victim of the lake wreck, but had escaped and is in Los Angeles.

The police have no trace of a man of Fletcher's description.

QUESTION VALIDITY OF WILL QUESTS MADE.

The three children of the late George H. Stewart, former City Councilman, bank official and president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday that they will contest provisions of his will recently filed for probate. The formal notice of contest was filed in the Probate Court when it was learned that approximately $90,000 had been bequeathed to the widow, while $8000 was to be divided among the children, according to the prominence of the persons concerned and the amount which they are held the court is to dispose of the matter Friday of next week.

The circumstances connected with the proposed fight on the last will and testament of Stewart, who died in Shanghai, January 18, are unusual. The legatees who seek to break the will are children by Stewart's first wife, who claim that at the time the will was drawn, about three months prior to his death, there was a lack of capacity on the part of the testator. In support of this contention they propose to try to show that the alleged fact that their father was at that time suffering from a form of complication of diseases which rendered him incapable of mental exertion sufficient to make a will.

As a matter of proof they point to the fact that in the first will only son, Alexander B. Stewart, was apparently forgotten. It was dated a day later, October 21, 1912, the son was bequeathed $1000, the daughters, Misses Helen and Grace, who since the divorce have lived with their mother, were bequeathed $2000 each. According to statements of Frank W. Pendleton, Jr., attorney for the disinherited children, there had been no settlement between Stewart and his children that would in any way account for his action in cutting them off with so nearly a nominal sum.

Mrs. Stewart, who recently had the ashes of her husband here in accordance with his last wish that they might be scattered to the winds in Southern California, said yesterday through her attorney, Jack Rutherland, that she would fight the case to the end.

"Mrs. Stewart, as well as myself, is of the opinion that there is absolutely no ground for this contest," Mr. Farland said yesterday after notice of the contest had been filed. "We are anxious that the matter should be heard at the earliest convenience of the court. It is true that Stewart had been divorced and that the children were living with their mother, but for some years past had been more or less connected with his father in a business way. There was no special estrangement between the children and Mr. Stewart."

While the will has not been appraised and the value of the estate definitely fixed, it is generally estimated that it will run something over $100,000. In addition to the specific bequests a number of large amounts were, by the terms of the will, left to distant relatives and friends. Unless there is a decided change of sentiment on one side or the other in the controversy, the will contest may develop into an interesting battle.

"In pure water from the ribbed fastness of the Sierra mountains of California, flowing from the $22,000,000 Owens River conduct, the Los Angeles Ad Club, 300 members strong, drinks your good health today."

In concluding the program of the Ad Club's luncheon at Clougher's yesterday President Wilson and Secretary Malott sent the club by telegraph to President Wilson. It was one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever held by the organization, 250 of the 300 members attending.

In addition to discussion of business and the addresses that were delivered it was announced that the tronically inclined members of the club will appear in a "rag" benefit April 11 and 12. Details are yet to be given.

PRAISE WISH FOR CURRENCY REPORT

PRESIDENT RECOGNIZES LONG FELT WANT, SAY BANKERS.

Certain Points in Chief Executive's Speech Meet With Approval in Financial Circles, But Question Raised as to How Reforms are to Be Carried Out.

Although leading business men and bankers interviewed into yesterday afternoon confessed to having had little opportunity to digest even the essential financial points of President Wilson's inaugural speech, in most instances his statement regarding the need for the alteration of the currency and banking system, was commended, although in some cases the question of what remedy is to be adopted, was raised.

"It is reassuring to note that President Wilson recognizes the need for reform in the currency system," said Stoddard Jess, president of the Los Angeles Clearinghouse, and vice-president of the First National Bank. "Our present currency system is all that he says, for it is based upon the necessity of the government to sell its bonds fifty years ago to create a war fund. A system built on such a basis can never be efficient when its object is the circulation of money. It is to be hoped that President Wilson will be able to convince his party of the need for this reform. This note in his speech rings clear as a bell."

"Everybody realizes that there is need for reform in our currency system," said Motley H. Flint, vice-president of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank. "Our system is inelastic and therefore inefficient in times of financial stress, owing to the regulations for the calling and extension of loans. But I do not see that President Wilson has suggested a remedy for this condition."

"I think that every good business man will be in favor of President Wilson's programme as expressed in his itemized alterations, if they are carried out according to that statement," said W. H. Holliday, president of the Merchants' National Bank.

"The need for a currency reform has been long felt," said George E. Epstein, vice-president of the Merchants' Bank and Trust Company. "We have often been advised to pattern after Europe in this regard, but Europe has her own difficulties with her system and can learn a great deal from us. Nevertheless, there are many things which we could learn from them and it is certain that our system needs considerable modernizing to make it efficient. I think that President Wilson's speech is couched in very scholarly language, and I fully concur with him in his programme as outlined by items, although I regard as a little to broad his statement concerning a tariff which cuts off the commerce of the world, violates the just principles of taxation and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests."

"I do not see that President Wilson outlines any remedy for the needed reforms," said R. E. Mulcahy, of R. F. Hutton & Company, brokers. "That there is need for reform everybody realizes. If there is to be a cut in tariff and changes in the currency system and other alterations as outlined in the speech, let them come quickly so we shall know where we are at. This suspense is in a sense, much worse for the financial system then even the most drastic changes."

INDIANS FACE MURDER TRIAL.

PREJUDICED VENIREMEN CAUSE SOME DELAY.

Coahuilla Tribesmen Stoically Indifferent Before United States District Court—Red Men Witnesses of Slaying of Superintendent of Riverside Reservation.

The trial of Ambrosio Apapas and nine other members of the Coahuilla tribe of Indians, on the charge of killing Indian Superintendent Will H. Ramsey at the Riverside reservation, began before United States District Judge Rudkin yesterday, is making local history.

It is the first time in the district that an Indian has been charged with the murder of an agent representing the government.

Since the organization of the district of Southern California, four Indians have been prosecuted for murder. In not a single case has an Indian been found guilty of a capital offense, all convictions resulting in verdicts of manslaughter.

The trial of Apapas and his fellow-redmen brought a big crowd from the Coahuilla reservation, and the courtroom and corridors of the federal building were filled with Indian witnesses or friends of the accused.

The entire day was spent ineffectually trying to fill the jury box. A new panel of ten veniremen is returnable today.

The least concerned in the trial are the defendants, Apapas, Charley Lubo, Patrick Casero, Agapito Lubo, Cornelio Lubo, Francisco Lubo, Thomas Lubo, Pio Lubo, Santas Lubo and Leonicio Lugo, captain of the tribe, who was indirectly the cause of the killing of Stanley, May 8, 1912.

The Indians sat like steics through the entire proceedings. The probable outcome of the case did not seem to worry them. A number of veniremen declared they would not take an Indian's word as quickly as they would a white man's. Some indicated they would not believe an Indian at all. All of these were excused.

On the part of the government it was sought to show that perhaps some members of the panel might be partial to the Indians on account of their membership in the Indian Rights Association.

Questions by Senator Miguel Estudillo, of Riverside, who, with S. M. Wilson, of this city, is defending the Indians, indicate that an effort will be made to show that Apapas is insane, a condition developed since the arrest eight months ago.

It developed that many of the old-time members of the jury had had trouble of various kinds with Indians in the early days.

Distressing Report.

MADAM ROSS NEARING THE ETERNAL SLEEP.

SURROUNDED by luxury, love and devotion, Mrs. Ida Hancock Ross, wife of Judge Erskine M. Ross, lies in her palatial home, Vermont avenue and Wilshire boulevard, resignedly awaiting the hour of the eternal sleep.

Although perfectly cognizant of the fact that her days are numbered, the same indomitable spirit which has made her one of the most profound characters of California, is with her still and instead of being buoyed up by those from whom she soon will be parted forever, Mme. Ross is giving comfort and cheer to her grief-stricken loved ones who are constantly watching at her bedside.

Mme. Ross has outlived her three score and ten years, but is of robust build and possesses much vitality. For some time she has been suffering from stomach trouble, but it was never considered dangerous. Some time ago, however, the disease showed acute symptoms and Mme. Ross was confined to her bed. The family did not think of fatality because the patient had always been so hearty and strong both in mind and body.

Everything possible has been done but Dr. L. G. Visscher, the family physician, announced yesterday that recovery is impossible; that the end is near, but that owing to the wonderful vitality of Mme. Ross it is impossible to estimate how long she will live. All her business affairs have been arranged.

Mme. Ross is perfectly conscious and when the doctor made his last call for the day she discussed the inauguration of the President, insisted upon knowing all of the details of the affair, and expressed the hope that the nation will not have occasion to be disappointed in President Wilson.

"Mme. Ross has a wonderfully clear mind. She has always been a religious woman, not at all a fanatic, but good to the very core, and it is this same clear brain which managed all of her mother's affairs from the time she was a girl, managed her own enormous estate, and performed the duties of wife, mother and financier, which is now controling her health and keeping her here with her family a little longer," said Dr. Visscher.

The charities of Mme. Ross are countless. Beside endowing colleges, hospitals and charitable institutions, there was a private bank account which not even her private secretary knew about, which Mme. Ross used for worthy cases she would hunt up herself. Many poor families were aided by her and will be grieved to learn of her condition.

To Get Rid of Wrinkles and Bad Complexion

(From Beauty's Mirror.)

It is more important now than during the period of profuse perspiration to keep the pores clean. All cosmetics clog the pores. In winter this interferes greatly with elimination of waste material, injuring instead of aiding the complexion. Ordinary mercolized wax serves all the purposes of creams, powders and rouges, giving far better results. It actually peels off an offensive skin, at the same time unclogging the pores. Minute particles of scarf skin come off day by day, causing not the least pain or discomfort. Gradually the healthy, younger skin beneath peeps out, and in less than a fortnight you have a lovelier complexion than you ever dreamed of acquiring. Mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is spread on nightly like cold cream and washed off mornings. One ounce usually suffices.

For removing wrinkles, without stopping the pores with pasty stuff, here's a never-failing formula: 1 oz. powdered saxolite, dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel. Bathe the face in this daily for awhile; every line will vanish completely. Even the first application gives surprising results.—[Advertisement.

HAIR TURNING GRAY OR FALLING?
JUST MIX SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

It's Grandmother's Recipe for Dandruff and Restoring Color to Hair

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's," which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can positively tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.

No Longer Cranky About His Meals

MR. L. J. QUINN.

The temper of the family and the good cheer around the table, depend so much on the good digestion of each individual present that the experiences of some former dyspeptics who overcame their trouble should be of interest to those now suffering in this way.

The best advice one can give—but it is advice that is seldom heeded—is to eat slowly and masticate each mouthful carefully. However, if slow eating and careful mastication fail, the next aid is one close to nature, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This remedy is an excellent digestant, and in addition to helping in the digestion of the food, acts gently on the liver and bowels, ridding them of the accumulation of waste that should long have been passed off. It is safe, reliable, pleasant-tasting, and results are guaranteed.

In the opinion of such people as Mr. L. J. Quinn, 1117 Nwport Ave., Chicago, it is the ideal remedy for indigestion, no matter how severe, constipation no matter how chronic, biliousness, headaches, gas on the stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances.

Mr. Quinn says: "We use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as a family remedy and every member of the family from the five-year-old, who is the youngest of six children, to Mrs. Quinn and my self, use it for stomach trouble, sick headache and to regulate the bowels."

You can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store, for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter size being bought by heads of families already familiar with its merits. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

When you use Syrup Pepsin you will see the fallacy of chewing mints and tablets or of taking cathartics, salts, pills and similar drastic medicines. Unlike these, Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect, and by automatically training the stomach and bowel muscles to do their work, soon restores these organs to normal.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed to you.

Opera Premiere.

adapted to the requirements of the triple A stars.

Before the first trainload of scenery arrived the stage was cleared as bare as Old Baldy. Not a stick of house equipment is used—all the stage manager and his horde of assistants require is a clean deck. By a stroke of luck almost unprecedented in the annals of premier performances the scenery section of the songbirds special was ahead of the wreck which happened in Texas, threatened delay, and accomplished more or less hysteria among the temperamental principals.

It was 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon before the last special was "to hand" and the precious persons it brought safely deposited at the Alexandria, where a padding of "hushes" was thrown about the suites of the great ones that they might glean a few hours rest before the first performance. It was announced that every singer was in perfect health, and voice, and this prognosis was confirmed as the opera unfolded itself later in the evening.

In years that are gone in the old Hazard Pavilion, where now stands the proud Auditorium, great singers have charmed and thrilled. Caruso, Sembrich, Garden, Melba, Schumann-Heink, Yaw, Nordica, but with the singing of "Thais" last night Los Angeles heard its first fully cast, all-starred, completely costumed, and perfectly staged metropolitan grand opera, with the same principals and the same production heretofore vouchsafed only to the great cities east of State street. Indeed the local engagement is more perfect in its detail than those of Chicago, New York, Philadelphia or Boston, because instead of depending upon talent for the lesser roles secured from the ranks of strugglers towards the top, these parts are sung by those who have "arrived." Thus principals in one opera sing subscores in operas wherein other stars twinkle in first perihelion.

AMBITION REALIZED.

Mary Garden has had a pretty finger in the pie of accomplishment which was baked last evening, for when she last sang in Los Angeles she told Manager Behymer that she would never rest content until she had sung "Natoma" with the Chicago Grand Opera Company in the Auditorium. On Saturday Miss Garden will realize the fruition of her ambition.

A strong and insistent demand is being made upon the management for "Saloma," and it is understood that Miss Garden is keen to sing the role that has added much to her fame and brought many an eastern critic to the verge of the duelling field. A Saloma decision will be handed down soon, and it is possible the opera may be substituted for "Tristan and Isolda," or better yet, form an added attraction after the seven set performances have been given.

NOT ALL DIGNITY.

It wasn't all dignity and diamonds and French last night, because the man with the bucolic whiskers made the impression that "Thais" was the name of a knockabout show that was there, and he appeared at the box office as soon after the first act as he could negotiate the distance. "Can't understand a gol darned word," was his complaint. "Allus to get bunced every time I come to town."

There was Percy and his steak. Percy has been saving for two months to raise the price, eating his noonday meal for that time on a cheese sandwich. Percy didn't know what it was all about, and in 1972 dress suit hurt him, but he was game, and agreed with the girl that Miss Garden was "there with the warble."

The chap who wanted to know at the end of the second act "when is the show going to begin," was also on deck, but these were just the inevitable high spots in a great metropolitan throng of genuine music lovers thoroughly appreciative of the treat which is theirs this week; not unmindful that it is a fashion par excellence, and forgetting as far as possible the church calendar whose hand points to the middle of the Lenten period. "Lest come every year," said an enthusiast, "we can't hear singing like that on side of the heavenly choir."

The Connecting Link

—the dollar that the shareholder puts alongside the hundreds of thousands of dollars being invested by Gibraltar.

The individual dollar is alone some coin—connect the lonely, idle dollar with a million others and you give it tremendous earning power. A single dollar is like a raw recruit, a useless unit, until it is taken in hand, put in a squad and utilized in a regiment under a great leader. Enmassed dollars determinedly march forward and wrest wealth from sources unattainable by the few dollars in one man's pocket.

To date over 5280 shareholders have taken their dollars from the recesses of non-production and given them a new lease of life under the co-operative plan of Gibraltar. This co-operative "idea" is receiving international recognition; is being taken up throughout the nation; and is intimately known by the people of the western and Pacific Coast States. The stranger in the city, who has gained knowledge of the CITY'S wonderful growth, will learn that the country acre is growing faster in value than the city lot. He will learn that orange, lemon, or olive orchard land will steadily increase in value and to this is added the advance in value of the growing trees, a greater increase noticeable after the fruit is produced.

GIBRALTAR'S PRESTIGE—GROWTH—STABILITY — IS FOUNDED ON GROWING NURSERY STOCK AND IN BUYING UNDEVELOPED LAND AT WHOLESALE PRICES—SUBDIVIDING, PLANTING AND SELLING AS COMPLETE ORCHARD HOMES.

L. A. Examiner March 2, 1913

BUMPER OLIVE CROP SAID TO BE ASSURED

Prominent canning and pickling firms whose plants are located in this section, state that the olive growers of California are looking forward to one of the largest crops in a number of years.

Secretary Stewart of the Curtis Olive Company states that while all indications are favorable to a much larger olive crop this year than last there is no reason for the growers to fear a lower price per ton of the crops, as the supply, even under bumper crop conditions, will fall far below the demand. He stated that the pickled ripe olive is gaining an rapidity in popular favor throughout the United States it has become impossible for the canners to meet the demand. Last week the firm he represents, he said, was forced, by an inability to fill the orders, to cancel contracts with two large wholesale grocery houses in Chicago for two carloads of pickled ripe olives. It is his opinion that the average price for the 1913 crop on the trees will average $100 per ton.

The canning and pickling olive crop, contracting for this year's crops at prices ranging from $75 to $90 per ton, is offering to the olive growers of California, in the way of the cheapest and surest returns for long-term investments, in cash to be given for their appreciation of a commodity daily growing more valuable, and which is destined to meet with much greater demand than ever before. Hundreds of acres of young olive groves are planted and coming into bearing. The average price being obtained for California olive growers is higher than at other periods in the history. This is the opportunity for the growers to get contracts for bottling works and olive mills of Bloomington and elsewhere.

Gibraltar's dollars—shares of stock—general structure—are backed by the most expert executive management and the thousands of shareholders now receiving profits and exerting a powerful influence for Gibraltar's greatness. The careful and judicious investment and re-investment of the funds and profits of the company by the President and Directors, rapidly increasing the assets of the company, is the power behind the ever-increasing value of the shares. THESE SHARES HAVE ADVANCED IN VALUE FROM 10 TO 18 CENTS IN THE LAST YEAR.

Handicap your self-indulgence—self-control is the first step in self-making—plant those extra dollars in the acres of California, the never-failing basis on which Gibraltar is founded, and make the profits being received by over 5280 of your fellow men.

ORANGE MAN GIVES RIGHTS TO GOVERNMENT.

Department of Agriculture Proposes to Patent Device for Separating Affected Citrus Fruit From Sound and Make it Available to Citrus Growers Without Reservations.

Patent rights worth approximately $1,000,000, according to Department of Agriculture officials, have been irrevocably deeded to the citrus growers of this State by Vice-President Chase of the National Orange Company, whose water current fruit separator has just been given the official O. K. of the department as the best device yet offered for the separation of frosted from unfrosted fruit.

Heretofore the alcohol test has been the most economical test for the detection of frosted fruit. The cost of this test ranges from 7 to 8 cents a box. With the Chase machine it is possible to make even more efficacious tests at a maximum cost of 1 cent a box. Last year this State produced 12,800,000 boxes of oranges and 2,140,000 boxes of lemons. Had it been necessary to apply the alcohol test to this crop it would have cost the growers $1,115,800. With the Chase test the cost would have been but $159,400, a net saving of $956,400.

Chase, in asking the Department of Agriculture to test his machine, made it plain that he will waive all patent rights. As a result the department proposes to patent the machine and thus make it available without patent cost reservations to citrus growers. This fact was manifested yesterday by C. W. Mann, the department's expert in fruit handling and storage, who has been conducting experiments with the machine and pronounces it the best of its kind yet offered.

The principle of the machine is separation by specific gravity, frosted fruit being considerably lighter than unfrosted. The fruit is introduced into a hopper through which water passes at the rate of two feet a second. The heavy unfrosted fruit immediately sinks and is cast out by coming in contact with a baffle. The lighter frosted fruit is carried along by the water and drops into a receptacle. The parts of the machine require the nicest adjustment to make the machine's work efficacious in the highest degree. It has been along the lines of nicety of adjustment that Mann has been working and he announces that the machine works within 1 per cent. of absolute efficiency with oranges, but rather more effectively with lemons, a smaller and more compact fruit.

LONG BEACH POLICE CHIEF WILD WAGE CAMPAIGN.

LONG BEACH, March 4.—By the passage of an ordinance regulating slot machines, Chief of Police Austin hopes to drive out of the city a new wrinkle in gambling. The machines register after each play, just what the prize will be when the next nickel is dropped within its maw, and in twenty-nine cases out of thirty it is a package of gum, the quality of which is not regarded highly by experts. Where an extra prize of ten or twenty checks is won they are accepted at face value by the store operating the machine for any of their stock, in most cases cigars, cigarettes or smoking tobacco. Backed by the opinion of county and city legal authorities that the machines were legitimate, the operators of the devices laughed at the Chief when he attempted to stop their use. He learned, however, that the checks won could be and were being played back in the machine, and this, he thinks, is a clear violation of the State law governing the same, and his proposed ordinance, modeled on this theory, will, he feels confident, enable him to handle the situation without further trouble.

BOWERY DANCING.

Lovers of the turkey trot, grizzley bear and bunny hug type of dance, barred from the Majestic pavilion on the Pike, have for some weeks been indulging in their favorite diversion in another dance hall. Complaints of the utter abandon which was developing was made to the police and officers stopped the dance. As soon as officers departed the dances were resumed, with a watcher stationed at the stairs to give the alarm. As a result it is said that the dance hall will be closed up entirely by the police.

WILL GUARANTEE TITLES.

Following a conference yesterday with legal representatives of the Title Insurance and Trust Company of Los Angeles, and Col. Charles R. Drake of the Bath-house Company, and his counsel, Attorney Goudge, announcement was made officially today that the title company will give guarantee certificates of title to any property on the beach owned by the Drake or Bath-house companies. In making the announcement the title company officials expressed the belief that there was no doubt as to the ownership of beach property being vested in the Strand and Bath-house companies, and that should the case recently decided by Judge Bordwell be appealed his decision would undoubtedly be upheld.

Four years titles to property on the beach have been clouded by reason of litigation started by the city, but realty movements were slow, the assurance of guaranteed titles it is hoped will be effective in restoring confidence to investors.

CRAIG HELD FOR TRIAL.

The case against John F. Craig, president of the Craig ship plant, charged with polluting the waters of Long Beach harbor by dumping oil into the harbor from a vessel brought in for repairs, occupied all of today in Justice Atwood's court. I. A. Bordner, Assistant Fish and Game Commissioner, was principal witness, and exhibited a bottle containing a mixture of oil and water which he said was taken from the harbor while the Craig vessel was being overhauling and repairing at the steamer Mackinaw. The defense will claim that the owners and builders of the ship were responsible

TITLE GUARANTEE TITLES.

Following a conference yesterday between representatives of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company of Los Angeles and Col. Charles R. Drake of the Bath-house Company, and his attorney, Goudge, announcement was made officially today that the title company will give guarantee certificates of title to any property on the beach owned by the Drake or Bath-house companies. In view of the announcement the title company officials expressed the belief that there was no doubt as to the validity of beach property being held by the Strand and Bath-house companies, and that should the matter be finally decided by Judge Bordwell as opposed his decision would undoubtedly be upheld.

Many years titles to property on the beach have been clouded by reason of litigation started by the city, but improvements were slow. The issuance of guaranteed titles it is believed will be effective in restoring confidence to investors.

CASE HELD FOR TRIAL.

Economical Assimilation.

LOS ANGELES ABSORBS SAN DIEGO'S CUSTOMS.

WORD was received here yesterday that, during the last hours of the Taft administration, the President accepted the plans of the Treasury Department for the rearrangement of the customs districts of the country, with the effect of reducing the number from 160 to less than fifty. This means the wiping out of existence of the San Diego and Eureka customs offices and making the Los Angeles and San Francisco offices as the only ones on the California coast.

It also means that with the opening of the Panama Canal Los Angeles will be the first official port of call and that the San Diego office will be a branch of Los Angeles, with Collector Blake or his successor in charge, but the business of the entire Coast as far north as the jurisdiction of the local office extends will be under Collector Pendleton. The Eureka customs district will be eliminated, and all customs business not cared for by Los Angeles will be dispatched at the San Francisco office.

The details of the consolidation plan are yet to be worked out by the treasury officials, but in a general way the change means but two customs districts in California — Los Angeles and San Francisco. It is a move in the direction of economy, recommended by ex-President Taft.

The cost on the dollar for collection in the Los Angeles district is among the smallest in the country, while official reports indicate that the Eureka office has always cost much more to maintain than the receipts of the government amounted to. Collector Blake, at San Diego, has conducted the affairs of his office in a business-like way, but the programme of economy insisted upon has made its elimination necessary.

Under the new adjustment there will be no increase in the pay of Collector Pendleton, which is $5000 yearly.

and that Mr. Craig had nothing to do with orders given while the ship was entering dry dock. The justice, however, decided that a violation of the law had occurred, and that a higher court must decide who was responsible, and held Mr. Craig to answer to the Superior Court.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $2 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of an obstinate cough more quickly, usually ending it inside of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for croup, whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help cure a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe is now used by thousands of housewives throughout the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

GREAT SURGEON IS SKEPTICAL.

His Methods Not Those of a Genuine Scientist.

PASADENA, March 4.—Dr. John B. Murphy, of Chicago, inventor of the Murphy button, an appliance much used in surgery, and a former president of the American Medical Association, arrived at the Hotel Raymond here yesterday to pass his thirtieth winter in Southern California.

Dr. Murphy is very chary with credit as to the claims of Dr. Frederich F. Friedman, the German scientist now attracting so much attention in New York, that he has discovered a cure for tuberculosis.

"The conduct of Dr. Friedman," he said yesterday, "hasn't been that which is usually followed by medical men, in that he did not at once give the results of his work to his own country, in Berlin. If he were now to accept $1,000,000 for it it would be very odd, to say the least. This man's refusing to give the discovery that he claims to Germany at once, placed a question in it, and his offer to sell it for $1,000,000 has placed a still larger interrogation point after it. If he has what he claims to have it will be the greatest benefit to the human race that can come. However, if the public will be patient the matter will be fully determined within a short time."

Dr. Murphy says that the cure of tuberculosis and cancer are the most sought of any that the medical profession now seeks and that consequently much attention has been attracted by Dr. Friedman's claims. He says that the medical profession is no nearer finding a cure for cancer than it was several years ago. He evinces much interest in the coming Wilson administration on account of expectations entertained that President Wilson will establish a more efficient Federal Department of Health than now obtains.

"The plan of the future," he said, "is going to be the conservation of the race. The conservation of any race cannot be accomplished without restrictions to the liberty and rights and happiness of individuals on certain conditions.

"The fact that a father and mother may not believe in vaccination and quarantine does not prevent their child from passing the disease on to Smith's child, who dies. Supposing the child shoots Smith's child with a gun, which it says it did not know was loaded. Same thing. Imprisonment should be the penalty. The average value of an individual is $3000. The State should force an individual to account himself as worth $3000 to the State."

Dr. Murphy is accompanied by Mrs. Murphy and one of his daughters. They expect to be in Pasadena a month.

LOOKS FOR GOOD TIMES.

Another prominent visitor to arrive in the city yesterday was John W. Foster of Washington, D. C., Secretary of State under President Harrison. He and Mrs. Foster came from Coronado where they have been staying for some time. They are at the Hotel Maryland.

"I have every confidence in President Wilson," he said yesterday. "This will not be a Bryan administration. I think that the choice of Bryan as Secretary of State is fitting."

RESIGNS FROM BOARD.

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette has tendered her resignation as a member of the board of trustees of Throop Polytechnic Institute, of which she had been a member for sixteen years. The resignation read:

"Because of Throop's changed aims and purposes, and its rapid progress in technical and scientific standards, I feel the time has arrived when I, as a woman member of the board, can best serve the institution by giving place to some man, who by his fitness to help and inspire along the lines of the new ideals, will be able to bring more to the Greater Throop than I can possibly do.

"I therefore present my resignation, to take effect at once, but before my pleasant relationship is severed, which has been continued with some of its members for nearly sixteen years, I wish to express my appreciation of the courtesy of the board toward me, for so many years the only woman member, and to say the experience and companionship has been one of the pleasant relationships of my life."

George S. Patton, a Los Angeles attorney, was elected to succeed Mrs. Burdette.

TIME IS NAMED.

The City Council yesterday morning by ordinance fixed the date of the election for the voting on proposed bonds for the purchase of playground property in the city. The election will come on the 29th inst. The total amount involved is $207,000. It is divided as follows:

Arroyo Park options, $35,000; fire department extension, $87,000; Carmelita Playgrounds, $31,000; East Pasadena Playground, $50,000, and Monk Hill Park, $54,000.

CITY BRIEFS.

Work on the Lincoln-avenue car line, which was stopped for several days by the Pacific Electric Railway Company, was resumed yesterday.

The City Council yesterday took the first steps for the condemnation of about 900 acres of land in the Arroyo Seco, which the city proposes to acquire for park purposes.

The Caldron Club, which was organized last winter, yesterday announced the dates for the first play which it is to present. It will be put on at Clune's Pasadena Theater April 24 and 25.

The Chicago White Sox baseball players, who are to train in Pasadena this spring, are due to arrive in the city tomorrow morning. They will make their headquarters at the Hotel Huntington, where a whole floor is to be placed at their disposal.

POMONA, March 4.—The annual stockholders' meeting of the local Home Telephone Company was held today and the reports of the officers showed a splendid growth of business during the year, in which time the Home has purchased the local business of the Sunset Company and arranged with the latter for an interchange of long-distance switching service. WEIRD TALE BY PREACHER.

Pastor Who Disappeared Returns Much Disheveled.

Says His Memory Is Blank Since Leaving Beach.

Contracts are Let ofr Two New Brick Buildings.

OCEAN PARK, March 4.—Haggard and hungry, his clothes torn and bespattered with mud, Rev. John B. Havener, pastor of the Ocean Park Christian Church, returned to his home early this afternoon. Since Thursday, when the young minister, after writing letters telling of his intention to destroy himself, disappeared, his wife and the members of the church have been diligently hunting him. The pastor stated that he cannot remember anything of his adventures during the past five days. His mind, he claims, is a blank concerning that interval. He came to his senses while wandering in Topanga Canyon, he says.

Rev. Mr. Havener is at the home of Roy Moser on Third street, under the care of Dr. W. H. Parker. His wife is overjoyed at his return, and the members of the church who were perplexed at his disappearance now find a satisfactory explanation of his absence. Dr. Parker believes that Rev. Mr. Havener is now shamming, and that he has been, and still is, in a measure, mentally unbalanced.

Staggering up to the door of the Hamlin apartments, No. 2132 Third street, where he and his wife lived, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, the minister presented a sorry sight as he asked for his wife. He was directed to the Moser residence, where his wife has been staying since his disappearance. The keeper of the apartments did not recognize him, so changed was he. Rev. Mr. Havener called for his wife and literally fell into her arms as she came to the door at Moser's.

The wanderer's clothes were torn and dirty. His hat was dented. His wrists and ankles were scratched by briars. He was undressed and put to bed, when it was found that the balls of his feet and the bottoms of his toes were red and raw. He did not utter a word for five minutes. Then he said: "What has happened to me; I have been away over night." He was not put in possession of the facts concerning his disappearance, nor told that he has been missing since Thursday, upon advice of Dr. Parker, who was immediately called.

Mrs. Havener and Mr. and Mrs. Moser denied the request of friends and newspaper men for an interview with the minister. They said he was ill and could not be seen. Moser said that the only statement made by Rev. Mr. Havener was that his mind is a blank to all that happened since Thursday morning, when he was making preparation for the reception to himself and wife which was to have been held that evening.

According to Mrs. Havener, her husband does not remember writing the letters to her and to Moser, telling of his intention to throw himself off the pier wharf.

The police, whose activities in the search for the minister have suddenly ended, suggest that the minister's mind must have become unhinged after he wrote the letters, for they were models of composition and showed connected thought. They were correctly addressed. Although the minister is fairly well known along the bay, no one has reported seeing him in the five-day interval since he has been missing. Rev. Mr. Havener came from the direction of the car line to his former home, and it is thought alighted from one of the Pacific Electric cars. He may have been wandering in the vicinity of the long wharf, which he mentioned in his letters, or along the Malibu road. Ed Parker states that the man, whom he well knew, has the appearance of having been with little sleep or food for three or four days.

A substitute pastor will be appointed to the church while Rev. Mr. Havener is recovering, and he may never again occupy the local pulpit. Many members of the church state that he has been acting queerly during the four weeks he has had charge of the church, his eyes having a far-away, blank look when asked questions, which he seemed not to hear. They say his talk was disconnected at times.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Charles W. Corbaley was today awarded the contract by A. R. Fraser for the erection of two brick buildings, to be erected on the Pier frontage along the Plaza between Marine street and Pier avenue, at a cost of $60,000, and work will be begun immediately on one of the business links which is making Ocean Park better and greater than ever. The two-story building will occupy a ground space of 60x113 feet. There will be store rooms below, with office rooms above. The buildings will be modern in every particular. The central promenade, fifty feet wide, will reach to the new pier, which the Fraser Investment Company has leased from Mr. Fraser and which will be among the largest on the Coast.

A feature of the big scale on which this city is rebuilding was marked today, when the Great Western Improvement Company applied to the city of Santa Monica for a permit for the construction of its pier, which will cost $300,000 when finished. The structure is well along towards the water's edge, and most of it is in Venice, but some of the buildings will be in Santa Monica, as the dividing line between the cities bisects the pier. The request for a permit has been referred to the City Attorney. The pier will be opened by early summer.

PRAISE FOR FOREIGN POSTERS

South Pasadena Woman Says the World Leads America in Commercial Art—Short News Stories.

SOUTH PASADENA, March 4.—That Europe is ahead of the United States in artistic advertising is the opinion of Miss Ada M. P. Chase, former instructor of art in the High School, who has just returned from a six months' stay in art centers of the Old World. While away she paid special attention to business posters and business advertising, and brought home a number of fine specimen posters from many countries showing that the best talent has been brought to the assistance of business and that money has been liberally spent. She mentioned particularly the art of Germany and Switzerland in this connection. Miss Chase will give an exhibition of these posters and a talk on the same subject before the members of the Women's Improvement Association.

Wednesday afternoon the association will meet to discuss the school gardening movement. C. F. Palmer, who is an authority on the subject, and there will be a general discussion as to conditions in the city.

The school gardens have been taken up by all the parent-teacher associations, and all the patrons of the schools are vitally interested in the movement. Benefits resulting from the work to the child, the school and the city will be considered, and illustrations from other cities will be used to show the good that is being accomplished along these lines.

NEWS BRIEFS.

One of the smallest robberies which has taken place in this city is reported by Theodore Forrester, who has newspaper racks at Fletcher avenue and Huntington drive, Manzanita street and Fair Oaks avenue, Colorado street and Fair Oaks avenue, and Mountain road and Fair Oaks avenue. While collecting from same they found that papers and money both gone. It is believed that they were taken by different people, for the one at the Oaks and Mission had been opened by a duplicate key while the other had been broken open.

Officer Cooper of this city answered and reported to Chief Probation Officer Gibbs of Los Angeles county a sad case of neglect on the part of a husband and father. The wife, only 26 years old, of Pablo Valdez, who lives on Arroyo drive near the rock-crushing plant of F. P. Montgomery, is ill, and has the care of two children, one 3 years old and the other not quite 2. Her husband works as blacksmith on the construction of the Arroyo Seco bridge in Pasadena, and although reported to be earning $16 per week refuses to support his family. The two children were taken to the Los Angeles County Love Hospital at Los Angeles under order of Judge Wilbur of the Juvenile Court, and Valdez will be cited to appear in court and ordered to support his family.

A. J. Collins, a young man 20 years old, was fined $10 by Justice Conley yesterday, and given ten days' imprisonment in the County Jail for resisting an officer early Sunday morning. The jail sentence was suspended. The boy resides at No. 132 West Seventeenth street, Los Angeles, and left his home stating he was going with associates and became homesick. They were put off of a Pasadena electric car at Oneonta Station. Young Collins was arrested by Officer Lillich, his confederates escaping. Collins denies knowing anything of his conduct after becoming intoxicated.

CLAREMONT.

CLAREMONT, March 4.—The Claremont City Trustees last night formally accepted the resignation of Marshal J. A. Johnson, and appointed Clinton W. Taylor as his successor. The new appointment meets with general approval throughout the city. Taylor is a popular man, well liked, and will be a credit to the force.

POMONA TO ENTER FIVE RUNNERS IN MARATHON.

These Speeders are Said to and are Expected to Give the Sherman Indians a Battle—Total Number of Entries When Race Starts May Exceed Ninety.

Be Long Distance Men

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

POMONA COLLEGE is to be represented by a team of five crack long-distance men in The Times Modified Marathon, which is to take place in this city April 19, over a course of ten miles. The men who are to carry the Blue and White of the Huns are five of the best runners ever developed at the foothill institution and should make the going interesting for the two teams from the Sherman Indian School, the Los Angeles Athletic Club, the St. Joseph's Young Men's Club and the University of Southern California.

Joe Brewster, who took fourth in the recent L.A.A.C. road race, is to lead the team and will have for running mates Stewart Peck, "Dent" Sturgis, Merrit and Lorbeer.

Peck won most of the fall cross-country runs this season and is considered a fast ten-mile man. Sturgis is a star varsity mile and two-mile runner. He is a brother of the famous "Sculpie," who set the Coast on fire two seasons ago. Merrit and Lorbeer are two old-time veterans who have won their spurs in many of the best intercollegiate competitions in the south.

It will be seen by this line-up that the Huns are to have a team of old stagers, and for this reason should be hard to defeat. It takes brains to run a modified Marathon because a man must judge his opponent's speed and condition, besides being able to tell how much reserve he himself has left for the final dash to the finish.

Including the various teams and the unattached entries the list for the Marathon totals about forty-five runners. As yet the teams from the Seventh Regiment have not been entered for the running division and the military division. This addition itself should swell the entry list to more than ninety.

The members of the board of directors are requested to meet Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the sporting department of The Times. At this time the working plans of the race and the detailed arrangements are to be made.

VENICE MEN PERFORM WELL.

New Pitcher Griffin Shows Promising Stuff.

Entire Team Appears Ready to Play Ball.

Dillon Gives His Angels a Light Practice.

BY GREY OLIVER.

The Venice Tigers had a cracking good workout yesterday morning at the Y.M.C.A. field on Boyle Heights and a fair-sized crowd of fans turned out to see them perform, among the bunch being President Eddie Maier, John Mott and several of their friends.

The warm sun made the day a delightful one for baseball practice and the Tigers certainly got all they wanted, for after several hours of fast stuff, in batting the ball around, Hogan divided the squad and made the boys play part of a real game. One team had to win and it was the Regulars yesterday, the score being 3 to 1.

GRIFFIN IS THERE.

The big thing of the day was the work of Pitcher Griffin, and from what I saw of him from the side lines, he will do. He seems to have enough to make the batsmen look cheap, and if I remember rightly, he made Johnny Kane and several more good ones take water.

Other heavers have done this before and it is nothing to the discredit of Kane, but it merely indicates that Griffin is not afraid of the good ones. If he does not make good in this league I will miss my guess.

There is another one that is very promising, and that is a little catcher that some fellow said was named Cook. All he lacks is experience, and he suffers a little from stage fright, but when it comes to throwing to second base he has an arm that anyone would like to have. What he wants is confidence. Of course, I do not know anything about the hitting of him or Griffin, but they sure can pitch and catch, and I would not know either one of them if I saw them again.

OLSON PROMISING.

Another good green prospect is Olson, the big, long-legged pitcher that Hap Hogan dug up from somewhere. It strikes me that he will be something in the pitching line, if he can get over stage fright and can show what he has in him. He needs a strong, aggressive catcher like Rowdy Elliott to make him show, for long-legged fellows generally lack confidence. Elliott could make him pitch.

Hosp, Patterson, Litschi, Brashear, Kane, Carlisle, Baum, Gray, Raleigh and Stewart all showed well and the astonishing feature about their work was that they did so well this early in the training season.

HEAVERS LOOK GOOD.

The various old holdover pitchers seemed to be as good as ever, and the other fellows were strong, which is saying a lot.

Tonnemann, the new catcher, did not try much catching, for he bumped his finger the day before and was laying off the rough stuff. Elliott was there like a duck and although he is about as short as Johnny Kane, he has the pepper. He keeps up a running fire of talk every second and this is the kind of bull that gets away with lots of games. He will be better than Brown and Agnew together, if he can only hit. Pep is what this league needs.

ANGELS FLY LOW.

Dillon of the Angels had his full team out yesterday morning at Washington Park and the boys went through light practice for several hours. No particular stunts were tried, for the Angels are scheduled to play the White Sox tomorrow and Cap did not want to take any chances with them.

There was the usual batting and fielding practice and all of the boys showed up in fine form. Bunting was the feature of the work and all of the fast birds did well at this. Speed on the bases wins many a game and this is what Dillon is going after, for he has a good lot of hitters and pitchers. The boys are to take life easily today, in preparation for the big game tomorrow.

Some Refinement Here.

Joe Rivers's Trousseau

To save time he is going to include Leach Cross as part of the honeymoon.

That crafty little Hebrew dentist is likely to take the tune out of the wedding bells, however. Joe says that he learned all about Dr. Wallach's style in their other bout. Leach, however, is some learner himself.

If it is true that they are to box at 135 pounds, Rivers is likely to have more trouble winning this ten-round bout in New York than he would have in winning the championship from Willie Ritchie.

Friday night the Los Angeles Athletic Club will make one more attempt to revive wrestling in Los Angeles. A hopeless task.

Wrestling is a tough old bat. Her reform is impossible. In Chicago the authorities have refused to issue licenses for matches since the Gotch-Hackenschmidt affair.

A few months ago the L.A.A.C. made a similar attempt and the match was about the most dismal affair I ever witnessed. A big, clumsy lout named Donovan squatted on his hands and knees while Dan McLeod flung him around like an old bag of meal. It was perfectly apparent that most of Dan's effort was directed to arranging the match along until he could at least illustrate a few holds. But Donovan was so awkward that Dan couldn't keep his shoulders off the floor.

Unless Dr. Roller and Demetral start something desperate Friday night the game of wrestling is dead forever in Los Angeles.

* * *

* * *

Dr. Roller has started a barefoot cult at the athletic club. He wrestles, plays handball and does his gym work with his Trilbies unclothed.

Since he has been working out at the club in preparation for his Demetral match, others have caught the inspiration and rows of pink toes now patter around the handball courts.

"I am working hard for this boy Brown," said Bud Anderson yesterday. "But the boy I am really after is Joe Rivers. I feel sure I could beat him. I think he was made for a fighter of my type."

"This Bud Anderson fight is all very well," said Kayo Brown, "but what I want is another crack at Rivers. I would give my life for another chance at the Mexican. He kept the sun in my eyes all the time. I am going to work my head off for another chance."

Although he is a thirty-second degree fight fan, I dare say that my friend, Willard Huntington Wright, the author of "Los Angeles, the Chemically Pure," would disdain to attend the K. O.' Brown-Anderson fight. They are not devilish enough. Altogether, too pure.

Kayo confided in me the other day that he has not the slightest idea what liquor tastes like; and Bud Anderson tells me that he did his first boxing in a church as one of a boys' Sunday-school athletic club in Vancouver, Wash.

It would be awful if Willard heard this.

* * *

Some cynical young person has written in to question my stories of Bud Anderson's devotion to his mother.

Don't you know, doubting Thomas, there is a bromidical saying in the sport world, "No fighter ever threw his mother down."

They are all "mothers' boys."

There is a perfect legion of scared old ladies living in huge houses that they can't find their way around in, whose floors they long to scrub but dare not, whose worn old fingers wear jewels which worry them half to death, laced into clothes which strangle them, who are waited on by servants whose attentions make them miserable, surrounded by neighbors who won't speak to them—These are the adored of the earth, the mothers of the fighters.

* * *

This man Webber, who took George Memsic to Oregon under a false name to fight Bud Anderson, should be debarred from any further participation in the fight game in Los Angeles in any connection.

* * *

Were I the man with whom Jim Jeffries bet $1600 he could stay on the water wagon, I would go around and demand the payment of the bet. Jeff has announced his intention of going back to the ring and of not going back to the ring, and of not knowing whether or not he will go back to the ring. It doesn't sound like sobriety.

* * *

Jeff told Tom Jones that he would like to go back to the ring but is worried as to the way the newspapers might treat him.

When he was training for the Jack Johnson fight, a large number of newspaper men were sent, at heavy expense, from the four quarters of the earth, to his camp to write of his training, incidentally giving him a $100,000 worth of free advertising. If there was a single one whom he did not contrive to insult, it must have been an oversight, for his energy in that direct was boundless.

Please, Mister Jeffries, sign for another match and insult us some more.

HARRY CARR.

RHINES BEATS BANKS IN BILLIARD MATCH.

Bert Rhines, Ohio pocket billiard champion, won the first round of his fourth clash with George Banks, Pacific Coast champion, by forty points at Hogan's rooms, the respective scores being 154 to 114. The remainder of the 300-ball match is to be run down in a second round.

Rhines made high run of twenty-four, ten above Banks's highest. The game ran for sixty-one innings, lasting from 9:30 to 12:30 a.m., and ended with Banks in possession of the balls for tonight's continuation.

Some excellent play was shown during the evening, but the dim lighting seemed to affect the accuracy of both contestants.

Rhines won the bank, forcing Banks to break. Rhines took all the first frame, but Banks shortly pulled ahead and kept the lead until the sixteenth inning, when nearly three frames were put down by the two, of which Banks ran fourteen and Rhines passed him with a run of twenty-four. The score then stood at 56 to 51 in favor of Rhines.

Banks passed Rhines in the twenty-seventh turn by making a run of 13, leaving the score at 79 to 72. Rhines took the entire frame in the twenty-ninth, and thereafter pulled steadily away from the local man.

Some Improvement.

SEALS WILL TAKE IVAN HOWARD IF BERRY BALKS.

Brother Del Would Like to Have Him at Second Base. Ewing's Team Must Speed Up to Be Factor of Importance—Captain Is Not Yet Satisfied With Weak Sisters' Showing.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOYES SPRINGS, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "If Los Angeles can't use Ivan Howard San Francisco will find a place for him." This declaration was made today by Del Howard, Ivan's brother and manager of the Seals.

"I could use Ivan very comfortably at second base," continued Del.

Manager Howard yesterday picked the team which will battle the Chicago White Sox on Friday. McCarl, the Berkeley recruit, will be at first; Kibler, second; Cartright, third, and Corhan, short. In the outfield will be Hoffman, Hogan and Zimmerman. Henley, Thomas, Hughes and Arlett will alternate in the box, with the possibility of Harkins getting into the fray. Tub Spencer and Schmidt are slated to catch.

SEVEN PITCHERS.

Howard denies that this is a forecast of his regular season line-up. He simply picked the men for this series, on the basis of their present condition. He is looking over a squad of thirty, and it will be a week yet before he even begins the weeding-out process. He plans to carry seven pitchers, six of them a left-hander; three catchers, six infielders and four outfielders.

McArdle is certain to be carried in the utility roll. His absence from the line-up at this time is due to a bad ankle.

Howard expects to play first base regularly, and it is possible that McCarl, one of the most promising of the new men, will be carried as an understudy.

J. Cal Ewing left the camp last night for Fresno to confer with Berry and Maier regarding the new class D league. Both he and Howard are confident, but place the curb on all predictions. Last season's bitter experience tended to make them conservative.

ONE WEAK SISTER.

San Francisco is generally regarded as the "weak sister" of the league. The same estimate was placed on Oakland last spring, but the Oaks finished in front. It is hard to see where the Seals have been materially strengthened, but it must be remembered that the club, after it recovered from its demoralization, finished strong. Most of the recruits are youngsters, and it remains to be seen whether there is one of them strong enough to beat any of the old men.

Tub Spencer, behind the bat, is an exception. He is a veteran of the major leagues, and should strengthen the club.

The Seals size up as a good-hitting club, but more speed must be injected if it is to figure. Howard and Zimmerman will both hit above .300, while Hogan figures to hit up to that mark.

Howard and Ewing realise the need of more speed on the sacks and promise to import it if it can't be developed with the material on hand.

"The club does not yet satisfy me," said Howard, "but I think that it is stronger than last year. Corhan, who ranked with Berger as a shortstop, is regaining his confidence after the 'beaning' he received in the East, and will be better this year. The addition of Hogan has helped. He is in grand condition."

There are three Southern California boys in the squad, in Delhi, Sepulveda and Callan. Sepulveda is trying out behind the bat. Callan is an amateur infielder and is making a hit with Howard.

NOVEL SPEEDOMETER MARKS TIME FOR YOU.

The Renfro speedometer, an instrument which should be of decided interest to every owner of an automobile, taxicab or truck, who employs a driver, is being handled with great success in this city by Lee S. Reeves of the Martin Sales Company, No. 833 West Pico street. The Renfro speedometer is the invention of A. D. Renfro of Los Angeles and San Francisco, and is manufactured in Detroit.

By means of a moving tape operated by the clock of the speedometer and an indelible pencil moved by the indicating hand of the speedometer, an exact record of the day's run is kept. At the close of the day the owner has a record of the time the machine was running, and standing idle, and the rate of speed it was driven. With this instrument the owner is enabled to put a set speed on his car or trucks, and can tell at a glance if the driver has run over this speed during any time of the day. Owners of rent cars thus are enabled to keep an exact check on their drivers; truck owners can see whether their drivers are speeding or loafing on the job, and private owners can immediately tell if their chauffeurs borrow their machines for joy rides.

That the machine will ever be popular with a certain type of chauffeur is hardly to be expected, but on the other hand, the careful driver will welcome the device for it affords him immediate and convincing evidence of just what his machine has been doing at all times. In case of accidents or arrest, it will vindicate him if he is in the right, and can be used as evidence in any legal action involving the car.

The use of this instrument on trucks to check speeding, possesses distinct advantages over the use of governors that automatically limit to certain speed, for the latter devices prevent obtaining the full power of the engine on hills.

BOISE BEATEN BY SOLDIERS.

Cavalry Rallies and Wins in Second Half.

Losers Drop One Point Due to Fouls.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, March 4.—In a sharply-contested game of polo today the First Cavalry 4 defeated the Boise team by 6½ to 4 3-4. Boise scored two goals and the army men one in the opening period. The army added two in the second and Boise one. Each registered one in the third, and Boise took two to the army's one in the fourth.

A foul by the army and a score by Boise left the score for the last 5 3-4 to 4¼ in favor of Boise, but the soldiers rallied in the last and scored twice, while the "cow boys" failed to make a goal and not a point by two fouls.

Near the end of the game Lieut. Haverkamp wrenched his wrist and was relieved by Lieut. Lininger. The line-up:

Vance Home Again.

KNOX FACTORY SWAMPED WITH FIRE-TRUCK ORDERS

WARREN VANCE of the Vance-Canavan Company, agents for the Knox and Carterear, returned yesterday from the Knox factory at Springfield, after four weeks spent in the East. The Knox people, according to Vance, are swamped with orders for fire apparatus and Knox tractors. He says the factory is working its force night and day to supply the demand and to add to the confusion, Vance placed three additional orders for tractors and one for a complete fire-fighting outfit.

"Never in the history of the concern was the Knox factory in a more flourishing condition," said Vance yesterday. "When I reached there and placed by orders, I was told that I must take my chance with the other agents because of the rush. I had the pleasure, however, of seeing the first big tractor shipped out to my company and the commercial truck will be here this coming week.

"There is no need for alarm, however, as the factory has recently increased its working force and will be able to supply the demand this season, which is to be, judging from the orders already booked, the best in the history of the Knox plant. The financial condition of the company was never firmer. The Knox people will build more cars than ever this year and will branch out into the commercial department with a strong bid for popularity."

While in the East, Vance visited the automobile show at Chicago. There he met Harry R. Bonfils, vice-president of the Carterear Company, and the two spent the week at the auto salon. The new Carterears are beginning to arrive. The first shipment reached here last week and another is due to arrive this week. Vance has arranged to receive two shipments each week until the end of the present season. While in Chicago, Vance saw the Carterear car which William Jennings Bryan, the new Secretary of State, purchased at the show.

Very Hopeful.

POMONA BASEBALL TEAM SHOULD SHINE THIS YEAR.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

IF THE POMONA track and field team reminds the student of the fall of the Roman empire, the baseball prospects have all the rosy tints. The team has been working steadily for the past month under Coach Vincent Shutt and Capt. Hal Kingman have rounded out a tremendous offensive organization and are now ready to take the field for the southern title.

Of last year's veterans only two are missing, in Wight, shortstop, and Shutt, catcher. Lutz has stepped into the gap behind the bat and is showing a splendid game of ball, considering the fact that Shutt did, but there is no wonder.

Holloway, the new shortstop, appears to be a faster and a better man than Wight. He not only covers a lot of ground, but carries a heavier bat. Capt. Kingman says that he expects to have Holloway batting .300 this season.

VETERANS IN DANGER.

There is a hot contest on for second and third base this season. Edwards, at second, and Dearborn, at third, are the veterans in the game, but two freshmen, Vosper and Youngman, are giving the old heads a stiff argument for their places on the varsity team.

So far the hitting of the team this season has been materially better than that of last year. Kingman says that the team proved that it could come from behind in the game with the University Stars, when a seven-inning batting rally won the game for Pomona.

Capt. Kingman, the first baseman of the team, is probably one of the greatest college ball players in the history of the game in the south. This season he hit better than .400 in the regular intercollegiate games and fielded almost perfectly. This year he is proving even more remarkable than before.

He works from the south, and while many think that he may develop into a second Hal Chase. The former Pomona star of several of the Coast league teams have been dangling contracts before Kingman's nose, but he declares that he will finish college ball before seriously taking a whirl in fast company.

The Occidental team to be feared this year by Pomona has been batting against Bonfils' delivery for the past two weeks and is now ready to take the field against the Sagebrush team.

As yet, the Hunk has not been seen in any games with the U.S.C. team, but this matter will likely be arranged after the southern nine has played several open dates.

A. L. DENNIS,
Superintendent of Circulation, The Times.

[Seal] T. L. CHAPIN,

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies of its issues. Neither does it withdraw or predate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply the patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every material to that of any other newspaper in Southern California.

Australian Does Not Like Our Methods.

No Uniformity in Decisions by Our Referees.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—Australians don't seem to care for the way Rugby football is played on the Pacific Coast. Extracts have been received here of a report made by Dr. Otto Bohrsmann, manager of the Australian Waratah team, covering the team's tour of the Coast.

"Rules regarding the replacing of players are entirely ignored," the report says.

"The contestants are so imbued with the fact that their side must win that they prepare most assiduously. Training with them is a religion. It has been stated on reliable authority that the record number which has represented one side in a match is ninety-one, that is, over six different teams have participated as one combination.

EMBARRASSING.

"This irregular substitution caused much embarrassment to us. One game where we were beaten by one point, the opposing half-back and wing three-quarters were replaced within twenty minutes of 'no side' after other substitutes had been furnished at half time. Naturally the well-trained, fresh players at such a critical period turned the scale in favor of the home team."

Coast referees come in for strictures, the report averring that "there was no uniformity about their decisions," concerning certain rules of play, "and the players never knew what to expect."

American spectators are commended.

"The on-lookers are very keen and bestowed their applause with equity." Methods of managing a crowd, however, are declared to be "not as up-to-date as in Sydney."

RUSHERS GETTING READY FOR WORK

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

REDONDO BEACH, March 4.—Quite a number of the local ball players will play in the Pacific League games this season. The majority of these is to report to their teams in a few days and played with the local team for the last time last Sunday.

Alva Gipe, the young pitcher who signed a year ago with the Vernons last year with Connie Mack's Athletics, will leave March 15 to report at Seattle, where he will play in the Northwestern League. Gipe came home from Philadelphia ill and is in the hospital there for many weeks with pneumonia. He has recovered.

"Barney" or Oliver Collins, the ex-first baseman, and Mrs. Collins left yesterday for Salt Lake City, where Barney will play in the Western Association.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 4.—One-fifth of the Chicago members of the American Bowling Congress stand ready to quit the organization as the Cleveland players have threatened to do, on account of its legislation barring the "dodo" ball, according to report last night.

The proportion named as satisfied is that indicated by the vote in the case over the loaded ball, and is held to be conservative. The "dodo" vote was called secret, but every voter is required to sign his ballot, and it is to have been openly canvassed by the official of the Chicago Bowling Association, who asked him to go on record against the "dodo."

Supporters of some of the leading players say it will be impossible for them to play the ball, as their patrons will not have it so.

Many of the Chicago clubs hold that Cleveland also that the teams and some of the officials should name the city where the tournaments are to be held.

PLAYERS REVOLT AGAINST THE A. B. C.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 4.—One-fifth of the members of the American League stand ready to follow the organization as the Cleveland players have threatened to do, in case of its legislation barring the spit ball, according to report here tonight.

The proportion named as satisfied is indicated by the vote in the case of the loaded ball, and is held to be conservative. PRIZE FIGHT IS LEGALLY DEFINED.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MILWAUKEE, March 4.—District Court Judge Neele B. Neelen decided today against the boxing promoters in the test case involving Joe Welling of Chicago and Jack Redmond of Milwaukee, who engaged in a ten-round bout here on January 17. The men were bound over for trial to the municipal court.

The court held that the fact that the announcer said that some other boxer was ready to meet the winner made the event a prize fight.

Harry Wolverton stated last night in Sacramento that two changes are almost sure to be made in the Sacramento infield, but declined to state the position in which he expects to make switches.

As the two new men wanted, one of them, Berghammer, a shortstop from the Chicago Cubs, will not be available until after the season opens, Sacramento probably will start the race with an infield fashioned from the material now on hand.

Foster looks like a world-beater at this writing, but like a lot of youngsters he may "blow" when the veterans get into their stride. Wolverton is sweet on him just now, and will give him a thorough trial. Foster is fast on the bases, a hard hitter and fields neatly.

Ireland, however, is first choice for third base. Considering his limited experience, he made a good showing last season. Wolverton believes that he is entitled to a further trial, and the indications are that he will start the season at third.

Wolverton is training as hard as any man on the squad, and should anything go wrong at the difficult corner, he will be ready to step in. Harry weighed 214 pounds last season, and is now down to 195. He hit .300 last season, and there is a lot of good baseball left in him. It would not surprise me to see him at third base a good deal this season.

Up to this time Hughey Miller has had no competition at first base. When he was right last season Miller ranked among the best first-sackers in the league. He is young, and should improve steadily. Miller's mates are boosting strong for him, and Wolverton will give him every chance to make a permanent thing of first base.

Patsy O'Rourke is not worrying about his job at second base. In fact, he has not yet reported, and during his absence no one has tried to take it away from him. Patsy came up from Santa Clara for a short visit yesterday. He was wearing his usual "I-should-worry" expression.

When I landed in Sacramento on the way up, who should I bump into but Jimmy de Whale and "Demon" Doyle, Coast League heroes of bygone days.

Whalen is not doing a thing in the world at the present time. He hasn't looked at a baseball since turned loose by the Tigers last season, but he would welcome a managerial berth in the proposed new league. Nothing would suit him better than to get hold of the Vallejo club.

Atkin made a ten-strike when he signed Wolverton to manage the club, while his own liberal expenditures to bolster the team has caused the people of Sacramento to wax enthusiastic. The fans of that burg have so often experienced the "hope deferred that maketh the heart sick," that their place was on the verge of becoming a baseball cemetery.

Now, however, the resurrection appears to be close at hand. Should the Wolves be up in the fight straight through the season, it would not be surprising to see Sacramento draw bigger in proportion to its population than any other city in the circuit.

Jack Lively is in the best shape of his career, and immensely pleased at the prospect of playing under Wolverton again. Jack is fully fifteen pounds lighter than when he was with Oakland in 1910, and has made good in his promise to report in prime condition. Detroit tried to send Jack to Providence last season. He balked at this and refused to report. The Coast looks good to him.

Pygmies Passed Up.

BIG HURLERS ARE WANTED.

All Teams Are Seeking the Tall Flinger.

Small Pitchers Not Desired by Big Leaguers.

McGraw Signed Giant Before He Had Won.

There was a time when a small man had a chance to make good in baseball as a pitcher, but only big fellows are wanted for such positions nowadays. Old-time fans will remember when "Kid" Carsey and "Wee Willie" McGill held their own with other major league stars. They were small even for the pitchers of those days, but they would be midgets compared with the present-day crop of curve breeders. So keen are the managers after six-foot pitchers that they will spend weeks and months trying to drill a giant into the rudiments of twirling, whereas they will scarcely give a second look to a youth who is under the five-foot eight mark.

If the average height of the twirlers on any major league team was secured it would probably be found that it was close to the six-foot. The New York Americans are boasting of two pitchers who stand over six feet tall and other clubs are thankful that they have a bunch of big fellows to do the twirling.

They will have to step some, though, to equal a trio of pitchers on the staff of the Phillies. Eppa Rixey, Jr., tops all the twirlers in the National League. He stands six feet five inches high, while Gaddy, a youngster from the Coast, and Earl Moore each stand six feet two inches high.

The New York Giants can boast of such human skyscrapers as Marquard, Tesreau and Mathewson, and McGraw is going in for more big men. Two of his young pitchers this spring will be Tom Hanley, who is six feet two inches high, and E. K. Perryman, who boasts of being six feet four and one-half inches tall.

So keen is McGraw to sign giant twirlers that he actually got Perryman's name to a contract last year before the youth had won a game. Last year Perryman pitched for Richmond, Va. He won five games in twenty last season. Despite this, McGraw says he will take the youngster to the training camp and give him all the coaching possible, in the hope that he will turn out to be another Tesreau.

Would any such encouragement be given to a youth of five and one-half feet? Not by a jugful. If a chap who is short of stature but long on brains wants to get a good trial in baseball he wants to cut out the pitching and catching and try for an infield or outfield berth.

"OXY" BALL TEAM IS TO PLAY THROOP.

The Oxy Tiger baseball team is to take another fling this afternoon, when Wilkie Clark's braves are to be pitted against the team from the Throop Polytechnic Institute of Pasadena. Throop has a good ball team this season and may give the Tigers a stiff argument before the afternoon is over.

The Pomona Huns defeated Throop and now that the Tigers are to meet the Mechanics, the fans will have their first opportunity to draw a line of comparison between Pomona and Occidental.

SEMI-FINALS AT ANNANDALE.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

NATHAN P. MEARS, the nice-looking young bachelor from Santa Barbara, created the sensation of the day in the Annandale Club championship by defeating Erving S. Armstrong, the holder of the title, in the semi-finals by 1 up.

He had a medal score of 76 against Armstrong's 79. He made the first nine in 36, one below par. And this from a young man who was little more than a tyro in golf a year ago. It has been evident for some time that he ranked among the club's best players. Now he is in the running for the amateur champion at next week's meeting.

There were several good matches during the day. Armstrong defeated L. S. Lippy in the morning by 4 up and 3 in a very fine round, wherein he made a brilliant 75. N. P. Mears defeated A. A. French by 3 and 1, although his 84 in that round gave little indication of the way he would show off in the afternoon.

Michael McLaughlin defeated Armine Brand by 7 and 5, and that on an 84-medal score. Is it that new "golf neuritis," or is Mr. Brand's game foot behaving badly again? I thought 91's were a thing of the past for him.

E. N. Wright played a splendid round in the morning and defeated E. R. Williams by 4 up and 3. Then came the semi-final contest, with McLaughlin, in which both played "safe," and fought every inch of the way. McLaughlin won by 1 up and 1, with 78 against Wright's 84.

The thirty-six-hole finals will be played today between Mears and McLaughlin. In any case the club will enshrine a new champion. On their most recent showing Mears would appear to stand the better chance, but McLaughlin's calm fortitude and persistence are an important factor to contend against, even when he is not playing his best. McLaughlin was runner-up in this event last year, as also in the Southern California championship.

The Team Matches.

The Annandale team goes to the Los Angeles Country Club next Saturday for the league match, when the sternest contest of the season seems probable. The two crack teams have been regarding each other with respectful speculation since the league matches opened, but this is their first meeting.

On Sunday the 9th, the Victoria Club team comes down from Riverside to play Los Angeles, and on Monday they visit Annandale. So far Riverside has made quite a decent showing. She beat Redlands 5 to 2 on her own links, and won four matches to three in Saturday's visit to Redlands.

On this occasion her team consisted of Martin Chase, who played Palmer and beat him. Of R. D. Osburn, who played Raymond Hornby and beat him. Of E. N. Hillegas, who played Morris Phillips and lost. Of H. G. Pattee, who played Gage and lost. Of T. Hewett, who played Albert Will and lost. And of E. B. Howe, who played Edgar Williams, Jr., and beat him.

They also won six matches from the Virginians and even captured two from the Los Angeles team and five from San Gabriel.

The present standing of the teams is: Los Angeles, 38; Annandale, 22; San Gabriel, 24; Redlands, 9; Riverside, 32, and Virginia, 5.

Los Angeles and Annandale have, however, only played four matches. San Gabriel has played eight matches; Redlands, three matches, Riverside, six matches, and Virginia, five matches.

On Tuesday, the 11th, Redlands plays Los Angeles—the day before the championship. On that day also, the Riverside men will go to Long Beach to play Virginia.

And after that the championship. Los Angeles is the Mecca of all good golfers these days, and one simply can't go anywhere without colliding with a golf celebrity. I have a grave suspicion they arranged this date so that they could see the Fashion Show.

TWENTY-FIVE HORSEMEN PAY ON FUTURITY RACE.

BY GREY OLIVER.

TWENTY-FIVE owners have made the fifth and last payment on the original fifty-eight nominations for the Canfield-Clark stake for trotters and pacers to race this year and next year on the Exposition track and this proves to Secretary Delorey of the Los Angeles Harness Horse Association that there will be a big list of starters for the first of the events to be known here at the big August meeting.

This stake is for Futurity foals of 1911-12, to trot and pace as 3-year-olds in 1913-14. The fifty-eight nominations have dwindled down to twenty-five that have gone through the fifth payment and these are yet to pay the starting fee. It is expected that all of them will do this, for they would certainly not balk at the starting fee, after having made good on the other payments.

The Los Angeles Futurity stake, No. 2, of $10,000, for nominations of 1912, to race in 1915-16, has closed with 255 nominations. This is the best stake ever offered for harness horses on the Coast and the number of nominators shows how the horsemen and breeders regard the proposition.

Barring an unexpected rain, this week, the Los Angeles Driving Club will present on Saturday at Exposition Park what looks like a fine programme of harness races. Practically the same horses will be in it as were scheduled to race last Saturday, with the addition of a new one called John Kelly. It is by Bolock, he by Zolock.

* * *

The feature of the card on Saturday will be the 2:18 pace and in this will be Little Bernice, Iras, Hal Mac, Tim Whiffler and Ma Jella. Sam Watkins's Little Bernice is doped to win this. She is so good that Watkins has refused an offer of $2000 for her, but he knows that she is worth more on what she has shown so far. Sam thinks she is about the sweetest little thing that ever happened in this country. Bernice worked a quarter in 30¼ on Monday, which is a 2:01 gait.

Charley Nickerson sent his Major yesterday a mile in 2:21, with a last half in 1:12 and was not forcing him either.

Dave Stewart, who has entered several good ones in the Pine Tree stakes on the Bangor-Lewiston-Augusta circuit in Maine, worked one of his candidates two miles yesterday, going the first in 2:12½ and the second in 2:12. This mare is by Zombro. The sum of $30,000 is offered on this circuit and Stewart, Frank Loomis and Elwell will send horses from here. Junior Dan Patch will be in the lot.

Elwell sent Junior Dan Patch an easy mile in 2:15, the last half in 1:06. Mosher had Imbro and Stewart drove Joe McGregor a last quarter in 30¾. F. R. Bain breezed his Dana to a speed wagon in 2:27, in what was the sixth workout for this speedy bird. Ward made his Billy step a mile in 2:14½ and Durfee sent Josephine Watts a mile in 2:30.

There were almost 200 persons at the track yesterday morning and about 100 horses worked. There was a fine showing all around and everyone was pleased at the interest taken.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY.

BY ZIP.

ACTING under pressure of the higher-ups, it is necessary for me to this morning utilize some of this space to announce some of the features of next Sunday's pink sheet.

Perhaps the most interesting will be a brief but highly entertaining article, "What I Think of Mary Garden," by our esteemed knight of the ring, K. O. Brown.

And to add to its literary value, Bud Anderson has kindly consented to contribute an article on "The Art of Sarah Bernhardt."

Then, of interest to feminine readers will be "Jess" Dandy's great secret, "How to Get Thin," illustrated with photos of the comedian taking his daily plunge in the "Prince of Pilsen" fountain.

Dandy, being one of those lucky actors who doesn't have to put on make-up, usually saunters about the lobby along about the hour of 6, when the applicants for chorus positions, etc., are coming the thickest, who for some reason or other always mistake him for the manager of the company.

Dandy always makes it a rule to engage everyone and anyone who applies and tell them to be sure and report in thirty minutes to Tom Hodgeman, who incidentally happens to draw the manager's salary.

All of which explains why the latter spends a goodly portion of every evening letting people in on the fact that they haven't been engaged for Pilsen.

Rivaling Beau Brummel at his best, Charles Ruggles, once upon a time called Los Angeles' best juvenile man, but who now prefers to be known as a real actor, sauntered onto the Majestic stage this morning to begin his rehearsals for "The Tik-Tok Man of Oz."

Ruggles arrived from San Francisco Monday night where he has been playing a long engagement with the Alcazar company. Being in San Francisco, he accepted the commission from Oliver Morosco to select seven nice young ponies who could dance and bring this "troupe" with him to Los Angeles.

Now, Ruggles didn't mind the "selecting" part of the programme a bit, but when it came to chaperoning such young and sprightly maidens on a railroad journey—well, he promptly proceeded to change the programme of events.

Gathering the girls together he escorted them to the Howard-street wharf, gallantly helped them up the gangplank and impressed upon them the lovely sea voyage they were about to take and how much good the salt breeze would do them and said: "Girls, I'll see you later."

He then proceeded to the S. P., purchased for himself a nice, cozy drawing-room, asked the conductor if the ocean was rough these days, didn't wait for the answer, and with his Piccadilly Derby and gold-headed cane, proceeded to make the journey to Los Angeles in comfort.

There is no use trying to describe the loving greeting he received when he met those seven young, ocean-worn ponies on the Majestic stage yesterday—just the same kind of a reception that the fellow gets when he comes to collect the third installment on the family piano.

Ruggles is here to create the role of The Ugly Man in "Tik-Tok." Now it happens when any of the characters of the piece get a look at his facial map they are supposed—according to J. Frank Baum—to immediately become fit subjects for the undertaker.

Any just to rub it in one of the enthusiastic girls who enjoyed the ocean ride, asked him why he didn't play the part straight, without any make-up.

This will prove a severe shock to many. Harry Lauder has refused to take money. Our imaginations will stand a whole lot of stretching, but not to the point of believing that there is truth in this dispatch.

According to all advices obtainable, the famous Scotch comedian missed one performance last week and when the day of settlement arrived his manager, William Morris, forwarded to Mr. Lauder a check for his full week's salary.

"Dear Friend Morris:

"You hae paid me too much siller. I will naa accept o' your kind charity. Please make a new reckoning, to the last penny, and take back my salary for one performance.

"Your auld friend,

"Harry Lauder."

One of the girls developed such a good voice that she has been given a couple of songs, which she "executes" in the center of the spotlight. Commenting on her good fortune back of the stage one of the girls remarked:

"Humph," was the grouchy response from her companion, "I knew her when she was nuttin' but a church choir singer."

Miss Deepsea Mermaid Kellerman has brought suit against William Morris for a trifling matter of $20,000. Members of the Marine Society are wondering just what it is that the Fair Fish figures Mr. Morris should pay so much for.

Lillian Russell just can't keep off the stage. It was only a few months ago when the wedding bells tolled in Pittsburgh, that everyone said: "Goodby Lillian."

But now the ever sparkling Lillian is at it again. America's elected beauty—and elected by the people, not forgetting, is back on the stage, accompanied by some colored motion pictures to tell us how she's done it.

Chosen by the people she has dazzled "Our Country 'Tis of Thee" and darned near blinded it. Now she is about to graciously reflect its curiosity in her facets.

Right on top of his success with "The Elixir of Youth," Zellah Covington, who has the distinction of drawing down the author's royalties, is at it again—hard at work on a new comedy that he says he believes will prove fully as funny and financially fat as his present hit at the Burbank.

But who can blame him? He only makes about 100 per cent. more than any other author in the business. Why? Because he has conceived that very neat little idea of being author and star combined, which isn't at all bad if you should take the trouble to get paper and pencil and figure it out.

SIX TEAMS TO BE IN NEW VALLEY LEAGUE.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

VISALIA, March 4.—Representatives of the San Joaquin Valley League, who met here yesterday, received applications for admission from Taft and Coalinga. Both teams will be admitted to the league.

Another meeting of the league officials will be held here Sunday, at which time the final schedule of games for the first sixteen weeks will be arranged. The first games are to be played April 20.

From the present outlook, the league will comprise teams from Visalia, Tulare, Bakersfield, Lemoore, Coalinga and Taft.

AROUND THE OPERA.

BY JOE MINSTER.

The occasion for revealing her actual identity was the discovery of a long-lost brother in the lobby of the Alexandria. A laughing, red-gray-haired chap in frock coat, or something resembling that style, came wandering through the marble hall and suddenly his face assumed a stare. His eyes stood out, his shoulders heaved, his countenance suffused and he started a football dash through the crowd.

Grasping a beautiful young lady from the group, he clasped her round the waist and implanted firmly a kiss upon her lips, much to the surprise of the astounded soprano, who started to yell for help and stopped with a smothered "Stanley."

It was just ten years ago that she had last accorded him the pleasure of her company and naturally the occasion was not a minor event of a lifetime. Miss Stanley, the name she uses on the stage, is one she admittedly purloined from her big brother, whom, save for age, she resembles sufficiently to be a twin sister.

Battle-scarred, but almost juvenile in appearance, is Francis de Cisneros, for ten years past husband of a famous opera star.

After all of this time, he is still as devoted to his charming American wife as a lover in the first blush of being a bridegroom. A big man physically, he trails after the mezzo-queen in perpetual admiration.

He has given her more than a title, for De Cisneros is a count. His family is ancient in its Spanish history and his ancestors were soldiers and explorers of fame, which accounts for the fact of his birth in Cuba and ultimately his battle scars.

When the oppressive period of Spanish rule rode the island, he was one of the patriots who was in the field from the beginning to end of the long campaign. Four bullet marks on his countenance alone attest his valor. He never got over the fighting habit entirely, having become an editer after the war.

He now owns the El Figaro, the weekly "Town Topics" of Havana, but usually directs its affairs from a distance, being perpetually with the beautiful Eisenors.

Speak of himself? Yes, occasionally, but always with "but I must tell you about my wife," accompanying his remark with an offer of any amount of pictures.

They say he is a terrible foe to the stage-door Johnny and has come near standing trial on charge of near-manslaughter of mashers.

W. L. Lambert, Pasadena multi (no use using the rest of the descriptive noun,) was at the depot in his immense touring car and acted as first aid for arrivals when the company reached the smelly, smoky, antediluvian Arcade Station. He intended to carry two or three of his intimate friends who happened to be in the company to their respective hotels, but before the task was well started his friends multiplied to a small army and his chauffeur was kept busy for two hours hauling loads of temperament and trouble (ask the general manager.) He carried celebrities, near-celebrities and a few mere members of the business staff in his vehicle of joy.

* * *

Sitting on a baggage truck, ruminating about the joys of being a backer of opera, Charles G. Dawes, vice-president of the company, also vice-president of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, smiled a large smile of contentment.

The company, after a train wreck, one-night stands and other unusual pleasures for an opera troupe, was finally arriving safe and sound in Los Angeles. In addition to that, Dallas, a place never before heard of in the musical world, had turned over to his aggregation of far-famed, stupendous, mastodonic, unrivaled and other circus adjective talent, the glorious sums of $15,000 and $16,000 at the gate.

Prize fights have been the only drawing cards to ever elevate the Texans to this princely expenditure of money in the past. Consequently Dawes has been smiling ever since.

The lady interviewer, with her voluminous pad and assortment of esthetically-tipped pencils, was right on hand when the gates swung open to the newspaper fraternity at the Mary Garden suite. One of them became infected with temperament and insisted upon embracing the diva. Three hasty adieus and French farewells were not sufficient for the lady reporter, who by this time had screwed her courage to the point where she could produce the bear hug. With a dive she encircled the waist of the peerless Garden and clung to it like a drowning woman to a life saver until gently, but firmly, removed from further protestations of intimacy.

F. B. Silverwood and Manny Lowenstein will shine through the talent of Mary Garden. She faithfully gave her promise to Len Behymer to sing their new ballad, "I Love My California," no matter what the cost to her reputation, and incidentally to please the host of Shriners to whom the song is dedicated.

With Tenor Hamlin, who will sing the lead in "Natoma," she trilled the air, and in true moving-picture style had Manager Shalley, Len Behymer and several other friends join in the grand chorus just to see what effect it would have on the police standing half a block down the street. The last seen of the cop was the end of his coat trailing around the Los Angeles Trust building at a terrific speed and the artist assured her assistants that the song should certainly take.

At the Empress Theater. Frances wanders down from the stage and teases the bald-headed men in the audience. Frances is very charming, but that wasn't what the bald-headed men went to the theater for.

SNODGRASS LOVE AFFAIR STIRRING.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

VENTURA, March 4.—The eternal triangle of two women and one man was the forcible picture presented in the Superior Court here today in the breach of promise suit in which Miss Nellie Frakes of Roosevelt, Los Angeles county, is seeking to recover $75,000 damages from Fred Snodgrass, the Giant baseball player.

Miss Frakes, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Parker of Los Angeles, made her first public appearance in the case. She is a pretty and slender brunette and was gowned in most fashionable attire of brown. She attracted considerable attention because of her youthfulness and comeliness.

She evinced considerable notice from Mrs. Snodgrass, wife of the plaintiff, who frequently turned her head in the direction of Miss Frakes. And the latter smiled more often than not when Mrs. Snodgrass looked her way.

After vain attempts yesterday on the part of the plaintiff to have the case transferred to Los Angeles, or to secure delay, the work of the securing of the jury was proceeded with.

One of the chief questions was: "Do you believe in the double standard of morality?" Another of the questions was: "Do you believe cause for action in a case of this kind has gone stale after five years?"

The work of getting a jury may not be completed until morning and it is just possible that another venire may be issued. The plaintiff's attorney is fighting clear of Oxnard men on the jury, as Snodgrass now calls Oxnard his home and is a baseball favorite in that city.

TRACK MEET AT REDLANDS SATURDAY.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

REDLANDS, March 4.—The tri-city track meet, which is to be held on the Redlands field next Saturday, is arousing considerable enthusiasm among the students of the High School of this city.

The local track is one of the fastest in Southern California, and with the team from this city, winners of the track meet at Long Beach last Saturday, and the Riverside and San Bernardino teams, all composed of fast men, it is expected that many of the previous records will be smashed.

Redlands will enter Harris and Leonard in both high and low hurdles; Watson in the 100 and 220-yard dash and the high jump; Whittemore in the hammer throw and shot put; Sutt and Carroll, 44-yard dash; Weed, in the pole vault, and Yount, Berry, Chestnut, Smith, Shirrell, Knowlton, Weed and Gay will appear in various roles.

PIRATES HAVE FOUR GOOD PITCHERS.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—[Special Dispatch.] According to the experts around the circuit, Pittsburgh is the only club in either league to have four good pitchers. The men talked about are Adams, Camnitz, Hendrix and O'Toole.

These experts give the Giants two—Mathewson and Tesreau. Notwithstanding the fact that Rube Marquard holds the record of nineteen consecutive victories, we never see him referred to as "a great" pitcher.

The Cubs are granted two good pitchers in Lavender and Reulbach. None of the other National League clubs has more than one and some of them none.

BUSKEE'S Dry Gin is the very best imported. Why accept inferior gins? Insist on "Buskee's."

WITH THE PHOTOPLAYERS.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

MANY of the biggest stars and semi-stars of the legitimate stage have tried out in motion picture productions, and have failed utterly; yet a large percentage of the leading photoplayers entered the profession after years of training in musical comedy, stock or the drama.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt received something like $15,000 for her first pictures, and they were an absolute failure. The reason for this was the desire of the directors to get full figures instead of close-up "stuff."

Twenty or thirty feet away from the camera, all the expressions of the face and eyes are lost. To the spectators, Sarah Bernhardt was lost. It might have been any mediocre actress performing in the background for all they could tell. What the public wanted was to see the great actress. See the wide range of expression on her face.

The next pictures taken were a great success. The directors brought the star up to within a few feet of the machine, where her acting stood out in half and three-quarter figures, and was reproduced in an excellent manner.

One reason why many players of long service fail in pictures is, they overact. A photoplayer to be a success must act natural in his scenes, yet "act big." Every move and expression is so magnified on the screen that "every little movement has a meaning."

The flaws in the acting of many players are covered up on the stage, but in film drama only the acting counts; and is stripped of the decorations of the orchestra and the sound of the voice. A reel actor cannot bring out a laugh by the aid of the trap drummer. The figures are brought up so large that the space is limited and the whole success or failure of a production often falls on the ability of a player to convey a meaning with his eyes.

Make-up shows in pictures and must be used sparingly; therefore the actor must be of the correct type for each part. Some directors never resort to make-up, but select the cast from those most suited for the parts.

Even in most large productions, the Indians, Mexicans and cowboys are the genuine article.

This demand for types creates a refuge for old actors who have out-Charles Manley, with the Powers stage with the hard study of stock and the discomforts of the road, or have lost their singing or speaking voices.

These veterans are very important to the silent drama. They play strong parts, but have only to act perfectly natural and require no make-up.

Among these are such men as Charley Manley, with the Powers players. The oldest living actor still in the harness, who at the age of 84 is playing in every production of the Powers brand.

There is also Russell Bassett with Al E. Christie's Nestor Comedy Company, who at 66 is a popular picture comedian. "Dad" Miller, 78, of the Biograph, is still another.

It often happens that a theatrical company will go on the rocks, near the permanent location of a film company and some of the players will break into pictures and remain.

Aubrey M. Kennedy, general manager of the Universal companies located here, says that he has applications from some of the greatest men and women in the theatrical profession, for places with his companies.

Fred Mace, the popular Keystone comedian, was the first musical comedy star to go into pictures. When an offer to play for the camera first came, he refused it. He thought that pictures were beneath his dignity; but when an attractive salary was offered the second time, he capitulated.

It was his intention to play in motion pictures for a time and then go into vaudeville as "The funny man of picture fame," but Bunny beat him to it.

Miss Margarita Fischer, Otis Turner's leading woman, never saw a moving picture until after she had played in several productions. Miss Fischer laughed at the possibility of ever playing in pictures when she was a leading woman at the head of her own company; but a large salary induced her to desert the stage and she is now recognized as one of the greatest moving picture actresses in the business.

Mable Normand, Bessie Eyton and Mae Marsh, are three women playing leads in pictures who entered the profession without any previous stage experience, but their natural ability to act and act naturally soon placed them among the stars.

The Lillian Russell Kinemacolor pictures were a success, due not only to the artistic posing of the actress, the attractiveness of the gowns she wore and the Kinemacolor effects, but the able direction of David Miles. This was a special production to illustrate a fashion lecture; but the popular demand to see Lillian Russell in pictures has brought about a second film, "Lady Teazle," a costume comedy which in Kinemacolor should be extremely attractive.

Salt Lake Men Working in Etiwanda District.

Prisoners May Be Worked on County Roads.

Separated From Husband Ten Years; Divorced.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 4.—The presence of a large crew of Salt Lake railroad surveyors in the Etiwanda district has set everyone to guessing as to what route that road will finally determine to build its line upon. Some time ago it was rumored that a cut-off from the Cajon Pass to its present line at Ontario was being considered, as that would save fully twenty-five miles on the through line. The survey through Etiwanda would indicate the matter is being seriously considered.

Another survey already make skirts to the east from the Cajon, down the east side of San Bernardino city and then south to join the present line at Riverside. There is a possibility that both lines will be built, the cut-off being used for local passenger service and also for through freight traffic, at the same time giving the Salt Lake a much larger territory from which to draw business.

PRISON LABOR.

The proposition of using prison labor on some of the county highway work is being considered by the Supervisors. There are from thirty to forty prisoners in the County Jail most of the time who could be employed in work of this kind. The construction of the new road through the Cajon the coming summer will furnish the opportunity for trying the plan out and the Supervisors are trying now to figure out the best plan for handling the prisoners. It may be a camp will be established under armed guard, while another plan is for transporting the prisoners by motor truck each day. The grand juries for several years have recommended the use of prisoners on the highways.

WOMAN GETS DIVORCE.

Mrs. Lila McElvaine of Redlands has been granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from J. C. McElvaine, from whom she separated ten years ago.

The McElvaine case came into prominence through Mrs. McElvaine being charged with being the cause of a divorce action being brought by Mrs. Mary L. Gay of Redlands against her husband, who is one of the wealthy men of that city. While under Mrs. McElvaine or Gay never made any public denial of their likely for each other, the story never came out in detail as Gay made no defense to the divorce action. Mrs. McElvaine will receive her final decree in one year.

FINANCIAL BALM.

Depositions are being taken this week in San Diego in the case of N. S. Benson of Rialto against William Harrington of Los Angeles for $50,000 balm for alienation of affections of his wife. Benson is a rancher and he and Harrington were formerly fast friends. Mrs. Benson went to San Diego ostensibly on a visit and when she failed to return home Benson alleges that she declared she was not coming back. Then he discovered numerous love letters written by Harrington to his wife.

1½ MILLION POUNDS OF BUTTER

Imperial County, Recently a Desert, During the Past Year Established a Record in Dairy Production

IMPERIAL, March 4.—Ten years ago Imperial county was merely a vast waste and today it has the record of producing 6,000,000 pounds of butter in 1912. The past year witnessed Imperial county take first rank in the State in the production of butter and of the 6,000,000 pounds of this commodity manufactured in the county, the city of Imperial produced the larger percentage.

The city of Imperial is the center of the dairy industry of the valley and the center of the cattle industry as well. All important cattle-buying and shipping companies of the Pacific Coast and of Arizona maintain their offices in Imperial, resulting in large shipments to and from this city from all other points in the valley combined.

An important has Imperial grown in connection that the Southern Pacific has had plans drawn, which have been approved, for a union depot and yards, which will greatly increase the concentration of the cattle industry at Imperial.

Another one of the most remunerative of the many industries of Imperial valley is the raising of turkeys, as demonstrated by the fact that this year's turkey crop brought to the valley more than $100,000. More than 60,000 fine turkeys were shipped from the several valley points up to Dec. 15, while enough more were consumed in the valley to bring the total up to 60,000.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CALEXICO, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ex-Superfecto Gagou of Mexicali, who has been under arrest for ten days charged with grafting, was released yesterday upon payment of a fine of $100. At one time last week it was rumored that the ex-Superfecto was to be executed and a great deal of excitement prevailed on both sides of the line. Gagou immediately crossed the line to Calexico, where his family resides, and probably will depart for Los Angeles at an early date.

Secretary Ferrer, who has previously been acting Superfecto, has been appointed to the position temporarily and he has given the public to understand that so long as he holds the position petty grafting will not be permitted.

Ferrer has been a resident of Mexicali for more than a year and has the confidence of all of the residents of the border town. One of his first moves was to permit the re-establishment of slot machines, which have been prohibited for two years.

NEWS BRIEFS.

C. W. Runge, local agent for the Southern Pacific, has been appointed traveling passenger and freight agent for the same company with headquarters at El Centro. This is a new position created to fill the growing demands of the richest territory of the Southern Pacific and is a recognition on the part of the company of the increasing business which is derived from this valley. Runge has been agent at El Centro for over a year and is popular with the patrons of the county. His successor in the El Centro agency has not yet been named.

A staff officer of the United States army who is traveling incognito and who refuses to allow himself to be quoted is authority for the statement that he will recommend to the government a garrison of 2700 men at Tuma and 2700 at Calexico as an emergency reserve. He has recently visited all points on the border west of El Paso and will make his report within a few days.

ATTORNEY BUYS RANCH.

BEAUMONT, March 4.—The largest real estate transaction in this vicinity of the present year has just been closed by Will S. White, an attorney of Beaumont and Los Angeles, who has purchased of Best & Gregg the property known as the Mile-High ranch, eight miles north of this city.

This ranch is situated in the Oak Glen apple district and is largely in orchard. It is composed of 400 acres. The consideration was approximately $30,000. White intends to further develop the property and will erect a summer home there. The ranch is already paying a good income on the purchase price and its revenues will be increased through the development work to be started by White.

The new owner of the property is a son of the late United States Senator Stephen M. White.

Fortune Unguarded.

ATTORNEY WILSON FINDS BONDS AND GEMS.

Paper and Jewelry, Worth More Than Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars, "Mysteriously Missing," Is Tied in Bundle and Covered by Folded Newspaper.

More than $150,000 in government bonds, jewels, and negotiable paper was found yesterday by Donald W. Wilson in a small horseshoe trunk in the room formerly occupied by Mrs. Meckle L. Lee in the Alexandria. The collection was in a battered safe-deposit box and offered the solution to the so-called mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Lee's deposit box from a local bank. Mrs. Lee was found dead in bed Sunday in the room that she had occupied for years. Wilson was authorized by telegraph by Mrs. Lee's son in Washington to take charge of her effects.

Rare gems, jewels of great value and negotiable paper of all kinds were found wrapped and snugly tucked away in the box, together with a neatly-tied bundle of government bonds. A newspaper, folded, covered the whole. It was a fortune of sizable proportions, but the trunk was found unlocked by Wilson when he entered the room.

A player for high stakes, willing to take a long chance if the investment hinted at a substantial money return, taciturn regarding her own affairs, but well educated and on occasions a brilliant talker, is the character given Mrs. Lee by business men with whom she had dealings.

"Mrs. Lee was shrewd and suave but noncommittal," said P. D. Rowan, of R. A. Rowan & Co., yesterday. "We have had dealings with her and had maintained friendly relations for six years, but further than a hint of a daughter in India and two brothers in New Orleans, we know nothing about her family. I have heard it said, however, that she has a son in Washington, but she never mentioned it to me."

Though Mrs. Lee had lived in this city for the past six or seven years she had no close friends, and the few persons with whom she came in intimate daily contact never learned much of her past. A brother visited her once and they went about considerably together, but they never formed any intimate friendships and, in fact, rather avoided acquaintance that might lead to intimacy.

Always seemingly possessed of plenty of ready money and always plainly but faultlessly gowned, Mrs. Lee apparently enjoyed life in her own way, finding her chief diversion in business dealings. It is known that she owned property in this city at various times, but how much she owned at her death is not known.

STRIFE OVER POWER COMPANY.

Mayor and Trustees are Not of One Mind.

Elks Will Build Fifty Thousand Dollar Home.

RIVERSIDE, March 4.—The efforts of the new Industrial Committee of the Chamber of Commerce seem likely to bear rich and early fruitage in the establishment in Riverside of the general offices of the Southern Sierras Power Company, now located in Los Angeles. This would mean, it is stated, the removal of about sixty families to this city, and the distribution of approximately $10,000 per month, which it is conceded would be a welcome acquisition in any section of the orange belt in a year like the present.

At a late hour last night the Board of Public Utilities decided, by a three-to-two vote, to instruct the Mayor to draw up an agreement embodying the verbal offer of the company to remove its offices here, providing the city would agree to enter into a contract to purchase a certain amount of power from the company. The tentative offer was for 1 cent per kilowatt.

This is a lower rate than that charged by the Southern California Edison Company under the terms of one of its contracts, which will expire in a few weeks.

The question confronting the Board of Trustees was whether the city should determine to give the contract to the Sierras company outright, in view of the promise to locate its offices here, or whether competitive bids should not be sought and other companies given opportunity of submitting proposals.

The fact that the tentative bid of the Sierras company had been given publicity tended to complicate the situation.

Mayor Peters voted against the proposition on the ground that in a contract involving the consideration of that contemplated, the city could not do otherwise than advertise for competitive bids, and declared that when the matter came up to the board for approval he should advise against the approval of the contract and would veto it. The members of the board taking the opposite view of the matter evidently believe the board will ratify the contract over the Mayor's veto.

The Chamber of Commerce committee is urging early action on the ground that San Bernardino is making overtures for the general offices of the company, and that the question of which city will get the plum will be decided before the first of April.

FIFTY THOUSAND ELKS' HOME.

With the election of P. T. Evans as Exalted Ruler of Riverside B.P.O.E., No. 643, last night, came the announcement that the lodge should be established in a $50,000 clubhouse by January 1, 1914. Mr. Evans gave this pledge to 100 or more Elks present, at last night's meeting, and discussed the details of the plans for the proposed three-story building which may before many months grace the lot owned by the lodge on Market street, between White Park and the Hotel Holyrood.

The plans call for a lounging-room and cafe on the first floor, while the second will provide for the lodge-rooms and some apartments. In the basement will be installed the baths, bowling alleys and other club accessories. The building will be as attractive in its exterior architectural features as it will be luxurious and modern in its interior appointments.

The Building Committee will consist of the Exalted Ruler and the trustees of the lodge, including P. T. Evans, W. Fred Thomas, Fred Speich and Arthur B. Pilch.

The feeling engendered as the result of the cutting-out of a number of the peppers from the center row of trees on Magnolia avenue for the accommodation of switches of the Pacific Electric Railway Company brought out a record-breaking attendance at the meeting of the Board of Trustees this morning.

Avenue residents by the score, and the most prominent citizens from all walks of life, were on hand to hear Mayor Petera's report of his investigation of the situation, of which the avenue residents complain. Many of the speakers injected personalities into their arguments, and there ensued a number of heated denials of some of the statements made.

The residents along the avenue profess to see the handwriting on the wall in the tree removals already accomplished, holding that when the railway company is ready to lay a second track on the avenue to complete its interurban connections with Los Angeles by way of La Habra, the entire row of trees will come out.

The board agreed to go over the route in a body Friday morning and confer with the property owners in the matter of tree removals for an important switch or crossing track yet to be installed.

The center row of peppers, which some regard as the distinguishing feature of the avenue, has had to be heavily pruned, owing to the interference with lighting and trolley wires, and the installation of another track on the opposite side of the row, will present a problem not far removed from that of trying to make two bodies occupy the same space at the same time. What will be the result of the controversy does not appear at the present time.

An encouraging step in the direction of a settlement of the matter of having protection installed at the dangerous railroad crossing in the city, was taken at today's meeting of the board. It was reported that at least one of the three railway companies was ready to heed the recommendations of the board with respect to the type of signal to be employed, and a conference has been arranged with the representatives of the three roads next Tuesday to determine what shall be used. It is likely that gates will be deemed advisable at certain crossings, and so-called "wig-wag" signals at others.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, of pure food fame, former government chemist, will lecture here some time in April under the auspices of the Congregational Men's Club. The lecture will concern pure food problems, which subject that had the attention of the local club for some months.

Local Stock Market Activities

BY JNO. O. KNIGHT.

Trading opened this week with alternating gains and losses in several market leaders. Producers' Transportation Company continued in urgent demand, selling yesterday at $92.00, with little stock offered even at that price. Western Union Oil, which has just declared an extra dividend of $1.00 per share, also was bid at a higher figure without any sales resulting. Amalgamated Oil reacted to $86.00 after selling last week at $87.00.

Amalgamated is attracting considerable attention by reason of the large dividend this company pays. Dividends were resumed December, 1911, and $1.00 per share per month has been paid since that time, with an extra dividend last march of an equal amount. The stock is consequently returning about 14 per cent. on its present market price. The Company has no bonded indebtedness nor other liabilities except current bills, and, according to official statement, now has a surplus in cash, accounts receivable, and oil on rand, of over $400,000. The present production is said to be about 7300 barrels per day, and the company is marketing of their own and other oils something over 400,000 barrels monthly. Capitalization is $5,000,000 and properties consist of 725 acres owned in fee and 400 acres leased in the Fullerton field, and 2075 leased in the Sherman field, both leases being on an eighth royalty basis. Drilling operations are being actively carried on, and three new wells in the Fullerton field should come in within the next few weeks. If these should prove as good as some of the former wells the company has brought in, in that field, its earnings will be very largely increased.

Trading in Los Angeles Investment Company stock has been in considerable volume at prices ranging from $4.07 to $4.10.

Transactions in California National Life have been made this week on a basis of $9.75 a share. Great Republic Life was in better demand with bids ranging around $12.

STOCK LETTER.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The Evening Post in its financial review today says: "Most of the markets were more or less unsettled today, though the situation here was much less pronounced than was that at Berlin and London. The German Bourse was notably weak owing to the tension in the money market, which caused the banks to curtail loans to mercantile customers. The English market was also depressed by liquidation from Berlin, but the disturbance was not sufficient to cause heavy selling of stocks by London traders. The selling here was at no time heavy, and while the market showed rather decided weakness in the afternoon, the reaction was natural in view of the extent of yesterday's advance. It was significant that after the declines, which were in most cases only fractional, the market became noticeably dull. There was nothing to indicate that the inaugural address had much if any effect. The fact was that Wall Street did not have time to digest the address or to do anything more than take accounts of its chief recommendations. The whole market before the close became rather weak on reports that the situation in Germany had become troublesome and that the demand for money at Berlin might force other markets to give up gold to that quarter before the month was out. Closing prices for most stocks here were near the lowest of the day, but there was no pressure in the final trading. A slightly easier tone to the money market here was reflected in a further advance of foreign exchange rate to a level which gave rise to some discussion as to a possible resumption of the gold export movement of Paris. The situation there had been considerably relaxed since the Bank of France found it advisable to offer inducements for were necessary to start the outflow of 117,000,000 gold from this city on January 1. No such facilities were offered today, but it was evident that the rise in foreign exchanges had made the resumption of a Paris gold movement more difficult, than it was a week ago. The situation in this respect was made more interesting by the reports of developments and the efforts of Berlin banks to secure large advances of money here. It was evident, however, that the German bidders did have to join their bids considerably above the 5 per cent. level, that was offered recently for special deposits from New York banks. It is expected shortly for the foreign borrowers to offer the very high rates which were held out a year ago in connection with the arrangements to finance the quarterly settlement obligations. Discount rates were slightly higher at Berlin and the broad demand for money at London was reflected by the fact that Japan had to offer 5½ per cent. to secure $15,000,000 through the sale of two-year treasury notes. There will be various other loans of that nature announced before long and the indications were that most of the borrowings will have to be done on virtually a 6 per cent. basis.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The business of producing hothouse cucumbers for the winter trade has undergone considerable expansion in the vicinity of Los Angeles during the past few years. Cucumbers are practically the only vegetable raised to any great extent by artificial means. Shipments are received pretty steadily at this season, the price ranges around $1.75 to $2.50 a box. One producer alone is estimated to have about six acres under hothouse cultivation near the city.

The market is steadily better supplied with all varieties of vegetables. Good shipments of cabbage are received from the north, and a fair quantities of asparagus come in from the delta regions of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys. Good celery is rather scarce, and sells around $1.50 to $4 per crate. The potato market is stronger yesterday. Potatoes continue at low prices, without any apparent sign of a change. Vegetables remain the principal source of interest on the market.

There is no particular change in the condition of the apple market. It has been benefited to some extent by the poor demand for oranges this year. This probably saved a big slump in prices. Bananas continue at low prices, owing to the competition and the poor eastern demand.

Extras butter was up ¼ cent yesterday, and continues somewhat higher than last year at this time. It is only a matter of a few weeks when it will reach 40 cents, and will be witnessed, according to present predictions. Cheese was easier, owing to a falling off ¼ cent in San Francisco. Receipts of eggs for the week are not unlikely locally. Eggs continue the same, without a prospect of aught but minor changes.

Reported receipts were: Eggs, 419 cases; butter, 46,100 pounds; cheese, 159 pounds; potatoes, 1382 sacks; sweet potatoes, 42 sacks; apples, 2600 boxes.

HEAVY RECEIPTS WEAKEN WHEAT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 4.—Signs that abandoned acreage would be the smallest in years had a bearish effect today on wheat. Closing prices though firm, were ½ to ¼ under last night. Corn showed a net loss of ½ to ¾; oats finished unchanged to ¼ lower and provisions at a decline of 2½@5 to 30. According to a leading authority, so little winter damage had been done to wheat that it was not unlikely the breadth for the harvest this season might run between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 acres larger than a year ago. Expected heavy receipts at Minneapolis added to the weakness of wheat. Bearish feeling, however, expressed itself when news came that export sales had been made somewhat freely by way of the gulf. A moderate rally due largely to shorts realizing profits, took place as trading came to an end. Total clearances of wheat and flour equalled 288,000 bushels. Primary receipts of wheat were 885,000 bushels, against 548,000 bushels a year ago. Corn suffered through sympathy with wheat. Millions of bushels on track in the Chicago switching district had a further depressing influence and so also did bearish predictions regarding the government statement next Monday as to farm reserves. Despite some aggressive selling, oats were held steady by commission-house support. Selling of provisions resulted from a break in the hog market. Later there was fair buying credited to interests at the stock yards.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The City Council yesterday set April 15 as the date for the bond election and authorized the propositions upon the ballot calling for $17,600,000. It refused to place on the ballot a proposition to issue $1,000,000 for extensions of the city water system.

The Reed resolution proposing to bind the Council not to issue any more twenty-one-year franchises for street railways until after the charter amendment election was turned down yesterday. Reed was declared by Councilman Andrews "an obstructionist, and so considered by thousands of citizens of Los Angeles."

Commissioner Johnson stated yesterday that by the 15th inst. there will be entirely completed 190 miles of the Los Angeles aqueduct, extending from the intake to Fairmont.

Plans were made yesterday for an active campaign against the initiative dance hall ordinance, and 176,000 copies of Commissioner McDill's argument against it have been printed to be sent to the voters. Ministers are to be asked to preach on the subject next Sunday.

At the City Hall.

BOND ELECTION MIDDLE APRIL.

NEARLY EIGHTEEN MILLIONS FOR THESE PROPOSITIONS.

City Council Turns Down McKenzie's Plan to Submit Issue for Extending Water Mains into Districts Inadequately Served, But all Others Will Go on Ballot.

April 15 is the date officially set by the City Council yesterday for the bond election. The ordinance authorizing the holding of such an election and designating what propositions shall appear on the ballot was adopted by unanimous consent of the Council, under a suspension of the rules.

Councilman McKenzie made a fight to get included in the bond propositions one calling for $1,000,000 for the purpose of extending water mains into territories now inadequately supplied. He was seconded by a delegation of Hollywood residents who are deeply interested in securing aqueduct water.

This brought about a long discussion in which Commissioner Graham of the Public Service Commission participated. He declared that the commission expects to be able to take care of needed water main extensions when it gets a release of the money from water department revenues now used to prosecute work on the main trunk line to the city; but that this board is opposed to rescinding the rule requiring payment from property owners of 50 cents per foot for extensions of service.

Hollywood people are strongly opposed to the 50-cent rule, but declare they would gladly accept aqueduct water and pay a rate that would be high enough to equal what other portions of the city have to pay in taxes for sinking fund and interest on the aqueduct bonds, but from which Hollywood is exempt.

The McKenzie resolution to reconsider the Council's action so that his proposition might be placed on the ballot was defeated by a vote of four to three.

The ballot will contain propositions amounting to $17,600,000. This is in accordance with the original plan. They will include:

Bonds for the Fernando-Chatsworth water distribution system amounting to $2,000,000.

Bonds for the main trunk line through Franklin Canyon, to bring aqueduct waters to Los Angeles, amounting to $1,500,000.

Bonds for constructing or acquiring a distributing system for electric power from the aqueduct power project, amounting to $6,500,000.

Bonds for the erection of a new City Hall, amounting to $1,000,000.

"AN OBSTRUCTIONIST."

SO ANDREWS BRANDS REED.

Councilman Reed's pet resolution, calling upon the City Council to pledge itself to grant no more twenty-one-year street railway franchises until after the charter amendment election, died a violent death at yesterday's Council session. Only Reed and Whiffen voted for it, and not only was it buried deep in oblivion, but Reed himself was branded by Councilman Andrews as "an obstructionist, as considered by thousands of citizens of Los Angeles."

The main contest against the resolution was made by Andrews. He declared that the Council had before it for guidance simply the plain ordinance that designated twenty-one years as the length of tenure of street railway franchises, and that while the indeterminate feature may be incorporated some day, it is not now the law, and when the recent proposed charter was submitted to the people, carrying this provision, it was defeated by a vote of more than 3 to 1.

He declared that the policy of the Council should be to conform to the provisions of the ordinance and issue franchises accordingly in cases where it is obviously to the benefit of the city as a whole and will give relief to large sections of residential districts.

Reed contended that the indeterminate feature is certain to become a law of the city, and that its provisions could not be attacked logically; therefore the Council should refrain from granting any further franchises until the people could express themselves upon it. He did not succeed in arousing any other support, however, than that of Whiffen and in the controversy that ensued, Andrews declared that Reed was an obstructionist and was so considered by thousands of citizens.

Land Sale Continues.

The rush of property owners to pay their delinquent Exposition Park assessments has subsided to such an extent that Col. W. G. Schreiber, head of the Bureau of Street Assessments, is now conducting all-day sales of lots forfeited for the delinquency. These sales continue daily until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and about 200 lots per day are being sold, bringing in an average of $2000 per day. This programme will be continued until all delinquent lots are disposed of.

Grand Jury Recommendations.

The grand jury sent to the City Council yesterday a statement that its attention had been called to the conduct of the City Jail, the particular instance considered being that of the death of Charles Quinn, who met with an accident and was taken to the jail and registered as a drunk on February 10, but who died from his injuries. The grand jury says that it has been informed of other similar cases, and it recommends that surgeons be required to be in attendance at the time of incarceration of prisoners in order to give proper examination, and that surgeons accompany patrol wagons in emergency calls.

Campaign Against Ordinance.

The argument against the initiative dance hall ordinance which was prepared by Police Commissioner McDill has been issued in printed form and 176,000 copies will be sent out to the voters. Chaplain Nave of the Ministerial Union is taking up an active campaign to defeat the ordinance and will try to have as many ministers as possible preach upon the subject next Sunday. Mrs. Katherine Pierce Wheat has taken up the work among club women, and proprietors of dancing academies are working against the ordinance, which was fathered by W. A. Engle and Fred Solomon, apparently to allow Solomon's dance hall to operate. This place had its permit revoked by the Police Commission, but has been used almost constantly since then for "benefit" dances.

Work on the Aqueduct.

Commissioner Johnson of the Board of Public Works, who is head of the Los Angeles Aqueduct Bureau, stated yesterday that by the 15th of March all work on the aqueduct from the intake to Fairmont, a distance of 190 miles, will be entirely completed, and that while the maximum number of men employed at any one time on this mammoth project was 3500, by the date mentioned not more than 300 men will be employed on both the aqueduct and power projects. The main work now is clearing up after the main task has been practically completed. About 600 feet of tunnel work is still required in the lower level of the power tunnel.

Housing for patrolmen is being provided at convenient points, and arrangements are made for constant patrol of the aqueduct by men on horseback.

There is now a flow of 300 second feet into the upper Haiwee reservoir, and the reservoir is filling at the rate of two feet per day. When a large head of water has accumulated, the earth dyke between this and the lower reservoir will be cut and the forces of the water will be utilized to cut this dyke out.

More Street-name Changes.

Thorthowald avenue becomes Avenue Thirty-three; Woodlawn and Fillmore avenues become Avenue Thirty-four; Ferndale avenue is now Avenue Thirty-five; Parkview Place and a portion of Fletcher drive will bear the name of Avenue Thirty-six.

No Action Until Tuesday.

Owing to the absence of President Williams on account of illness, the City Council took no action yesterday toward filling the vacancy caused by the death of Councilman Lusk. It was decided that no action shall be taken until next Tuesday, when all eight members are expected to be present.

While it is known that several of the Councilmen are in favor of the appointment of Michael Collins, a former member from the old Ninth Ward, there was filed with the City Clerk yesterday a petition of about 400 Boyle Heights citizens asking for the appointment of W. J. Bryant, a real estate man and who served for several years as the secretary of the Ninth Ward Improvement Association.

Adjourned Council Session.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held at 11 o'clock Friday forenoon, to consider matters to be presented by Special Counsel Hewitt before he returns to his duties as a State Senator.

Among these will be applications for franchises at the harbor, which include the wharf franchise of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, one for a fish cannery site for Garrett L. Hogan, and two ferry franchises, one applied for by the Rapid Transit Navigation Company, to operate between Wilmington and East San Pedro, and another applied for by the San Pedro Transportation Company, to operate between Wilmington and the government breakwater.

Abandons Proceedings.

The Council voted yesterday to abandon all proceedings for the opening of Avenue Fifty-six across the Santa Fe right of way. The three crossings which it was desired to have formally dedicated to the city have been in public use for the past ten years, but the court awarded the railroad $900 each for them, and property owners in that vicinity considered this too high a price to pay for a privilege the public has exercised for years, and petitioned for an abandonment of proceedings.

Time to Plead.

Hubert Lipman, auctioneer and manager for Ellis Zemansky, owner of an auction shop at No. 148 South Main street, was arraigned before Police Judge Fredericksen yesterday, charged with having sold J. J. Brutting a watch for $7, alleged to be worth $35, but with an asserted valuation of $1.90. Lipman was given to the 6th inst. to plead. He was arrested by License Inspector McPhillips after the charges of Brutting had been investigated by three plain clothesmen who bought another cheap watch under similar circumstances.

Cigarettes—Trouble.

H. Cornbleth, Pico and Georgia streets; A. R. Johnson, No. 1500 West Pico street, and H. E. Phibbs, No. 1402 West Pico street, were arraigned before Police Judge Williams yesterday, charged with having sold cigarettes to boys. Cornbleth pleaded not guilty and will be tried Friday. Johnson and Phibbs were given until tomorrow to plead.

At the Courthouse.

UNCANNY END OF HER STORY.

WOMAN FAINTS AS SHE LEAVES WITNESS STAND.

Reluctantly Repeats Remark Alleged to Have Been Made Concerning Her Sister, and Swoons When Excused—Uncomplimentary Things Are Told of Patrolman.

If the ears of Patrolman Level burned yesterday it was because his former wife and the latter's sister related to Judge Monroe a little incident which, if true, must have created a sensation at the Temple Block.

They said they tore his star off his coat while he was acting as crossing officer at Temple and Spring streets, several weeks ago. The reason advanced is that Level had failed to pay his wife the alimony ordered by the court.

Mrs. Level was granted a divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty. He was ordered to pay her $50 a month. On several occasions he was ordered into court on an order to show cause. A motion to modify the judgment was made in his behalf. He fell in arrears $80 in his alimony payments. This brought him into contempt of court, but he escaped punishment by paying yesterday. The alimony was reduced to $35 monthly.

During the testimony of the sister yesterday, she mentioned a remark Level is alleged to have made to his wife. Because it was not complimentary the witness did not like to repeat it. The court insisted that as it had been told Mrs. Level's attorney she could tell him, and reluctantly it was told. She fainted on leaving the stand.

MAY RESPECT WISHES.

PETITION IN SUSPENSE.

A petition to order the sale of all the property of the late Mrs. Ascencion Machada, valued at $130,000, on the ground that it is for the best interests of the estate, was before Superior Judge Rives yesterday. The court doubted such an order should be made, and intimated he may not grant the petition. It is his custom to distribute an estate according to the terms of the will, he said. The petition will be considered further Friday.

Although there are about fifty heirs, the will is not contested. The petition for the order of sale is concurred in by all but two of the heirs, the attorney said. The estate is left to Luisa Olivera Machada, an adopted daughter, who receives the bulk; Frank and Lena Bernard, nephew and niece, and Andres Machada, a brother.

The desire to have the estate distributed and the intimation that there has been a private understanding with the collateral heirs, explains in a measure why no contest has followed the filing of the will. Ascencion Machada was the daughter of Augustine and Romona Sepulveda Machada, and inherited at their death large tracts at Venice and the Palms. By her will she leaves the Bernards fifteen acres and her brother twenty-three acres. Approximately fifty-eight acres are bequeathed to her adopted daughter.

ADO ABOUT ORDINANCE.

CORRAL MEASURE OPPOSED.

An attack on the constitutionality of the horse corral ordinance is vigorously fought by the city, which finds that there is a tendency to rush to the courts for an injunction with the view of preventing criminal prosecution. In the suit brought by G. R. Curtis, who asserts contracts worth $100,000 are held up by an ordinance prohibiting the stabling of his horses in a barn on Boyle Heights, the demurrer of the city was overruled by Judge Wellborn, who told Curtis's attorney that he did not think his judgment would be valuable if the court did not have jurisdiction.

Assistant City Attorney Cryer argued that a court of equity cannot stop the prosecution of a criminal case. If the ordinance is invalid, this can be shown in the prosecution as a defense, and the case did not have to come into a court of equity. He pointed out that the trial of Curtis for violation of the ordinance had been set in the Police Court, and two days before it was called, he sued out an injunction, preventing the Police Court from going on with the case. Curtis alleges the ordinance was passed as he was rearing his barn.

DOESN'T MATERIALIZE.

SUIT OVER TOWNSITE.

The affairs of the Crestmore Syndicate, in the hands of a receiver, will be aired when the suit of Charles E. Lapp is tried June 10. The date was set yesterday by Superior Judge Oster of San Bernardino, who came here for that purpose.

While the land involved in the suit is in San Bernardino county, it was decided to try the case here, because a majority of those who are interested live in this city. Another end of the litigation will be heard in San Bernardino when it will be stipulated that the evidence produced here may be used in that action.

It appears that the syndicate bought up a large tract in San Bernardino county, proposing to establish a townsite. Nothing seems to have been done, and Lapp, who holds the assigned claims of others approximating $15,000, brought suit for a partition.

WOULD SEE WORLD.

TOUR IS CUT SHORT.

Robert Allen Bates, a diminutive negro boy, is listed in the Juvenile Court as a chronic runaway. He was taken to court yesterday and evinced the liveliest interest. His eyes shone and he seemed as interested as though he sat at a motion-picture show.

The boy's father is dead; his mother works and his two sisters go to school. His loneliness prompted a tour of exploration in the big world. He started out, and although he is only 9, he has walked to Pasadena and other near-by cities in search for adventure.

He told simply yesterday that he likes to see houses and people. He likes a circus, and especially the big policemen interest him. His ambition is to become a patrolman. The court will find a home for Robert.

LAST CHANCE GONE.

CHECKS LEAD TO PRISON.

A mania for fictitious checks has caused W. B. Stone, a former newspaper man, to be sent to San Quentin. Stone was sentenced yesterday by Judge Willis to serve two years and six months.

The case, the court said, puzzled him a great deal. It had hardly the symptoms of similar criminal cases. He described it as a mania. The porch climber, the second-story man and other professionals are thieves who work their lines, but do not hesitate to steal if other avenues are open, but Stone confined himself to drawing fictitious drafts and checks and spending the proceeds.

Stone thanked the court for his leniency and said he will never allow himself to fall again.

STREET CAR ETIQUETTE.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEE SUED.

Trial of the suit of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Nelson against the Los Angeles Railway and W. J. Reid in Judge Dooling's court involves damages approximating $60,000. Featured in it is the loss of nine teeth which Mrs. Nelson testified were knocked out by the fist of Reid, an employee of the company, who was off duty at the time and riding as a passenger.

The plaintiff's evidence showed that Reid told Nelson to move up, but as the car was crowded, Nelson said he could not do so. Reid is then alleged to have said he would show him how to move. He grabbed Nelson and Mrs. Nelson, endeavoring to protect her husband from assault, slapped Reid in the face. This resulted, according to her, in the blow which cost her nine teeth. Attorney Sterry was granted a non-suit as to the company, and the case proceeded against Reid.

SUE FOR PROFITS.

ARE NONE, SAY STUDENTS.

Ten former students of the United Trades Contracting School Company combined in a suit brought by H. W. Francis against the concern yesterday for the amount of their fees and an accounting of profits in contract on which they were employed.

It is alleged that the contract contains a clause entitling the students to perform work on contracts and to share in the profits. It is averred that although they performed such work for periods ranging from one to six months, they could not get an accounting. They ask judgment for $1250.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

BOY PLEADS. Although the prosecution is prepared to show that Martin Rickert deliberately shot and killed his father and that the crime was premeditated, the extreme youth of the lad and his chivalous defense of his mother from the alleged cruel treatment of his father will be pleaded in extenuation. Martin pleaded not guilty to the charge yesterday and Judge Finlayson set his trial for the 21st inst.

SURPRISES THE COURT. After an elaborate interpretation of Judge McCormick's question: "What will you do if I give you probation?" Wong Chew replied in excellent English, "Why, Your Honor, I will be a good citizen." Wong will be given a chance to make good. He was arrested for having stolen cigarettes from a Japanese store. At the trial the jury disagreed. He later pleaded guilty, and obtained his release yesterday.

IMPROMPTU WITNESS. The testimony of Bailiff Berdie was material in obtaining for Iola E. Hix a divorce from her husband yesterday. Berdie was an impromptu witness. He had occasion to caution Hix for some disorder in the courtroom, and testified he heard him say to his wife, "I'll get you."

Four Men Arraigned on Disturbing Peace Charge in Connection With Divorce Suit of Woman.

Claude R. Blackmon, head of a local detective agency; Frank and Albert Blackmon, his brothers, and Arthur Pierson, were arraigned before Judge Williams in the University Police Court yesterday charged with having disturbed the peace. Mrs. Ina Evans, No. 1147 East Thirty-third street, mother-in-law of the detective, swore to the complaint. They pleaded not guilty. Trial was set for Friday.

The arraignment of the four is an aftermath of the separation of Claude R. Blackmon and his wife and the latter's suit for a divorce. It is alleged by Mrs. Evans that the four men forcibly entered her residence early Sunday morning.

The next day, while Mrs. Blackmon was in the Superior Court in reference to her divorce, it is alleged that Blackmon drove to the Evans residence and kidnaped his 3-year-old son Robert.

Fears Will Founded.

In an effort to escape Motorcycle Officers Harlan and Walls Monday night, John Lenihan drove his motorcycle sixty miles an hour on East Ninth street from Towne avenue to Mateo street.

"What was your hurry?" Police Judge Fredericks asked. "Why did you want to get away?"

"I've been arrested once before for speeding," replied Lenihan, "and I was afraid if they caught me I'd be sent to jail."

He was committed to jail without bail until this afternoon, when sentence will be pronounced. He is 20 years old and lives at No. 3001 East Fourth street.

Faces Three Charges.

C. R. Welchel, No. 638 Euclid avenue, was haled before Police Judge Fredericksen yesterday by Patrolman Gillespie for having driven an auto while intoxicated. While he was making a plea for clemency because of his wife and babies, Motorcycle Officers Harlan and Walls walked into the courtroom.

"Your Honor," said Walls, "we've got two other complaints against this man. One is for having driven twenty-seven miles an hour at Ninth street and Maple avenue, and for having driven without tail lights."

"Why did you get drunk?" asked the court.

"My first arrest so unsettled my nerves," replied the defendant, "that I took a few drinks to steady them."

He was committed to jail without bail until this afternoon, when sentence will be pronounced.

Another Chance.

"Your face looks mighty familiar to me," said the court. "Seems to me that you've been in court off and on for the last twenty years, but always escaped a jail sentence by your plea to be given another chance."

"Nope," replied Wilson, "you're wrong. I've been coming up here for thirty-eight years. If you'll give me another chance, Your Honor, I'll leave today for Arizona, and never come back."

"You've got your another chance," said the court. "It will be your last."

10,000 Monterey Cypress Trees to be Given Away to School Children, Thursday

Friday, March 7th, will be Arbor Day, the anniversary of Luther Burbank's natal day. In many cities the school children, and at all the great colleges, the students plant shrubs and trees with ceremony, for the beautifying of city or campus. Many cities have appropriated large sums for this purpose, and the newspapers throughout this country are encouraging the planting of trees and shrubs on this day. Hamburger's, alert to the opportunity of commending the practice, have procured ten thousand beautiful Monterey Cypress Trees, potted and ready to plant. These trees will be given, with our compliments, to the first 10,000 school children who will plant and care for them. Call on Thursday, March 6th.
